SENATORS ASK U. S. TAKE ISLES IN BOTH OCEANS

Bermuda, Formosa are Included.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—The senate chamber rang today with demands that the United States acquire all the islands necessary for American protection. Chairman Reynolds [D., N. C.] of the military affairs committee urged that those required from Great Britain and France be taken in part payment of their World War I. and II. war debts, and that any possessions gained in the Dutch West Indies be regarded as payment for the expected American rescue of the Dutch East Indies.

Sen. Chandler.

The discussion began unexpectedly when veteran Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.] introduced an unheralded resolution. It provided:

That in settling the Japanese war, the United States should take as permanent possessions all islands which on Dec. 5, 1941, were in the possession of Japan or mandated to her, and which lie between the equator and the 30th parallel of latitude north, including Formosa and Ryukyu Islands.

Bermuda and West Indies.

That in the entire post-war settlement, the United States acquire Bermuda and all West Indies islands owned by European nations.

Reynolds gave his approval to the plan, but insisted it should be expanded to include all the islands necessary to defense.

"We should take the British islands we need," Reynolds said, "appraise them, and deduct the price from what England owes us from World War I. and World War II. We should do the same to Curacao [in the Dutch West Indies] in return for saving the Dutch East Indies.

"We should ask France for islands off Newfoundland and deduct the price from the French war debt."

Wants Realistic America.

Sen. Chandler [D., Ky.] warned that a realistic America must not take the position it did after the last world war—that it wanted no territory and so let strategic islands fall by mandate into the hands of potential enemies and nations too weak to hold them. He told of the money spent for lend-lease and for military installations in islands not owned by the United States and said:

"We must have every island in every ocean that is a threat to the United States."

Expressing complete agreement with McKellar's resolution, Chandler declared it was just as "foolish" to leave islands in the hands of allies unable to defend them as it is to leave them with enemies and added:

"We must say that we are going to have possession of every island in every ocean, which, if in the possession of any enemy, or a weak friend, would be a direct menace to the people of the United States."

Patricia Tells 'All I Know in Drake Killing'

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Patricia Born Goodbody yesterday told all she says she knows of the murder of her mother, Mrs. Adele Born Williams, in the Drake hotel last Jan. 19.

In so doing she broke her silence of seven months. The interview is the first and only public statement she has given since her mother's death. She made it, she said, in a sincere effort to clear up many of the discrepancies hindering solution of the baffling murder.

Mrs. Goodbody said: "When I think that some one may not believe what I am saying, it drives me crazy. Do you think that if I knew who killed my mother I wouldn't say? Who wants that woman caught more than I?"

Story Given Voluntarily.

It should be noted that Mrs. Goodbody voluntarily gave her account of the shooting in room 836 of the Drake and subsequent events on the night of Jan. 19 to THE TRIBUNE. Her manner and her replies to questions were forthright. She did not hesitate to give an answer to any question nor did she evade any issue raised.

Mrs. Goodbody explained that after studying the series of articles in THE TRIBUNE by Capt. Thomas Harrison analyzing the murder she felt that she could easily straighten out many confused points by telling her complete story. Mrs. Goodbody was distressed, she said, that only fragmentary details of her story had been given. THE TRIBUNE today prints Mrs. Goodbody's full story with complete detachment.

Mrs. Goodbody is 29, blue eyed, and fragile. She was the younger of Mrs. Williams' two daughters by her first husband, Edgar Born, Chicago merchant tailor. Her sister, Elizabeth Born, 33, accompanied her for the interview.

Here for Social Visit.

Mrs. Goodbody began the long recital by explaining that her mother, then married to Frank Starr Williams, formerly attache at the American embassy in Japan, had come to Chicago on Jan. 6 for a social visit.

"Now, there was some talk that your mother was changing her will because she was annoyed with you," she was told. "Had she discussed that with you?"

"Never, never!" Mrs. Goodbody denied. "We never discussed it."

"We never discussed it," Mrs. Goodbody reiterated.

"Did she ever criticize you," indicating both sisters, "for the way you handled money, saying that you," turning to Elizabeth, "were more profligate?"

Describe Her as Excitable.

"Well, that was mother's characterization," Elizabeth smiled.

Their mother, the sisters declared, was an emotional, excitable, voluble woman.

"Every stranger who saw us together," Mrs. Goodbody added, "might have thought we were having a wild argument. She was a most animated person."

Mrs. Goodbody then was told of

Tells of Plan for Cromwell Book on Doris

New York, Aug. 15 [Special].—James H. R. Cromwell today was assailed by lawyers of Doris Duke Cromwell—his wife in New Jersey and his ex-wife in 47 other states—as a male gold digger who tried to obtain a million dollars from the tobacco heiress and who threatened to publish a book and give lectures on his life with her.

The charge was made in an affidavit submitted by Thomas L. Perkins, Mrs. Cromwell's attorney, to Supreme Court Justice Thomas A. Aurelio in proceedings by which the heiress hopes to establish the validity of her disputed divorce decree received in Reno in December, 1943.

The divorce was ruled invalid May 9, 1944, by an Elizabeth, N. J., court after Cromwell, former United States minister to Canada, blamed the breakup of their marriage in part to the fact that he was a "disciple of President Roosevelt" while the Duke "power interests" were "good old fashioned Republican reactionaries."

Deposition Sought.

Mrs. Cromwell's lawyers today sought to have Justice Aurelio force Frank Cadwell, a 5th av. doorman, to make a deposition for use in the Nevada courts, but the justice reserved decision.

The doorman testified during the New Jersey proceedings instituted by Cromwell that he saw Mrs. Cromwell in New York last September, when she was establishing six weeks' residence in Nevada.

The affidavit of Perkins told of a meeting between himself and W. L. Baldwin, Mrs. Cromwell's business manager, and Sol Rosenblatt, attorney for Cromwell, in August, 1943.

"He [Rosenblatt] stated he felt the interests of both parties would be served if Mrs. Cromwell would agree to make a money settlement," the affidavit said.

Planned Book on Doris.

"He stated he had been able to prevent Mr. Cromwell from publishing a book about his life with Mrs. Cromwell and from giving a series of lectures on that subject, but stated he did not know how much longer he could control Mr. Cromwell.

"He said he felt a settlement much preferable to a messy litigation. When asked what figure he had in mind, he said he thought something around a million dollars would be acceptable."

Perkins said Cromwell was told to go ahead with his writings and lectures as Doris had nothing to hide.

"While in our opinion some small settlement to Mr. Cromwell on his nuisance value was advisable, we had no idea of recommending anything like the amount suggested," Perkins declared.

Arthur Garfield Hays, counsel for Cromwell and the doorman, denied that Cromwell was trying to "hold his wife up for money." Hays, in a statement, said Cromwell merely "refused to be used as a tool and pawn by the rulers of the Duke millions."

DORSEY'S WIFE WON'T GIVE HER VERSION OF BATTLE ON BALCONY

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 15 [Special].—Actress Pat Dane today declined to tell district attorney's office investigators her version of the Aug. 5 "battle of the balcony" involving her husband, Band Leader Tommy Dorsey, Actor Jon Hall, and several others at her husband's hotel apartment.

Atty. N. Joseph Ross said Dorsey's wife was upset, physically and mentally, and did not feel she could add anything to the story of previous witnesses, who said the fight started over Hall's amorous attentions toward the actress.

District Atty. Fred N. Howser said Mrs. Dorsey's action will "probably force us to take the matter to the grand jury where she can be subpenaed to testify."

'Yank' Taylor Made Chicago R.O.T.C. Head

Lt. Col. Oscar N. [Yank] Taylor, director of public relations for the sixth service command and a former Chicago newspaperman, will become head of the city's high school reserve officers training corps Sept. 1, succeeding Col. William F. Morrison, who has held the post for nine years.

Col. Morrison [top] and Lt. Col. Taylor.

Announcement of the appointment was made yesterday by Supt. of Schools William H. Johnson after receipt of a letter from Brig. Gen. W. E. Guthner, commander of district 3, 6th service command, disclosing Col. Morrison had asked for relief.

Served in World War I.

Lt. Col. Taylor, a native of Cook county, is 47. He was graduated from The Citadel, Charleston, S. C., and the Medill school of journalism of Northwestern university. In the first World war he served as a second lieutenant, and left active duty with the rank of first lieutenant in 1925 after a tour of duty as an R. O. T. C. instructor at Schurz High school.

He was employed by the Chicago Evening Post, was an instructor at the Medill school and director of public relations for Radio Corporation of America before he joined the staff of the Chicago Times in 1929. He was night city editor of the Times when he returned to active army duty Feb. 16, 1942.

Promotions Are Rapid.

Promotions came rapidly. He was made a captain in June, 1942; a major in December of the same year, and attained his present rank in June, 1943.

Col. Morrison, who is 63, had been retired, but was ordered to continue active duty June 30, 1942. A graduate of the United States Military academy at West Point and the command and general staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., and the War college at Washington, he became professor of military science and tactics in the Chicago public schools in September, 1935.

50,000 Germans in Pocket; Opening Cut to 9 Miles.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 16 [Wednesday].—Altho about one-half of the Germans caught in the Normandy pocket have slipped thru the Falaise-Argentan gap, which now has been narrowed to nine miles, about 50,000 men of the German 7th army, with most of their heavy material, are believed to be still between the pincers of the Canadians and British on the north and the Americans on the west and south.

The Canadians yesterday pushed within a mile of Falaise and from a series of dominating hills above the town their guns were able to shell the enemy over open sights. The Americans were pressing steadily forward to close the gap from the south.

Prisoners were coming in steadily. The Canadians reported taking 1,000 more.

Control Long Straight Road.

The capture early yesterday of Epaney, on the road from Falaise to Mezidon, enabled the allies to rush forward heavy guns and now Canadian armored forces control the long straight road leading northeastward to Lisieux.

The Canadians reported the Germans had been massing numerous tanks near Falaise, apparently for a counter-attack. They were blasted by rocket firing Typhoons and the counter-attack never developed.

To the northwest of the Canadian sector the British advanced 2½ miles south of Thury-Harcourt, but were hampered by mine fields and booby traps. The British were only a mile north of the German citadel of Vassy.

Altho the German pocket is half the size it was 48 hours ago, the enemy has not lost control of the situation.

Heavy Rain Hits Area.

A torrential rainstorm which began in the region of the Falaise gap last night sent swarms of allied war planes back to their bases, but also may clog the German escape routes, making roads impassable to tanks.

Gen. Eisenhower, the supreme commander in northwestern France, said, "This week is marking a very definite climax in one phase of the operational plan that has been in effect since D-day. Just what will be the result in the sum total no one can say. It is certain that German forces congregated on the front are taking a sound beating. In the campaigns lying ahead numbers of such tactical victories must be won because, even if we realize our fondest hopes in a situation such as this, we are still a long way from the Rhine."

LONG AND SWIFT MARCHES MARK 3D ARMY SMASH

[The following dispatch is the first to present a vivid picture of how the German 7th army is being cut to pieces in the Falaise-Argentan trap. It tells of the jubilation of the leaders of the United States 3d army which made the lightning sweep across the Breton peninsula and then turned northeast thru Le Mans, Alencon, and Argentan to trap the German 7th army. Correspondent Cromie accompanied the 3d army on its dash. His dispatch was written before censorship permitted identification of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., as 3d army commander.]

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN BRITTANY, Aug. 14 [Delayed].—Cautious jubilation over the swift progress of American forces which today were far north of Le Mans was shared by all the high commanders here. One said:

"It looks to me as tho the Germans have quit. It is the first time that I have ever seen a German sit down and let some one tie a rope around his neck. We have encountered German troops time after time who have been completely dumbfounded to see us. Our men have come 180 miles in nine days. Our infantry has walked 65 miles in three days, fighting all the way.

"We marched by day and by night and we are now in fine shape—plenty of supplies, plenty of reserves, gasoline, food, everything. Reports from the enemy still are very incomplete. But yesterday a division took a thousand prisoners and could have taken thousands more, but by-passed them because of lack of time."

"Just Like Making Sausage."

Another high officer also was brimming with gleeful confidence. He said: "You know how people make sausage in Virginia? Put the meat in, then grind it and it comes out in small pieces? I think the small pieces are beginning to come out now. I talked to captured German Lt. Gen. Spang the other day and told him that I thought it stupid for a professional soldier to continue fighting when his troops were just being murdered.

"Spang said, 'As a professional soldier I cannot discuss that. But I can tell you that I am obeying orders.'"

An American officer asked why the Falaise-Argentan gap was still remaining open, giving the Germans an avenue of escape, said:

"All the great pursuits of history —[Joachim] Murat's at Jena [Germany, in the Napoleonic wars], [Gen. William T.] Sherman's at the end of the Civil war—were based on the theory of leaving a hole open and permitting the enemy to run and exhaust themselves. I think the movement of allied infantry just completed probably is the greatest I know anything about."

March 27 Miles in a Day.

One previously quoted high officer told us that we were killing eight or 10 Germans to each allied soldier lost in the American sector.

One American division which has spearheaded the drive has marched as high as 27 miles a day, fighting as it went.

As the American officer commanding the push said, "They are fighting like hell. I shall be glad to have them with me any time. They came off the boat, went many miles, gassed up, and then went right into action. They are foolhardy and full of enthusiasm. They fought all night Saturday and practically wiped up parts of two German divisions."

There is still hard fighting ahead, both inside the trap and at whatever points the Germans attempt to find an exit. But the allies have complete mastery of the air and seem also to have complete mastery of the highways.

ROME, Aug. 15 (AP).—Thousands of allied troops, mainly Americans and French, who swarmed onto the south coast of France on a broad front between Marseille and Nice today, have seized and extended firm beachheads against inconsequential German opposition. They drove northward with the avowed intention of joining the allies in northwestern France.

An allied bulletin at 10:40 p. m. (3:40 p. m. Chicago time) said American and French troops before dawn took the sentinel islands of Port Cros and Levant, 10 miles off the coast, and seized Cap Negre, on the mainland due north of the islands and 28 miles east of Toulon.

Other specific locations were not given, the beaches being placed merely in the 125 mile strip of coast between Marseille and Nice. The Germans said the focal point of the allied invasion was at St. Raphael, 30 miles northeast up the coast from Cap Negre.

Jeeps Running All Over.

American airmen who flew over the beaches late in the day said there was no sign of any concerted enemy opposition, and that American vehicles were "running all over the countryside."

The official night statement said, "On the beaches of the mainland, where landings were successful against light opposition, the operation is proceeding satisfactorily. Substantial numbers of allied troops, together with guns, munitions, and supplies, had been landed across the beaches of southern France by dark this evening.

"The beachhead has been extended and widened during the day's operation. Enemy opposition remains sporadic, and no enemy air attacks have yet been reported.

High Ground Captured.

"Some of the high ground back of the beaches is in our hands. The islands of Port Cros and Levant in the Hyeres group, and Cap Negre on the mainland of southern France were captured before dawn this morning by American and French troops landed from ships of the United States and of the royal and royal Canadian navies.

"During the operation two small enemy ships were sunk and prisoners taken.

"It is reported that naval gunfire was very effective. The navy's task of landing troops with their stores and equipment continues without intermission. Convoys already are leaving the assault area and new convoys are arriving."

[The German controled Paris radio early Wednesday said there was heavy fighting between Cannes and Nice and between St. Raphael and Cap Camarat, with Gen. Henry Maitland Wilson personally directing the latter operation. An NBC reporter, however, said American Liberty ships already were being unloaded in Cannes harbor. Other dispatches quoted a German military spokesman as predicting a "fifth allied front," a landing on the Dalmatian coast, as a result of the meeting between Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Tito in Italy.]

Prisoners Are Demoralized.

Word from the beaches indicated that German prisoners taken showed almost total demoralization, primarily as a result of the American breakthru in northwestern France, which they realized meant that the fatherland's downfall was near.

One dispatch from a correspondent in the field said that by afternoon the invaders were well into southern France and going ahead fast against Germans who were caught by surprise. Allied casualties were reported to have been slight.

Thousands of allied parachutists and air borne troopers landed well inland at 4:30 a. m., also against scanty opposition, following the opening blow against the offshore islands. A picked force had neutralized the islands' big guns silently to pave the way for the tactical surprise of the sea borne landings.

The air forces announced that more than 14,000 pilots and air crews participated in the day's operations. This was exclusive of air borne troops and parachutists.

Veteran American units formed the major spearheads of the onslaught. Some had been thru the fighting in Tunisia, Sicily, and Italy. Alongside them were French units.

Army of France Fights.

An allied bulletin said British troops also were participating, but a navy bulletin referred only to the landing of French and American troops. This presumably indicated that the British participants were among the air borne forces only.

Backed by more than 800 warships, the greatest naval force ever assembled in the Mediterranean, the troops went ashore in broad daylight at 7:30 a. m. [12:30 a. m. Chicago time] at several unidentified points between Marseille and Nice.

"The army of France is in being again, fighting on its own soil," said a proclamation by Gen. Henry Maitland Wilson, allied commander in chief. Distributed by plane, his proclamation told the French the primary aim of the new invasion was "to drive out the Germans and join up with the allied armies advancing from Normandy," to form a solid front across France.

See No German Troops.

One allied pilot, acting as a naval artillery observer, said he had flown 60 miles inland without seeing any big concentration of German troops. The Germans apparently had been forced to pull a large part of their troops northward to meet the threat of Gen. Eisenhower.

[Stockholm dispatches said Swedish correspondents reported the Germans were fooled by dummy parachutists which dropped in the Marseilles area, and that Nazi troops had been diverted to the area "in the highest state of alarm" to round them up.]

American Liberators this morning bombed the road leading from the beach to Frejus, near the mouth of the Argens river, two miles from St. Raphael. Marauder bombers struck heavily during the morning at beach and gun installations in a 30 mile sector from west of Cannes to east of Toulon, the great naval base.

Other Liberators bombed five highway bridges over the great Rhone river between Valence and Avignon.

There was repeated evidence of the thinning of German defenses. Only a single Marauder formation reported seeing any anti-aircraft fire, and that was light. Only one pilot reported seeing any German tanks, and they were being dive-bombed by American Thunderbolts.

Railroads Knocked Out.

For hours the German air force was not in evidence at all. Finally Lightnings encountered 18 Messerschmitt 109s and shot down three of them. Thousands of sorties were flown by allied fighter pilots who reported they failed to see a sign of opposition.

An air force spokesman said the major tasks of knocking out railroads from the beachhead area northward thru the Rhone valley and eastward into northern Italy had been accomplished, and that the landing area was virtually isolated.

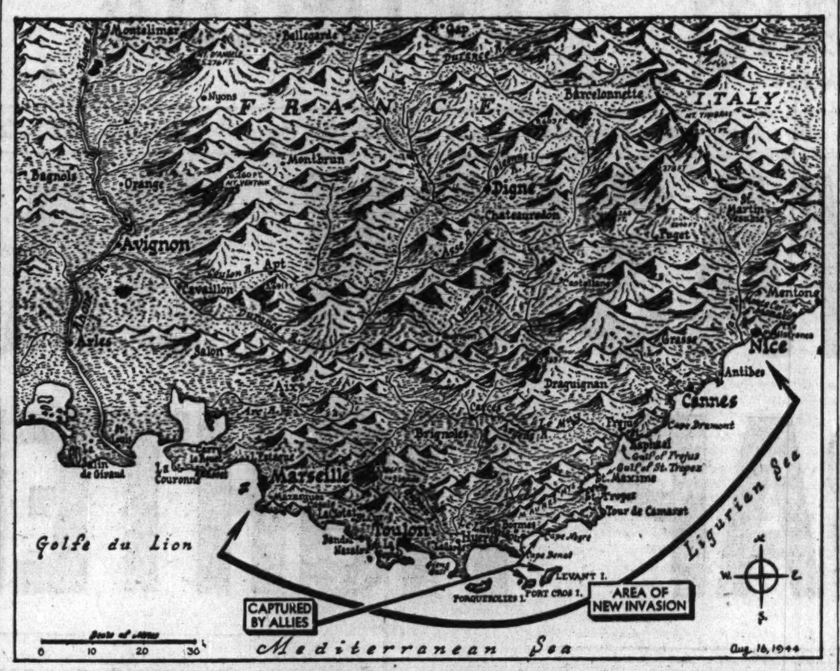
The allied planes dropped 44 tons of leaflets urging German troops to surrender and calling on French citizens to do everything in their power to help the invaders.

To support the great invasion army a big new service and supply organization—a continental base section—has been set up. Its work includes the rebuilding and operation of ports, operation of maintenance shops and countless rear establishments, and handling of the enormous supply lines.

Commander Not Identified.

The designation and composition of the invading armies remained military secrets. The field commander also was not identified. A denial was issued to London reports that Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, deputy to Wilson, was field commander.

More than 800 of our ships of all types are taking part in the operations. Warships of the Canadian navy are participating and vessels flying the ensigns of The Netherlands, Poland, Greece, and Belgium are also present.



The Mediterranean beachhead area of newest invasion by Americans and French, which includes the French Riviera coastline.

Relation of newest invasion of France to other war fronts.

for us have been scattered or captured.

Men, tanks, artillery, and material of all kinds have been pouring into three separate beaches since 8 o'clock this morning, and by now we have built up such strength that it seems almost certain we have come not only to stay but also to push on.

This ought to be the decisive blow for France, and everybody is astounded that it went off so easily.

Hell Precedes Landing.

It had been a night of terror for all French along the beaches and resort places, and some paid with their lives and destruction of their homes. But the allied air forces held back their heaviest telltale raids until daylight this morning.

Three hours of hell preceded the landing. Bombs, naval gunfire, and rockets flamed and roared into the beaches from daylight until H-hour.

Before the smoke lifted the troops were swarming up the beaches, hardly believing their luck, as engineers blasted their way thru cement walls and tanks drove in with hardly a shot coming from jerry. It all was proof that security was good, and so was the strategic plan.

Americans can be proud that this was their venture from its inception to this successful outcome—perhaps our greatest single contribution to the war in Europe.

The Germans doubtless will rally and throw in forces to stop the push as soon as they can; but meanwhile nothing counts today but the jubilation at the almost bloodless success of the great operation.

One master sergeant taken prisoner said he knew the army in northern France had been broken. For three months he had realized the war was lost, he said.

"There's no reason to fight," he added, "for whom should we fight?"

French Are Jubilant.

"You mean you are not fighting for Hitler any more?" I asked.

"That's it," he replied. "Anyway, we have got nothing to fight with."

Dejection of the German prisoners contrasted remarkably with the happiness of the French. The dozens of persons I talked to near the beach and in the first town we captured acted as if some dreadful nightmare had lifted from them.

In that town a crowd gathered around me, seeing that I could speak French, and told me their woes—little food, many humiliations.

"What do you think of De Gaulle?" I asked.

"We are all for De Gaulle," a spokesman answered.

"And Giraud?" I asked.

GERMAN BULLETINS.

Tuesday's German war bulletin said:

"The enemy after having intensified in the last few days his air attacks on defense installations and communications lines in the southern French coastal area landed in the area of Toulon-Cannes in the early morning hours [Tuesday]. Our coastal defense is engaged in a fight with enemy landing troops."

A late German high command statement broadcast by German radio last night said:

"Heavy battles are being fought on the heights of both sides of the mouth of Argens [river].

Report Further Landings.

"Southwest and northwest of St. Raphael the enemy is at the moment confining himself to artillery duels on the Bay of St. Tropez and Cap d'Antibes. The landing operation is, however, in full swing there.

"The enemy is trying to reenforce his two landing points at St. Raphael and Bormes, lying about 35 miles apart, by further landings between them and further to the east, so as to form a bridgehead capable of sustaining future operations.

"Our troops are basing their defense on the Toulon fortress and on the high mountain barriers to the north and east."

Bradley's hard driving Americans.

All along their front from Tinchebray to Argentan more gains were made and more prisoners taken as soldiers of Bradley's 12th army group strengthened their positions while Gen. Montgomery's Canadians and British were pressing down from the north.

All along the American line hundreds of guns, ranging from mighty, long range howitzers to 105 millimeter cannons, hammered every target picked by planes or infantry.

More shells from the north and south of the Falaise-Argentan gap were falling on the Germans' only way out: About 13 small, narrow, dusty lanes and secondary roads connecting with a better road to the east. Every time they shunted desperate columns into these smaller roads American planes would swoop down to set the vehicles blazing with streams of incendiary bullets.

Work to Surround Forest.

Within the forest of Andaine, known to contain one of the enemy's largest fuel and ammunition dumps, a large assembly of tanks was reported. Tonight the 1st army troops of Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges were working to surround the forest. But, it was considered possible, these tanks might make a bid for freedom by trying to dash to Argentan or Alencon against the area controled by the 3d army soldiers of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr.

In this encirclement only a few hundred prisoners were reported at first by Gen. Hodges' army. But in the 24 hours ending midnight last night, the total had reached 1,822, making a total for the 1st army since June 6 of 77,669.

On the western end of the pocket today, the Yanks, who had been meeting the toughtest German resistance from the 3d paratroop division—defenders of St. Lo—shoved these hardened veterans back and entered Tinchebray. The town was taken as the Americans went on south thru hills.

Bridge the Egrenne River.

Other Yanks pushed on against lighter resistance to bridge the Egrenne river. One armored column, with its usual support of doughboys well up toward the front, secured a hill south of the forest of Halouze, about three miles north of Domfront. Domfront was secured yesterday in a steady advance of our central force which sent columns on from two to three miles beyond the town.

Still other doughboys swung between the forest of Andaine and La Ferte-Mace. They fanned out, one column swinging northwest to cut off the great Andaine woods, while the other went on around La Ferte-Mace.

On the 1st army's right flank tanks were fighting slowly beyond Ranes, which was captured yesterday. German armor, part of the same formation which at last reports held the northern part of Argentan, fought savagely with every gun to delay the Americans who were bringing up more support from the rear to strengthen the sector adjoining the 3d army.

Occupy Many More Villages.

Within the sector of the front from Tinchebray to Ranes many small villages, hamlets, and crossroads were occupied. Of these the largest are Sauvagere, northeast of Ger, and Yorando, two and one-half miles south of Tinchebray.

The American advance was a series of sharp thrusts as one would extend the fingers of one hand. Between these fingers German units became trapped in countless small encirclements.

One of our armored forces reported it took prisoners from 11 separate German divisions and an American infantry division has counted at its prisoners' compound Germans from 18 separate divisions. This conglomerate mixture was more evidence of the confusion existing behind the enemy's lines. Soldiers had been trying to flee, for example, to Flers in the center of the pocket and the focal point of most of the pocket's roads.

Make Difficult Maneuvers.

As an example of the difficult maneuvers the American 1st army has accomplished, one corps executed the following checkerboard switch in the last three days in an area 10 miles wide by 14 miles deep:

On Saturday night at 6 o'clock it lost one division to another corps, picked up another division and one-half the next morning at 9 o'clock. This latter formation was acquired without trouble altho another division was fighting in between.

The corps started out fighting from the north to the south. It changed its direction 90 degrees, attacking in the east, reunited two stray halves of divisions under combat conditions and reached its objective without a single traffic tie-up.

The cleanup of the Breton peninsula was marked by slackened resistance at Dinard, across the bay from St. Malo and the scene of some of the heaviest fighting in Brittany. Americans had pressed well into the town.

No developments were reported in the sieges of Brest, Lorient, and St. Nazaire, now entering the 11th day.

Nor was further light shed on the progress of the force which lanced across the Loire 10 miles south of Nantes. This move took on added significance in view of the allied landings in southern France.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Tuesday's German war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin and recorded in New York by the Associated Press said:

"Southeast and south of Caen the enemy has now again launched a big scale attack supported by strong artillery and tank formations in an effort to thrust forward in the direction north of Carrouges where American formations have been forced into defense by our counter-attacks yesterday [Monday], after embittered fighting the enemy succeeded in some sectors in piercing our front. He was checked by counter-attacks. Forty enemy tanks were destroyed.

"In the Brest fighting area local enemy attacks were repulsed and renewed enemy deployment positions dispersed by concentrated artillery fire. The garrisons of St. Malo and Dinard held their bases against the enemy again attacking with superior forces. Fort de la Varde was lost yesterday evening after heroic resistance offered by the garrison.

"Thirty enemy aircraft were downed by flak of the German naval command and German patrol vessels over western French and south French coastal waters.

"Twenty-six terrorists were killed in the French hinterland.

REPORTS R.A.F. DROPS 500 LOADS OF BOMBS ON CANADIAN TROOPS

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 16 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Ralph Allen, Globe and Mail war correspondent in France, said today in a copyright story that an estimated 500 loads of bombs fell prematurely from R. A. F. supporting aircraft yesterday on Canadian positions north of Falaise, and that "many" were killed, "many" wounded and "some" shell shocked.

"For periods ranging from a few minutes to the full hour and five minutes it took to call off an attack by more than 700 bombers that had somehow gone astray, troops as much as four miles behind the target areas felt the full weight of the most devastating weapon in military history," Allen said.

The first squadron of R. A. F. Lancasters dropped its bombs with perfect accuracy on German positions, Allen said. Then, somehow, the British heavies changed their course slightly and the bombs began falling in the Canadian lines.

Mexico Plans Monument to Lincoln and Juarez

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 15 (AP).—A proposal has been made to erect a great monument, with figures of Benito Juarez and Abraham Lincoln clasping hands, to symbolize Mexico and United States friendship. Col. Herminio Rodriquez, president of the Society of United Veterans of the Mexican Revolution, said yesterday that he hoped the monument will be erected on one of the international bridges across the Rio Grande.

90 MILE RIVIERA COAST INVADED, BERLIN REPORTS

LONDON, Aug. 15 (AP).—The Germans said tonight that the allied invasion of southern France was in full swing along a 125 mile stretch of the Mediterranean coast between Cannes and a point west of Toulon.

Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, German military commentator, in a Berlin broadcast began preparing the Nazi people for an invasion of Germany itself.

He said Russian forces had broken across the Vistula river and "measures of vast defense building now are in progress not only in East Prussia, but everywhere reich territory is threatened."

The Germans said the focal point of the allied invasion of southern France was on a 10 mile stretch between St. Raphael and Cap Dramont, southwest of Cannes. The Germans claimed that only in the bay of St. Tropez, 12 miles west of St. Raphael, were the allies able to land tank forces.

Tell of Three Landings.

The Transocean agency asserted there were three landings: At Bormes, east of Toulon, the St. Raphael area, and between Cannes and Nice. Transocean said, "German troops launched immediate counter-attacks and engaged invading troops in heavy fighting." DNB said the Bormes landing was "frustrated."

The Nazi agencies and military commentators hastened to label the action as "on a far smaller scale than the Normandy invasion," while Transocean quoted Military Analyst Ludwig Sertorius as saying the landings were "no surprise." Sertorius added:

"Some time ago big naval concentrations were being observed off central Italy and in harbors of Corsica. Major parts of the 5th army in Italy were being detached from the Arno river front. There was doubt, however, as to the actual place the landings were to start. It was first believed that the Gulf of Genoa might be the target. The German command was prepared for both [Genoa or the French coast opposite Corsica] and had time to take appropriate measures."

In a dispatch to the controled press outside Germany, DNB said the St. Raphael-Cap Dramont fighting "cannot yet be called a coherent action on a broad front."

"Allies Seek Air Fields."

"Rather it seems that the enemy wants to occupy first the gulf of St. Tropez and the air fields of St. Raphael so he will be able to land and concentrate more reinforcements from the air and sea," DNB said. "The enemy movements on the sea and his employment of air power are in no way on a scale of the operations of June 6."

In another dispatch DNB described the fighting area as a coastal stretch 15 miles in length, where the beaches are flat only at some points and the foothills of Alpes Provencales rise more than a mile high. These slopes, the agency said, were heavily fortified.

DNB said, "The attacker was met everywhere by concentrated German defenses and heavy casualties were inflicted on him."

PARACHUTERS DROPPED.

The Berlin radio in a broadcast recorded by the CBS short wave listening station described the invasion thus:

"Previous to the landing the allied aerial bombardment of the coastal defenses on the coast of Southern France became very furious, as the enemy invasion fleet which had been lying off Corsica a few days ago began to steam in the direction of the coast.

"Attempts were made to drop French parachute troops over Marseille. The bulk of this landing force was wiped out.

"Shortly after dawn allied transport planes, pulling troop carrying gliders behind them, were seen flying in a westerly direction and were engaged in fierce fighting.

Tell of Fierce Fighting.

"The landing between Cannes and Nice was carried out simultaneously, under the cover of massive bomber formations. The reply of the defenders was immediate. Fierce fighting ensued here as well.

"Shortly afterwards, allied parachute troops landed in battalion strength near San Raphael, and were immediately engaged by German patrols in this area. An additional allied attempt, which took place at Dramont failed."

Unlike the Normandy D-day, when Germany scooped the world with the news, Propaganda Minister Goebbels kept his countrymen in the dark for an hour after the allied bulletin.

OPA MOVES GAS, TIRE COUPONS TO NEW OFFICES

Millions of gasoline ration coupons and certificates for gasoline and tires were transferred secretly over the week-end from 228 N. La Salle st. to the new quarters of the central issuing center of the office of price administration at 571 Jackson blvd., Marion Isbell, action area director of OPA, announced yesterday.

The new office will open today in the four story building formerly used by the Brinks Express company. The ration coupons and certificates have been stored in vaults in the building. The center distributes the coupons to 800,000 automobile and truck owners in this area. Applications for gas and tires are made to the local boards, but coupons no longer are kept in the local offices.

WILSON'S ROLE IN SOUTH LIKE IKE'S IN NORTH

But May Merge Under Eisenhower.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 15 (AP).—The allied troops invading France from the south are under Gen. Henry Maitland Wilson, commander of the allied forces in the Mediterranean theater, but presumably will move into the jurisdiction of Gen. Eisenhower as they drive north.

Gen. Wilson's position in the south of France is the same as Supreme Commander Eisenhower's in the west, it was said officially.

New 12th U. S. Army Group.

Headquarters disclosed today that Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., is the commander of the new American 3d army, existence of which was first disclosed officially yesterday, and other new details of the allied organization in the west were made public.

The newly formed American organization has been named the 12th United States army group, and it is under the command of Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley. Completing Gen. Eisenhower's team in the west is Gen. Montgomery, who remains as field commander of all ground forces under Eisenhower, including both the American 12th and the British-Canadian 21st army group.

Air Borne Force in Reserve.

Under Montgomery are Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey of the British 2d army and Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar of the Canadian 1st army.

Wilson's deputy commander in the Mediterranean is United States Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers and Gen. Alexander is in command of the allied forces in Italy. It was not officially indicated who was the commander heading the actual invasion forces in Southern France.

AUSTRALIANS INDORSE ROOSEVELT PLAN FOR U. S. BASES IN PACIFIC

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 16 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Australia, its political attention centered on the forthcoming national referendum, appeared to pay scant notice today to President Roosevelt's proposals for the post-war Pacific, but comment seemed generally to indorse the President's suggestions. The Sydney Morning Herald said:

"After the treachery of Pearl Harbor, none could possibly regard establishment of forward American bases well to the westward of Hawaii as evidence of aggressive intent. The President was careful to stress he does not ask for any territorial possession of the united nations. It is only some pooling of defensive facilities that will be needed. Into this broad picture, Australia's own conception of the Southwest Pacific zone of security, embodied in the Anzac pact of last January, neatly fits."

ONLY GUN DUELS AND PATROLING STIR ITALY FRONT

ROME, Aug. 15 (AP).—A brisk engagement developed when 5th army patrols contacted German patrols three miles southeast of Pontedera yesterday, but in all other sectors the Italian front was quiet except for artillery duels, allied headquarters said today.

German shelling of Florence almost ceased and the allied position there "continues to improve steadily," headquarters added. Altho there was some interference from snipers, food, water, and medical supplies continued to move into the city in great volume.

Allied tanks and mortars engaged the enemy on both sides of the Arno bend west of Signa. Eighth army troops mopping up pockets of resistance in the Empoli area killed at least 25 Germans.

In Florence it was learned that five beautiful bridges were blown up without any, prior announcement to Florence citizens who had been urging the Germans to help spare the city's historic and artistic treasures. High Florentine sources said Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring ordered the bridges destroyed because he was determined that the allied pursuit of the Germans north of Rome should not be repeated north of Florence.

BATTLESHIP RODNEY FIRES 75 ONE TON SHELLS AT GERMANS

ABOARD H. M. S. RODNEY, Aug. 12 [Delayed]—(AP).—H. M. S. Rodney, principal heroine in the sinking of the German battleship Bismarck, anchored 20 miles off the channel island of Alderney today and leisurely hurled 75 one-ton 16-inch shells into a Nazi battery without return fire.

As the Rodney sped homeward, her battle ensign whipping in the breeze, aviators reported the "area very well plastered up" and a summary showed direct hits on three of the four Nazi guns. Alderney is just nine miles off the tip of the Cotentin peninsula in Normandy.

Three days ago the battleship started for her target but R. A. F. Spitfire spotters ordered her back to port because visibility was so good, strong anti-aircraft batteries on Alderney could shoot down her observation planes.

BOMBER FLEETS OF 3,000 PLANES RIP 21 AIR BASES

LONDON, Aug. 15 (AP).—Three thousand American and British planes, two-thirds of them bombers, cast 8,000 tons of explosives on at least 21 enemy air bases in Belgium, Holland, and Germany today. Tonight, R. A. F. Mosquitos bombed Berlin for the second successive night.

A force of 1,100 R. A. F. Lancasters and Halifaxes and nearly 1,000 United States Flying Fortresses and Liberators churned up enemy air strips, wrecked buildings, and set afire 180 to 270 parked Nazi planes.

Fighters escorting the American bombers also destroyed several planes on the ground, disabled 62 locomotives, and destroyed or damaged 188 railway cars.

Shoot Down 27 Planes, Lose 21.

Moderate enemy opposition in the air was encountered. The bombers knocked down 13 planes and the fighters bagged 14. Sixteen bombers and five fighters failed to return.

The heavy daylight attacks were aimed at squelching any German attempts to gather their depleted sky strength to support their retreating grounds forces in France.

The big American bombers pounded seven air bases and five airdromes. These bases are situated in the suburbs of Cologne, at Wiesbaden, Frankfurt, Wittmund, and in Bad Zwischenahn, Vechta and Handorf. The first three lie along the Rhine river. The others are in northwest Germany.

Yanks Guard British Planes.

The airdromes included two at Enschede in Holland, one at Florennes, Belgium, and others at Venio and Plantiunne in northwest Germany.

The R. A. F. bombers smashed at five fighter air fields in Holland and four in Belgium. From 20 to 30 planes were found at each field.

For the first time American fighters were disclosed to have escorted the Lancasters and Halifaxes. R. A. F. fighters, which often have joined in covering American bombers, also flew alongside. Two British bombers were lost.

Yanks Attack Rail Yards.

United States Marauders and Havocs of the 9th air force bombed rail yards at Serqueux, 25 miles north of Rouen, and two bridges over the Oise river north of Paris.

Air raids on the United Kingdom in July caused nearly 10,000 civilian casualties, the ministry of home security announced. Of the number, 2,441 were killed or missing and 7,107 injured and detained in hospitals. Presumably most of the casualties were caused by flying bombs.

BEER SHORTAGE IN BRITAIN LAID TO ROBOT BOMBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Flying bombs are largely responsible for London's beer shortage, William Mabane, parliamentary secretary for the food ministry, said today. Until recently, he reported, London had better supplies of beer than the rest of the country but Nazi robot bombs caused a reduction in women labor at London breweries and bottling stores.

Recently in the house of lords a peer complained that the beer is so weak that he wondered how the brewers had the nerve to sell it.

BELGIUM'S KING RUSHED TO REICH ON ALLIED D-DAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 15.—King Leopold of Belgium was removed to Germany June 6, the day the allies invaded Normandy, so suddenly he had no opportunity to bid good-by to his wife and children, Belgian sources said today.

The king asked to see his children, who were at Ciergnot chateau in Namur province, and the request was granted but on condition that the children go to Laeken where the king had been kept prisoner, it was said. They arrived after he had gone.

Despite the protest of Cardinal Van Roey, primate of Belgium, Leopold's wife and the queen mother were taken to Germany two days later, the Belgians said.

Flying Bombs Kill 2,441, Injure 7,107 in July

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Two thousand four hundred and forty-one persons were killed and 7,107 were injured as a result of enemy attacks on Britain in July, the ministry of home security announced tonight. There were no enemy bomber raids on Britain in that month, so presumably the casualties are attributable to flying bombs. The killed include 1,022 men, 1,187 women, and 232 children under 16 years. Injured were 2,746 men, 3,876 women, and 485 children under 16.

REVEALS FRENCH LONG EXPECTED NEW LANDINGS

Woman Saboteurs Raid Nazis, Heroine Says.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 15. — The allied landings had been expected and eagerly awaited by the people of southern France the last several months, Mme. Emilienne Moreau, noted member of the French underground, and a delegate to the French liberation committee's consultative assembly, said today.

Mme. Moreau, crisp talking and red of hair, holds decorations of the allies from the last war. She escaped the Nazis and arrived here recently from Marseille.

Mme. Moreau asserted that 90 per cent of the population of France hates the Vichy regime and charged there is little difference between the Germans' fighting in this war and the last.

Burned Villagers' Homes.

The Germans shot villagers and burned their homes the same way in 1915 to 1918 and 1940 to the present, she contended. The difference this time, she said, was the employment of Italian Black Shirters and renegade Russians to perform acts of reprisal against the French for refusing to bow to the Nazi yoke.

None of the people with whom she was acquainted quarreled with the execution of collaborators tried at Algiers, Mme. Moreau said. In some cases, she added, it was said that mere execution was regarded as too lenient. Should Pierre Laval and Marshal Henri Petain escape a similar fate, she continued, the reaction in France would be "extraordinary," followed, perhaps, by revolution.

Women of the resistance movements in France sabotaged trains, gave information on the location of German troops to the allies, served as liaison agents in the secret distribution of tracts and propaganda, and hid Maquis [patriot guerrillas] from the enemy, Mme. Moreau said.

Girl Holds Silence.

One young girl questioned by the Gestapo was kicked in the face by a Nazi officer, she reported, but still refused to give information about the underground. In another case 152 prisoners were shot by German officers who then retired to a nearby farm to eat cherries in the spring sunshine. Mme. Moreau said that she had seen pictures of the dead victims whom the Germans ordered the local police to bury.

Meanwhile, other authoritative French sources here today claimed complete disorganization of Germany's communications thruout France as patriot forces struck with new intensity to assist the allied invasion in the south and west.

A bulletin issued thru the French press service reported that French forces of the interior killed 800 Germans, wounded 300, and took 100 prisoners during the last 24 hours while seizing the towns of Breton, Serignac, Lannion, and La Clarte, in Brittany.

"Advancing Toward Vichy."

The AFI [independent French agency] reported from Bern that 10,000 French patriots were "advancing toward Vichy," and that other detachments of French forces of the interior were advancing on Bordeaux. It did not say where the patriots were coming from or how they were armed.

The French radio said a warning to the Paris population to "remain calm should the battle further approach the French capital" was made by the German commander of Paris.

"The population of the capital ought to know that the German authorities will do all in their power to guarantee the people's food supply," the broadcast said. "This, however, can only be done if the population coöperates as fully as possible with the occupation authorities."

Senate Forgives Patton's Slap; Promotes Him for French Job

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—The senate forgave Lt. Gen. George S. Patton today, promoted him to the permanent rank of major general, after Sen. Chandler [D., Ky.] joyously reported he is "tearing hell out of the Germans" as commander of the American 3d army.

The promotion was a double one, first to brigadier general and then to major general. Altho Patton is a temporary lieutenant general, his permanent rank was that of cavalry colonel.

He was nominated for major general months ago—just before he brought on a storming controversy by slapping an American soldier in a hospital. Sen. Chandler, who rushed senate confirmation thru today, led a fight against Patton at that time in the senate military affairs committee.

Speech Incurred Wrath.

The result was that the committee did not present Patton's name for confirmation by the senate. Patton's chances for promotion were darkened somewhat later when he incurred the senate's wrath again with a London speech in which he said the British and Americans ought to rule the world.

The senate action today came a few hours after Gen. Eisenhower had confirmed reports that Patton is the 3d army's commander. But it had its beginning before the Eisenhower announcement—in a hunch by Chandler.

Chandler had discounted German reports that Patton was leading the victorious 3d. But Monday night Chandler had his hunch, he said: That nobody but Patton could be leading the spectacular American tank charge across France.

Committee Acts Quickly.

A member of the military affairs committee, Chandler decided to recommend the promotion when the committee met today to discuss surplus property disposal. The committee voted unanimously to recommend the promotion, as the news of Eisenhower's announcement had just arrived. Chairman Reynolds [D., N. C.] said he would have proposed confirmation without the news or Chandler's proposal.

Chandler then went before the senate and asked confirmation without delay. Sen. Langer [R., N. D.] objected to immediate action, asserting there should be more senators in the chamber.

But Chandler, proud as if he were Patton's daddy, changed Langer's mind and won the confirmation with a little speech. Said Chaidler:

"I led the fight against him. . . . Slapping the soldier was an indefensible act. . . . He's been disciplined.

"He's perhaps the greatest tank soldier in the world. He's tearing hell out of the Germans. We can't say we won't promote him."

PRINTERS UNION RE-AFFILIATES WITH A. F. OF L.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15 (AP).—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor announced today the International Typographical union has completed the process of reaffiliation with the AFL after a four year absence.

The printers paid per capita tax for August on 64,000 members. The union was paying on an average of 79,200 members at the time it was suspended in 1939 for refusal to pay a special assessment levied for the purpose of combating the old Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The special assessment since has been discontinued.

POILUS ARE BACK TO DRIVE NAZIS FROM HOMELAND

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The French army of liberation, some of whose units landed in southern France yesterday, is a well equipped modern force of 300,000 to 400,000 men, with a complement of several thousand Jeanne d'Arcs, or French WACs.

It is a result of a renascence which began in North Africa back in the Tunisian campaign—an army clothed and rearmed mainly by the United States.

It is an avenging army of Poilus, and their fight is more than a war against Germany. What about their parents, wives, sweethearts? What is the fate of those that were left under the Nazi rule? What of their homes, destroyed?

On Equal Terms Now.

They are on equal terms with the Germans now, their equipment even more modern and deadly than the machinery of the 1940 Nazi blitzkrieg.

In December, 1942, a mission headed by Gen. Bethouart came to this country to arrange for the re-equipment and rearmament of the French army. Shortly after our invasion of North Africa material started to pour in for a French army of 400,000.

French military fitness was soon achieved and met its first successful test in the reconquest of Corsica. For the first time since the French armistice, the army, air force, and navy carried out a combined operation without assistance.

Dressed Like Yanks.

New air force pilots were instructed in England, Canada, and the United States with American and British aircraft. The troops were unified and drilled with G. I. equipment in North Africa.

The Poilu is now dressed like a Yank, except that he wears a black tie and French insignia. He is often mistaken for an American.

The French are equipped with modern tanks and tank destroyers and the infantry has the same automatic weapons as the doughboys.

LT. WALTER LOBOY KILLED IN ACTION ON FRENCH FRONT

Lt. Walter Loboy.

Mrs. Shirley Loboy of 2648 Farragut av. has been notified by the war department that her husband, Lt. Walter Loboy, 25, an infantry officer, was killed in action in France on July 4. Lt. Loboy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Loboy, 5528 Schubert av., had been in the army since June, 1942. He was a graduate of Steinmetz High school and was employed by Montgomery Ward & Co. before entering the service.

GUARD STEALS FROM AMERICAN DEAD; SENTENCED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Nathan Goldberg, 48, a security guard at an American depot in London, pleaded guilty at the Thames court today to stealing personal articles of dead and missing American soldiers to the value of $80. Imposing sentence, the magistrate said:

"You deserve to be shot. The most I can give you is six months' hard labor and you will have that."

Policeman George Hinton testified Goldberg told him, "'I got the [stolen] property at a United States depot from a salvage dump.'"

Red Cross Will Equip 10 Hospitals in Russia

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15 (AP).—The Red Cross announced today it will provide virtually all the equipment for ten 500 bed civilian hospitals to be reëstablished in Russia. The hospitals, located in nine cities, will be supplied with all necessary equipment except bedsteads and mattresses. Ticking will be sent for the latter.

The most Toothsome Ensign at Headquarters

As pretty a WAVE as ever released a fighting man for action. That's Ensign K! Brainy, too. So naturally she noticed right away how much better super-fine Pebeco cleans her teeth. She was definitely impressed by the way Pebeco Powder keeps on polishing—doesn't wash right away when you start to brush.

How come Pebeco doesn't wash right away? Because its particles are micro-fine . . . stay on your brush, cling to your teeth while you polish. Pebeco's special combination of polishing agents cleans teeth gently but efficiently—leaves them gleaming!

That's why people find Ensign K's smile so irresistible. Try Pebeco! You'll love its sparkling, zippy flavor. The immaculate polished feel of your teeth. The special luster of your smile after a brushing with super-fine Pebeco Tooth Powder!

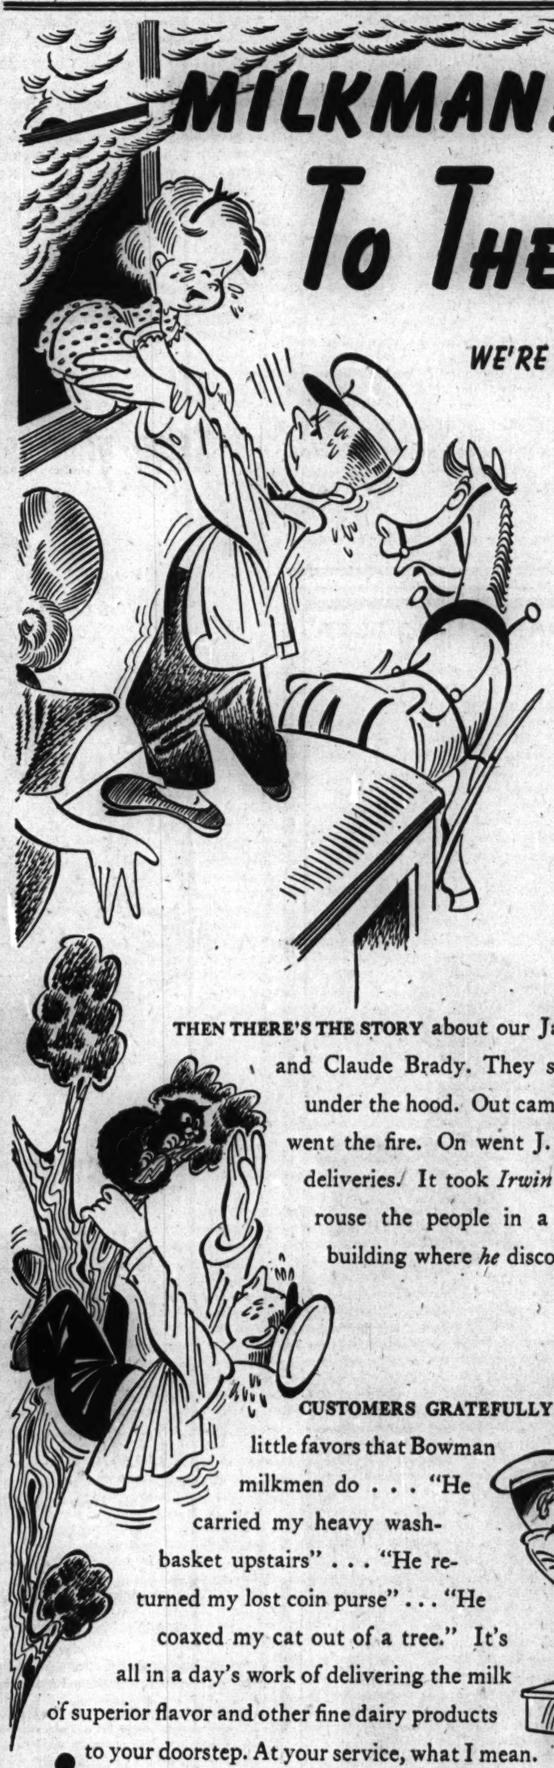
MILKMAN! MILKMAN! To The Rescue!

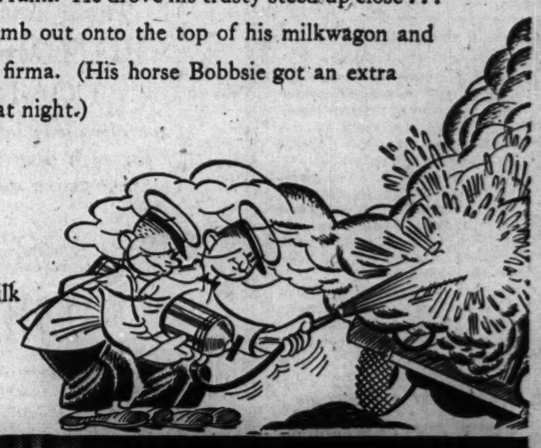


WE'RE ALWAYS AT YOUR SERVICE

Bud Bowman

OUR FRANK RAUEN was making his rounds, minding his own Bowman business, when he came suddenly on this scene. Smoke and flame billowing from a second-story garage apartment. Two people had jumped, lay screaming with broken legs. Three more people were crowded at a window . . .

"DON'T JUMP," shouted Frank. He drove his trusty steed up close . . . helped the folks climb out onto the top of his milkwagon and safely down to terra firma. (His horse Bobbsie got an extra bucket of oats that night.)



THEN THERE'S THE STORY about our Jack Wall and Claude Brady. They spotted a car burning under the hood. Out came their fire extinguisher. Out went the fire. On went J. W. and C. B. with their milk deliveries. It took Irwin Young somewhat longer to rouse the people in a three-story apartment building where he discovered a fire.

CUSTOMERS GRATEFULLY REPORT little favors that Bowman milkmen do . . . "He carried my heavy wash-basket upstairs" . . . "He returned my lost coin purse" . . . "He coaxed my cat out of a tree." It's all in a day's work of delivering the milk of superior flavor and other fine dairy products to your doorstep. At your service, what I mean.

SENATORS BACK BILL TO AID MEN SEIZED BY JAPS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15 (AP).—It is "about time we're remembering our boys in the Philippines," Sen. Chavez [D., N. M.] asserted today, following action by the senate military committee in recommending the passage of a bill calling for promotions for Americans captured by the Japanese in the Philippines, Wake, or Guam.

Chavez, author of the bill, said in an interview that the committee's action was taken "despite an adverse report" by the war department that it could not differentiate between those who fought to the last and those who surrendered under circumstances in which they might have been expected to continue to resist.

The bill provides that each officer of the army, navy, marines, and Coast Guards below the grade of colonel and each warrant officer and enlisted man below the grade of master sergeant now a prisoner of war "shall be advanced one grade" from the grade he held Dec. 8, 1941, for each year he has been a prisoner.

WATER TENDER GETS 2D AWARD IN PACIFIC WAR

Leo M. Savage, a chief water tender, who received the legion of merit for bravery aboard the destroyer Blakeley when it was torpedoed in May, 1942, has received a commendation ribbon for "outstanding performance of duties" in blows against the Japanese as a crew member of the destroyer Claxton, his wife, Mrs. Bernice Savage, who lives on Glen Flora av. a mile west of Waukegan, was advised yesterday by the navy department.

Leo M. Savage.

The Claxton and its squadron engaged a Japanese surface force off Cape Torokina, Bougainville Island, Nov. 1 and 2, 1943, and inflicted further damage to the enemy fleet Nov. 24 and 25 off St. George's channel. The Claxton also joined in seven bombardments of islands including Buka and Bougainville.

His previous decoration was for presence of mind in averting a boiler explosion aboard the destroyer Blakeley after it was torpedoed. He was about to amputate his arm, caught in a bulkhead door, when he was rescued by shipmates.

The Savages have a 15 month old son, Michael Lee. They formerly lived at 1425 10th st., Waukegan.

BABY AND BUGGY CARRIED THRU WINDOW BY WIND

Two babies figured in freakish bits of news on the south side last night.

Mrs. Eleanor Landske, 27, 4543 S. Hermitage av., whose husband, Stephan, is a soldier overseas, was wheeling her daughter, Beatrice, 18 months old, in a buggy, while another daughter, Barbara, 7, and a son, William, 9, walked beside her. A gust of wind catapulted the buggy and Beatrice thru the plate glass window of a tailor shop at 4601 S. Hermitage av. The heavy glass was shattered and the buggy wrecked, but Beatrice wasn't even scratched.

About the same time Eugene Penman, 19 months old, son of Mrs. Rita Penman, pressed against a corridor window screen on the second floor of his home at 6722 Wentworth av. The screen gave way and he fell more than 40 feet upon a concrete sidewalk. His injuries—a skinned nose and bruises.

HEALTH QUIZ

	YES	NO
Do you have poor digestion?	☐	☐
Do you feel headachy after eating?	☐	☐
Do you get sour or upset easily?	☐	☐
Do you feel tired—listless?	☐	☐

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable.

Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any drugstore. Only 10¢ and 25¢.

WHY BE FAT?

Get slimmer without exercise

You may lose pounds and have a more slender, graceful figure. No exercising. No laxatives. No drugs. REDS HACK THRU BIG DEFENSE LINE OF EAST PRUSSIA

Leap River in N. Poland, Advance in Baltic.

LONDON, Aug. 16 [Wednesday] —(AP).—Soviet field dispatches last night said Red army troops had crossed the Biebrza river in northern Poland, striking thru a 15 mile belt of axis defenses guarding imperiled East Prussia.

Swarms of fighter-bombers covered the surge of the 3d White Russian army, spraying German positions at Grajewo, only two miles from the frontier, in the attack along the Bialystok-Lyck railway.

Near Masurian Lakes.

The 2d White Russian army also is rolling dangerously close to the southern border of East Prussia on the fringe of the Masurian lakes—famous World War I. battleground.

In the north the 3d Baltic army, which has swept half way across southern Estonia, was on the verge of cutting the Tallinn-Riga trunk railway—communications backbone linking the 200,000 stranded Germans of two Baltic armies. The Russians are only 70 miles from the Gulf of Riga.

On this front a town less than five miles from the Tallinn-Riga railway and near the Estonia-Latvia border was captured, the soviet war bulletin said.

Advance Toward Tartu.

Striking north, another soviet column swept thru a town 27 miles southeast of Tartu and 127 miles from Tallinn, Estonian capital on the Baltic.

In the area of Raseinial, Lithuanian town 53 miles northeast of Tilsit, East Prussian rail city, the Russians repulsed strong enemy attacks, the soviet bulletin said.

A German broadcast, however, said Raseinial, which the Russians captured Aug. 10, was reconquered.

Beat Off Nazis Near Warsaw.

For the first time in weeks the Russian war report mentioned the Warsaw area, saying German counter-attacks had been repulsed east of Praga, suburb on the east bank of the Vistula river.

About 100 miles south of Warsaw the Russians captured several villages in the expansion of their Vistula bridgehead northwest and west of Sandomierz.

Moscow announced that the 4th Ukraine army, attacking thru southern Poland toward German Silesia killed 140,000 Germans between July 13 and Aug. 12. This force also was said to have captured 32,360 Nazis in the month.

On the basis of Moscow accounts six soviet armies have killed or captured 781,886 Germans since the summer offensive began June 23.

NAZI WAR BULLETIN.

Of Russia, yesterday's broadcast German war report said:

"In the forefield of the Carpathians there were local fighting operations only yesterday. Fifty-one enemy tanks were destroyed by a single German army corps yesterday in the course of fighting still going on west of Baranow. South of Varka, the soviets attacked with several rifle divisions. Here, too, fighting is still in full swing.

"In Lithuania our grenadiers supported by tanks and storm guns threw the soviets out of a salient the enemy had effected at Raseinial in the last few days."

STRITCH CALLS IRISH DEFENDERS OF CIVILIZATION

The Celt always has stood before the world as a protector of civilization, the Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch, Catholic archbishop of Chicago, told 8,000 persons attending the annual Irish day celebration in Harms park, 4207 North Western av., last night.

Miss Pat Walsh.

"Always when that civilization has been threatened," the archbishop said, "he has stood forth as its protagonist and protector."

The Irish people, he said, with their faith in Christian ethics, should do their best to convince the world that there will always be war and misery unless people learn to live in the justice and harmony prescribed by Christian ethics.

The celebration, designated as Our Lady's Day in Harvest, marked the feast of the Assumption and honored American service men and women of Irish birth and extraction.

A highlight was the election of Miss Pat Walsh, 18, of 4022 N. Paulina st. as queen of the fete by an applause vote tabulated by a jury of five soldiers.

Fall from Joliet Church Roof Kills Repairman, 62

Frank Stangle, 62, of 725 N. Center st., Joliet, a repairman, was injured fatally yesterday when he fell 100 feet from the roof of St. Joseph's church in Joliet. His son, James, 13, was the only witness.

Koiso Calls Jap Diet to Meet in September

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—Premier Gen. Kuniaki Koiso has called a special session of the Japanese diet for Sept. 5, the Tokyo radio said this morning.

FATHER PREFERS LOSING MILLIONS TO SIGHT OF SON

Miami, Fla., Aug. 15 [Special].—At a session of Circuit court held at his bedside, Col. R. T. Daniel, 83, western pioneer and millionaire, declared today he would rather lose control of his millions than see his eldest son and namesake, R. T. Jr. of Tulsa and Oklahoma City, again.

The hearing was held in the closed 64 room Seminole hotel in downtown Miami, which Daniel owns and where he lives alone except for a nurse. In seeking to have a guardian appointed for his father, R. T. Jr. contended the aged man is being held a prisoner there by "designing persons."

In his petition the son charged that his brother, Samuel, who has helped their father manage his properties, has enriched himself at his father's expense and has prejudiced the aged millionaire against his eldest son.

Estranged 17 Years.

Col. Daniel told Judge Ross Williams he had not seen R. T. Jr., for 17 years and declared: "He is the black sheep of the family, wasting money, and trying to gyp me on buying a hotel in a deal that was no good."

During the 30 minute session the aged man, who has been partly paralyzed since a brain hemorrhage nearly two years ago, laughed and joked, kicked his legs, worked his arms and wrote his name five times to show how he signs leases and that he still is able to care for his own affairs.

He said he had signed two leases just last week and asserted his physical condition has improved since he came to Miami in an ambulance from Tulsa 19 months ago. He declared he can now walk as much as 50 feet without help.

Denies Being a Prisoner.

Denying that he is being held a prisoner, the millionaire said his big hotel is his private residence. He closed the hotel, which occupies the upper two floors of the R. T. Daniel building, and converted it into a residence, he explained, so he could have rest and quiet under the Florida sun in the heart of Miami, where he spent the first years of his married life in the early 1900s.

The second floor lobby is dustless and the unused clerk's desk and stairways are well polished. Old tapestries and pictures adorn the walls but unused furniture is piled at a far end of the lobby. Col. Daniel's bedroom is just off the lobby.

His nurse, Mrs. Marie Lynn, explained that the downstairs street doors are locked, not to keep him a prisoner but "because this is a private residence."

A FEW HEROES IN JUNGLE BEAT BIG JAP FORCES

Little Headquarters Unit Holds Fort in Guinea.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. FORCES IN NEW GUINEA [Delayed].—This is the story of a headquarters of barely 150 men, which suddenly found itself in a jungle No Man's Land, completely surrounded by Japs outnumbering them many times.

The headquarters was located 400 yards behind Afua, a native hamlet seven miles inland from the beach on the Driniumor river in British New Guinea. When the Japs crossed the river and took Afua, the headquarters was encircled.

There would have been more men in the headquarters except that a few hours earlier a patrol, including Pvt. Milton Schaffner of 1344 S. Albany av., Chicago, had left on a scout mission. They had to fight their way back to what remained of the river defenses.

Another "One Man Army."

Lt. Dale Christensen of Gray, Ia., became a one man army. Single handed he attacked a machine gun near the headquarters and grenaded it into silence. Then he scouted the entire defense line. Once a sniper shot Christensen's rifle from his hands. A few minutes later the lieutenant found a machine gun and grenaded it.

When he returned he had spotted four other gun nests. He organized an attack and cleaned the entire perimeter.

A mortar burst injured the commander and the small patrol sneaked him thru the lines and began a seven mile trek to the coast. They made it.

For two days the Japs pecked away at headquarters. Late the second afternoon six men from the river defense line, led by Capt. John Carter of New Orleans, and Sgt. Roy Bailey, Terrell, Tex., came within 200 yards of headquarters before they were pinned down. It took Lt. Franklin Rogers of Omaha, Neb., and 18 more men to get them out.

Saved from Own Shells.

Carter's mission was accomplished however. Artillery from the beach, believing headquarters had shifted, planned to shell the area to prevent the Japs from taking it over. Carter got close enough to determine that headquarters still was there and to prevent the artillery from shelling it.

Jap mortar shells burst in headquarters and injured 18 men. In ankle deep mud a doctor amputated one man's leg. He had only one first aid man, Pvt. Ralph Smith of Danville, Ill., to help with the wounded.

A major, who assumed command when the commander was hurt the first day, decided to try to pull out thru the hills inland and then circle back to the coast. Bearing the injured in litters, the small column clambered up the hills. Soon they found their way blocked by Japs. The men spent the night on a ridge and the next day returned to their old headquarters.

Late that afternoon the headquarters men heard firing and prepared for a last stand. But instead of Japs it was 800 American infantrymen.

The troops could have kissed each one. Instead, they all set to work strengthening the perimeter.

Backtracking on the infantry, Lt. Lawrence Treptow of Villa Park, Ill., took a patrol thru the jungle to the beach with the wounded. Next day the infantry tried to push on, but found the Jap encirclement had re-formed.

Japs Try Suicide Drives.

Within a week, as other infantrymen were approaching up the river, the Japs began suicide attacks on the reënforced headquarters.

For three nights they attacked just before dawn. It was good shooting for every one. Among the men in the lines were Pvt. Robert Altosino, 5527 Crystal st. and Pvt. Anthony Frangella, 7705 Greenwood av., both of Chicago; Sgt. Gene Creek, Darwin, Ill.; Pvt. John Ellis, Pvt. James Hare, and Pvt. Roy Johnson, all of Rockford, Ill.; Pvt. Stanley Gruber, Utica, Ill.; Pvt. Charles Harris, Odin, Ill.; Pvt. Robert Hass, Milwaukee, Wis.; Pvt. Frederick Herring, Oak Lawn, Ill.; Pvt. Anton Havar Jr., Hanover, Ill.; Pvt. Duane Huffman, and Pvt. Emil Ramlow, Lincoln, Ill.; Pvt. Roy Kansteiner, Quincy, Ill., and Pvt. Walter Palmer, Gary, Ind.

Each day more than 100 Japs were buried within 20 yards of our lines. That was as far out as the men ventured. But after the third attack the Japs had spent their force. Within hours the headquarters force made connection with a line being established on the Driniumor. A native train of carriers arrived with supplies.

Milwaukeean Recovers from Wound in Guinea

WITH ALLIED FORCES ON THE DRINIUMOR RIVER, New Guinea, Aug. 11 [Delayed].—(AP).—Second Lt. Paul F. Martin of Milwaukee, Wis., has recovered from a wound made by a machine gun slug thru his chest. He was so close to the enemy that he was directing artillery fire visually when he was hit.

WAR PLANT TOOLS STOLEN.

Four acetylene torches and two oxygen pumps valued at $1198 were taken by burglars from the Superior Machine and Boiler works, a war plant, police were told yesterday by Frank C. Dresmal, the owner.

PATRICIA TELLS 'ALL I KNOW OF DRAKE MURDER'

Breaks Silence to Help Solve Mystery.

the waitress at a Michigan av. restaurant who reported to police an argument she overheard between the two, mother and daughter, at luncheon the day before Mrs. Williams' death. The waitress reported they were having an argument over money. She said she heard Mrs. Goodbody say she wanted $3,000, to which the mother replied, "Why, $3,000 isn't half enough."

"That was at dinner, not at lunch," Mrs. Goodbody corrected, "and not the day before mother was shot. It was two days before. We were discussing a letter my husband had written from India. He couldn't send me money because of the exchange laws and he said mother should give me $2,000."

"I Had Plenty of Money."

"Had he ever done this before?"

"No."

"But your mother had given you $2,000 in late December, hadn't she?"

"My mother always gave me money," Mrs. Goodbody retorted. "I had plenty of money."

"Had she given you $2,000 in December?"

"No, no. I don't remember any specific sum. It was just an incidental thing in the letter. He couldn't send me money. He knew mother would. It had just arrived. We were talking about it."

"But you were earning money at Elizabeth Arden's?" [Mrs. Goodbody was employed as a receptionist.]

"That's right."

"But it wasn't adequate for what you needed?"

"That's right."

First Letter of Its Kind.

"Had he written such letters before?"

"No, but—" Here Mrs. Goodbody explained that she left India, after seven years there with her husband, a cotton broker, in September, 1942. "This was the first time he had mentioned a specific sum. He said he would guarantee it. He just wanted to feel that he was taking care of me, and that he would pay it back. It was just a polite courtesy."

"When you came back to the United States, you knew he couldn't send you money?"

"Certainly."

"But your mother was an indulgent parent?"

"Yes," softly. "She was crazy for me. I was her favorite, her baby."

"She was generous with her money?"

$5,000 in Checking Account.

"O, yes. I had more than $5,000 in the Northern Trust company in a checking account, and $3,000 in my savings account, and I had another account with Elizabeth in the American National, some of it money I had saved in India. And then I had a small trust fund."

"If so, why was your husband worried?"

"He wasn't worried," Mrs. Goodbody flashed back. "He wouldn't have sent me home if he was worried."

"But you see how from that overheard conversation some one could get things mixed up?"

"I certainly do," she replied, "and it drives me crazy."

Mrs. Goodbody said she arose at noon the day of the murder, Wednesday, for it was her day off. She said she had a permanent weekly appointment at the hairdressing establishment, Pierre & Paul's, to have her hair shampooed and waved at 4 p. m. on Wednesday.

Accounts for Half Hour.

One of the discrepancies in the Williams case has been that Mrs. Goodbody told the police her hair appointment was at 4 p. m., and Pierre Courtois, who "set" her hair, testified he took her at 4:30. This gave an unaccounted for half hour. Mrs. Goodbody explained this yesterday. She said that an attendant, Dorothy, always shampooed her hair at 4 o'clock, while Pierre set the wet hair at 4:30.

"Your mother telephoned you there?"

"Yes, she had been having lunch at the Churchill with an old friend."

"But she had gone back to the Drake?"

"No, she stayed at the Churchill all afternoon and played cards."

"And called you from the Churchill?"

"I presume so. I imagine the ladies heard the call."

"But a maid at the Drake [Mrs. Eva Fritz] testified she passed your mother's room at 4:45 or so and heard her talking at the time."

Phone Call Held Important.

Mrs. Goodbody said instantly that she thought this telephone call one of the most important facets of the case. She said her mother could not have been at the Drake at that hour, that she left the Churchill, stopped to have a radio repaired, stopped to buy some groceries, and came directly to the hairdresser's, carrying the groceries. Here the mother and daughter met.

"You left Pierre's after 5:30?"

"I go thru the same routine at Pierre's whenever I have my hair done," she said. "I always close the shop. It takes two hours. I take an hour to dry. They have jokes about it because my hair takes so long to dry."

She and her mother left Pierre's together, she said, she carrying her mother's bag of groceries, and walked over to the Drake. She stood beside the elevator with the groceries while her mother retrieved the key to room 836 from the room clerk.

Door Already Unlocked.

"Mother had the key," she related. "She put it in the lock, but it was already unlocked. She said, 'O, the maid must have left the door open.'"

"You don't recall whether the lights were on?"

"I don't recall."

"What did you do first?"

"We both went into the main room [the bedroom]."

"And took your coats off?"

"Yes."

"You laid yours on the bed?"

"I don't remember. I probably put mine on the bed. I didn't live there. And mother and I were going out to dinner."

Groceries Put on Table.

Her mother, she said, then went into the bathroom with the groceries and placed the bag on a small table beside a grill.

"She called me in to see the grill and said: 'I squeeze my oranges or lemons in here and boil the water on my plate.' She drank hot water for breakfast," Mrs. Goodbody explained.

"Was the grill new?"

"No."

"Hadn't you ever seen it before?"

"I don't remember. She just said: 'I make my own breakfast.'"

Then, she said, she and her mother sat around and talked.

"We talked about all sorts of things," she recalled. "My hair, which I had just done in a new way and was distressed about. She gave me a little hat, a little beanie. She said it would look nice on me. She looked out the window at the drive and said, 'Isn't that lovely?'

Talk of Party and Clothes.

"We talked about the party she was going to give, and clothes . . . O, what do you talk about? I saw an invitation for Saturday's party and said, 'Haven't you mailed this yet?' Then I went to the dressing table and removed my lipstick to change it before going out to dinner. Then she had a book there. She said: 'You take it home with you. It's a cute book. I want you to read it.' It's name was 'Kitty.' I sat down in a chair and thumbed thru it. Then I went into the toilet."

"In your testimony you said that wasn't the first time you had been into the bathroom."

"No, the first time was to see the little stove."

"Had your mother been in by herself?"

"No."

"What had she been doing?"

Mrs. Goodbody shook her head. "I don't know. I wasn't paying any attention."

"Your testimony was that you had just sat down in there when you heard a noise. Was the door closed?"

"Some One's Here."

"No, it's a joke in our family. I never close the door. I sat down and saw black. I saw the coat. I don't know what went thru my mind. I said: 'Some one's here!' Then it didn't take one second. Boom!" She sighed ruefully. "God, all she had to say was 'Stick 'em up' and I would have."

"What did she look like?"

"I sat down and I saw it was a Persian lamb coat in that first second, like that, and then she was out—like that. I didn't see a face or anything. I just saw a coat and legs. All I can tell you is that I saw the black standing there, and then, BOOM, right in front of me, and I was over, bending way over, holding my head, screaming." As Mrs. Goodbody spoke, she reenacted her every gesture, pulling her head near the floor with both hands. "It was so sudden," she recalled woefully. "Until then I had been thinking of nothing. It was just another day with mother."

"A great many persons have assumed the woman was completely concealed. You're not saying she was concealed at all?"

"I Thought I Had Been Shot."

"No, not at all. I saw her at once, but she wasn't full facing me until she shot. Then I went like that." Again she ducked. "I saw the flash from the gun. I smelled it. I felt it go zoom by me. I thought I had been shot. I don't know what I was doing, but I heard another shot, and I thought it was still at me. Then as I raised my head I saw her go out the door.

"Then I moved. That was the first time I moved."

"Do you recall anything about her face?"

"I didn't see a face. It flashed like that." She snapped her fingers for illustration. "I think if it had been some one I had ever seen before, I would have recognized her."

"A fat face? A thin face?"

Mrs. Goodbody shook her head. She didn't know.

"Would you have known if it were white or colored?"

"O, I think I'd know if it were a black face. It wasn't."

Had Something Red On.

"Do you recall whether she had a hat on?"

"She had something red on. Red in the upper regions. I don't know whether it was a hat or a scarf."

"And in one glimpse you knew her coat was Persian lamb?"

"I know furs. It was Persian."

"After the woman passed by, what did you do?"

"I said, 'Mother! Mother!' I remember that. I saw mother lying on the floor, and I flew into the hall screaming."

"In your testimony you said you picked up the telephone."

"That was after that."

"When you got to the hall, what did you see?"

"I have no picture of that hall. I saw a man and begged him to do something."

"What did he have on? A uniform?" [Testimony in the case is conflicting as to whether Mrs. Goodbody hailed Walter Shawke, a waiter, or Stanley A. Cook, who had been visiting his employer who had been a guest in the hotel.]

"Just a suit. It's a dark hall."

Asked whether she first saw Shawke or Cook, she said Cook is the one she recalls.

"What did you say to him?"

"I don't know. I was screaming at him all the time. When I ran out, I yelled: 'Stop that crazy woman. She just shot my mother.'"

"Did you see the woman? Did you notice which way she went?"

Recalls Using Telephone.

"I can't remember. All I remember is a man. Then I went back into the room, picked up the phone, and called: 'Get a doctor, get a doctor.' I was in a complete panic and jiggling the phone."

"Did you say anything to your mother?"

"No."

"Did she say anything to you?"

"No. I thought she was dead."

"Then what did you do?"

"Then he [Cook] was patting me on the shoulder and saying, 'You poor darling, you poor child, you poor child.' That's all I can remember exactly.'

"Shawke says you said to him: 'Do something for my mother; she's shot,' and that he went in the room, found her moaning, and he called for a doctor and the police. The hotel records show that his call was received, the first call from room 836. Do you recollect Shawke?"

"Can't Picture Way I Felt."

"Well, I could have, I could have. I don't remember my words. I can't picture for you the way I felt. Elizabeth," looking toward her sister, "will tell you that when we met at the hospital I was shaking so I couldn't sit in the chair."

She said she then went across the hall to the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar D. Smith, who offered her whisky, aspirin, or water. She said she refused all. Mr. Smith has said that Mrs. Goodbody made two telephone calls from his apartment, but yesterday she denied this. She said her father, Mr. Born, made two. She said she asked "some one" to notify her father and her sister.

Elizabeth confirmed this yesterday. "I was on the floor at Saks [Saks-Fifth Avenue, where she worked] when the operator called me off," she said. "It was about 6:15. She said to call my apartment, call the Churchill. I did, and there was no answer, no message. Then another call came at 6:30 or a quarter of 7. That was daddy's call."

Miss Born Tells Her Actions.

Miss Born [Elizabeth] here recounted her actions of the afternoon and early evening of Jan. 19:

"It happens we were taking inventory at the store that day. My work was until 1 o'clock, so I had luncheon with Patsy [Patricia] and Mrs. Robert Strauss. I stayed with Mrs. Strauss until 10 minutes after 4, as I had to be back at Sak's at 5. I stopped at O'Connell's on Rush st. to have a bite to eat, and was back on the floor at 5. I was on the floor when I received the call from daddy and then was on the way to St. Luke's hospital like a streak."

Mrs. Goodbody was asked if she was certain she made no telephone calls from the Smith apartment after the shooting.

"I never, never made any call there," she insisted.

In Hall as Father Arrived.

When her father arrived, she said, she was sitting in a chair in the small hall or vestibule leading into the Smith apartment from the main corridor. She recalled some one who she thought was a hotel maid or nurse, "some one dressed in white," standing near her.

"There's been a great deal made of the fact that you didn't go in to try and help your mother during that time," she was told. "Why didn't you?"

"If you had given me $10,000,000," she replied fervently, "I couldn't have touched mother. I couldn't have touched her. I was terrified. I'm a coward. I admit it. All I wanted was for some one to come and do something. I'd never seen a dead person, had never seen anything like that, and I thought mother was dead. Then some one came and said she was still alive. I said . . . O, I don't know what I said. Some one said they were taking her to the hospital. I said couldn't I go? They said I could in just a few minutes."

"There Was So Much Confusion."

"What did you tell your father when he came?"

"I burst into tears when he came. I don't know what I said."

"When did you first tell the story about the woman in the Persian lamb coat?"

"I don't know. I must have said it a hundred times. There was so much confusion. They started getting confused about Goodbody, Williams, and Born. I thought this isn't important. Why go into it now? Anybody can tell them that."

"Did you tell them to go after the woman in the hall?"

"I don't remember."

Mrs. Goodbody then was asked if she remembered Lt. John A. Quinn of the police coming into the Smith apartment and saying to her: "You are not telling the truth!"

Remembers Quinn's Uniform.

"No," she said thoughtfully. "Quinn is the vaguest picture in my mind. I remember his uniform."

"Do you remember some one asking you to stand up while a search was made for the gun?"

"I don't know. I didn't know it."

"Did you see your mother taken out of her room?"

"No, I guess that's when we were all pushed out of the hall into the Smith apartment."

"Did you go in to see your mother?"

"No, they wouldn't let us in."

"Did you see her before she died?"

"Yes."

"Did you talk to her?"

Stays Beside Her Mother.

"No, she was unconscious. She was there two days. I waited for two days, and she was unconscious the next day. I stayed there all night. I sat up in a chair all night, I know."

Here Mrs. Goodbody's memory obviously erred. She was reminded that her mother died at 7:25 p. m. on Jan. 20, and that during the night of Jan. 19 she [Mrs. Goodbody] and her sister left the hospital, had coffee at a drug store, and were taken to the Chicago Avenue police station. She then explained that later that night, after having been deposited at her apartment in The Churchill by a police escort, she had gone back to St. Luke's hospital, where she sat up all night.

"Do you remember when Quinn said he did not believe your story?"

"I certainly do. He had taken off his uniform and came swaggering in. He said, 'You know the gun is in that room, and you know no one came out of it except you.' I didn't even answer him. I just looked at him. That is the first time it occurred to me some one didn't believe what I was saying."

Patience Taxed, She Says.

"Didn't he say that to you in the Smith apartment?"

"He said it at the police station."

"Did he say the FBI would be in on the case, and did you say, 'O, wait a minute, lieutenant. You don't need to bring the FBI into it. I'll tell you——'and then Mr. Rosenberg broke in?"

"I have no recollection of that at all. I know I got impatient because they brought Williams and the state department into it, and I thought that wasn't important at the time."

Mrs. Goodbody was asked about the powder burn on the forefinger of her left hand which she said she first observed when at the hospital.

"I didn't know what it was. I saw I had something on my finger. In the station some one said, 'Those are powder marks.' That's the first I knew of it."

Paraffin Tests Discussed.

"I said you must have scratched yourself with your nails," her sister, Elizabeth, interpolated. "Her nails, you see, are very long."

"But you did refuse to take paraffin tests?"

"No one asked me to take it. Some one mentioned it. I didn't know what it was. I was highly indignant. I don't remember anything more about it."

"Didn't Mr. Rosenberg advise you of your constitutional rights?"

"I don't know what my constitutional rights are."

"Did they explain what a paraffin test was?"

"No one ever said anything about it again."

"Did your father say to you, 'If you know anything, tell it'?"

"No," she said. "No word was ever said by daddy about that, and I never had a discussion of any kind with him."

Theory Makes Her Indignant.

She then was told of a theory that she had borrowed the gun from her mother and was threatening suicide with it when her mother grappled with her for its possession.

"I never held a gun in my life!" Mrs. Goodbody cried in fury. "I had never seen a gun in my life! I never threatened to commit suicide to any one. It is ridiculous. You astound me. You simply astound me. Why should I want to commit suicide? I never talked that way. I never heard of such a thing . . . Shoot myself! Cut my wrists!"

"I just can't . . . can't even . . . astounded. I'm astounded," she finally said.

Another theory was propounded—that she had been trying to take the gun away from her mother.

"It's the Damnedest Lie."

"I tell you I am speechless," she said. Then, raising her voice, "It's the damnedest lie I ever heard in my whole life!"

"That's what Quinn thinks might have happened," she was told.

"Well, he's crazy," she blurted. "Mother never had a gun in her life. I never held one or owned one. Ever, ever, ever, ever, ever. To my certain knowledge mother had never had or seen a gun any more than I had. She never mentioned or discussed such things. She was absolutely fearless."

"With a bullet thru her brain?" Elizabeth inquired.

"I don't know what she talked about, I assure you," Patricia replied.

"They also wonder why she didn't ask if you were all right," she was told.

"Mother had unusual fortitude," Elizabeth again spoke up. "She would have been gay even if badly wounded."

Calls Her Mother Brave.

"I can only say you astound me," Patricia sighed. "Believe me, everything I've said is the truth."

"Your mother apparently struggled with the gunwoman," she was told. "You didn't think of it once she was out of the bathroom?"

"Mother was brave," she said simply. "I'm not brave. I admit it."

"Mother was that kind when her daughters were in danger," Elizabeth added.

"Mother was that kind," Patricia agreed. "Fearless. . . . Now, seriously," she added, "I couldn't lie consistently all the way thru this. I'm not that sort of person. My friends know it."

[Mrs. Goodbody attended the University School for Girls and the Latin school in Chicago, Mount Vernon seminary in Washington, D. C., and a day school in Switzerland for a few months.]

Story of Hall Reviewed.

She then was mentally taken back to the minutes immediately following the shooting and reminded of her testimony that she saw only one man in the hall. If that were true, she was asked, why didn't she see the fleeing woman?

"I don't know," she said. "I just remember pleading with that man."

"Did you say 'Stop that woman'?"

"I don't know what I did. That man is what I focused my attention on. I don't remember anything else."

"But you saw no woman?"

"I don't remember anything else."

"Cook says you pointed to the woman and said: 'Stop that woman. She killed my mother.' Shawke says you just stood by the door wringing your hands and crying. Which is true?"

She shook her head. She didn't know.

Again she was asked why she did not try to administer aid or comfort to her dying mother.

"I Was Terrified."

"I don't know," she said. "I just couldn't have touched mother."

"Why didn't you run out after the woman?"

"I was terrified. Go out and have a jujitsu match with her? I don't think I'll go wrestle with any one, ever."

"What worries you most now?"

"What worries me most?" she repeated slowly. "That you or any one else doesn't believe what I'm saying . . . and that the woman isn't caught. When I think some one doesn't believe me I want to go crazy. Do you think if I knew who killed mother I wouldn't say it?"

Mrs. Goodbody was asked then if any member of the family had asked her if she and her mother had fought for possession of the gun.

"Never," she replied emphatically. "If they had I'd answer them more forcefully than I did you because I know them better. It's the most fantastic thing in the world," she concluded. "I agree with you. I can't think why anybody in the world, anybody, would want to kill me or mother."

With that Mrs. Goodbody said she had told everything she knew.

This concludes for the time being Capt. Harrison's "Report on the Murder in the Drake." His investigation will continue and a further report will be made in the early future. In the meantime, if any readers of his series can throw light upon this mysterious murder, they may communicate with Capt. Harrison by writing The Tribune.

VET WHO SWAPPED HIS DISCHARGE FOR UNIFORM SET FREE

Charges against William Theodore Daniels, 19, former marine now employed by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad at Vermont, Ill., of illegally wearing an army uniform were dismissed yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

Daniels said he exchanged his civilian clothes for the uniform and credentials of Pvt. Sam Phillips in a Galesburg saloon.

WIND AND RAIN HALT HEAT WAVE IN A WIDE AREA

Chicago's heat wave is definitely broken, Forecaster G. L. Canaday said last night after high winds accompanied by thundershowers swept the city in late afternoon, plummeting the temperature 16 degrees from 94 at 4:30 to 78 at 5 p. m.

Scattered showers continued thruout the night and the forecast is for more showers today and possibly tomorrow, with high temperature today about 86, and high tomorrow about 82.

Rainfall in Broad Belt.

The rainfall was general in a broad belt reaching from Omaha, Neb., to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and in some places, Canaday said, was "heavy enough to do some good." La Crosse, Wis., received more than two inches, but the initial rainfall at the airport here was only .18 of an inch.

Heavy showers were reported last night in Park Ridge and in the Hyde Park and Englewood districts. It was Chicago's first rainfall in 19 days.

Similar relief from the heat was experienced in surrounding communities. In Elgin .35 of an inch of rain fell and the temperature dropped from 101 at 3:45 p. m. to 73 at 5 p. m.

Gary, Ind., reported .27 of an inch of rain and a temperature drop from 95 to 74.

Storm Capsizes Boats.

Francis W. Checker, 35, of 2336 Diversey pkwy., was rescued from Montrose harbor after the rowboat in which he was returning to shore capsized when the storm struck.

The storm capsized a sailboat at the mouth of the Michigan City [Ind.] harbor, spilling Ensign Frank Sprague, 22, of Long Beach, Michigan City, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Norma Sprague, into the water. They were rescued by a Coast Guard boat, but the capsized sailboat stove in the rescue boat, which sank as it reached shore.

While the boat was being lifted from the water for repairs, the lifting crane broke, injuring Chief Coast Guardsman Roy J. Enos and hurling another Coast Guardsman, H. J. Miller, into the water. Enos was taken to Clinic hospital with possible internal injuries.

Drop All Along North Shore.

Frank G. Braun, official weather observer at Waukegan, said .31 of an inch of rain fell there and the temperature dropped from a high of 97½ at 2:30 p. m. to 72 at 6 p. m. Similar temperature drops were general along the north shore.

Highways were flooded in some parts of southern Cook county. Lightning struck the barn of Theodore Nietfeldt, 183d st. and Cicero av., west of Homewood, destroying the barn, 1,100 bales of hay, and 175 bales of straw, despite the efforts of fire departments from Homewood and Flossmoor.

Lightning struck twice in the same place within a few minutes at the southwest corner of the People's theater, 1620 W. 47th st. The bolts dislodged bricks, but did not interrupt the show. New City police barricaded the sidewalk to protect pedestrians.

Little Benefit to Crops.

Altho afternoon rains freshened lawns, C. A. Hughes, county farm adviser, said it was too light to do crops much good.

"The ground is dry all the way down by now," he said, "and a rain like this couldn't have gone down more than an inch or so."

Hughes said many farmers now are cutting their stunted corn for silage in an effort to salvage a small amount of feed. Truck farmers, watching helplessly as their vegetables burn up, are beginning to cancel their contracts for additional harvest help, he said. Other farmers are cutting young cabbage to save it from being ruined.

"The pump is primed," he said. "Enough rain fell in the general farm region of Lake county to be worth many thousands of dollars to the gradually withering corn crop. I think 75 per cent of the corn crop in Lake county will be helped."

3 Bad Results of Drouth.

The prolonged drouth in the midwest farm region yesterday had produced three major repercussions:

1. Dwindling feed reserves were being used to feed live stock because pastures have failed. Unless rain comes soon, the vital corn and soybean crops may be reduced by half, experts asserted.

2. Insects, favored by the dry weather, are taking an increasing toll of farm crops. Rains are needed to reduce their numbers.

3. Fire hazards to fields and barns filled with stock and hay have increased to the danger point with the drouth turning the countryside into tinder.

Losses in corn from the drouth in Illinois ranged from 10 per cent in Wabash county to as much as 75 per cent in Massac county at the southern tip of the state.

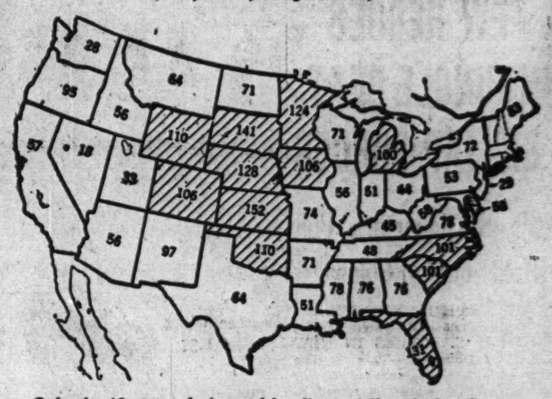
County Farm Adviser Thurman Wright said that the White county loss in drouth damaged corn would be more than a million dollars. In Jackson county, the corn crop was reported cut from 25 to 50 per cent and the soybean crop 25 per cent with little or no prospect for a second cutting of hay.

Farmers were hauling water for live stock in many counties as wells, creeks, and cisterns dried up. Heavy hauler demands were reported in Macoupin, Montgomery, Morgan, Greene, Cass, Scott, Fayette, Jersey, and Christian counties.

At Charleston the city water department banned watering of lawns under penalty of discontinuation of service because of a dwindling reservoir supply.

Drouth Covers Most of Nation

(Story in adjoining column.)



Only the 12 states designated by diagonal lines had at least normal rainfall during July, according to United States weather bureau records. Figures in states are precipitation percentages.

AMERICANS RAID JAP BASES ON 2 SIDES OF TOKYO

Islands in Kuriles and Volcano Groups Hit.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Aug. 15 (AP).—American warplanes bombed enemy island positions north and south of Tokyo and in the Central Pacific over the week-end, stirring up fighter interception at three points.

Three to eight enemy planes were destroyed, others were damaged, and a patrol vessel was sunk in these operations, announced today by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

One Liberator bomber was lost and two were damaged.

Heaviest Raids on Kuriles.

The brunt of the attack fell on the Kurile Islands, backdoor approach to Japan, on Friday and Saturday.

Shipping near Paramushiro and the airstrip at Suribachi were hit Friday. Some 15 to 20 fighter planes hopped the 11th army air force Liberators making the assault. Three of the fighters were shot down. Two Liberators were damaged but returned.

The next day navy search planes hit a new target in the Kuriles—little Araito Island off the northern tip of Paramushiro. A patrol ship was sunk there and defense installations bombed.

Nearby Shumushu Island was smacked the same day.

Battle Japs in Volcano Isles.

At Iwo Island in the Volcano group, about 700 miles south of Tokyo, on Sunday enemy interceptors showed a willingness to fight it out. Nimitz reported "an aggressive group of enemy fighters" intercepted and one Liberator was lost. The air field and adjacent installations were plastered with more than 35 tons of bombs.

Army medium bombers, probably based on Saipan, pounded gun positions and runways on Pagan Island, in the northern Marianas, Sunday and also bombed and strafed Rota Island to the south.

Other raids were made the same day on Nauru Island, west of the Gilberts, and on Jap positions in the Marshalls.

Bomb Halmahera, Sink Eight Boats.

GENERAL HDQ., SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 16 [Wednesday].—(AP).—Low flying Mitchell bombers set afire Japanese warehouses and other installations in raids on Halmahera Island and nearby Ternate, headquarters announced today.

Liberators also raided Halmahera on Monday, smashing at installations along the shores of Wasile bay and setting stores afire and exploding ammunition dumps.

Sink 3 Ships in Formosa Raid.

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 15 (AP).—Three Japanese freighters were sunk by American heavy bombers in a raid on Formosa, Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today. The freighters were caught in Formosa strait by the bombers, which also struck docks at Takao, in southwestern Formosa.

U. S. LIBERATION OF GUAM HAILED BY BRITISH KING

LONDON, Aug. 15 (AP).—In a message of congratulations on the liberation of Guam, King George VI told President Roosevelt tonight:

"Please accept, Mr. President, my warm congratulations on the liberation of Guam from a brutal enemy's occupation. This successful feat of arms marks yet another notable stage in the brilliant advance of United States forces in the Central Pacific and has aroused our deep admiration.

"It is a splendid augury of the coming utter defeat of Japan, to which the forces of the British commonwealth of nations also will make an increasingly powerful contribution."

JUDGE RULES JAP ATTACK PUT U. S., GERMANY AT WAR

Upholds Search Made Under 'War' Power.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15 (AP).—Chief Justice Eicher of District of Columbia federal court held today that the United States actually was at war with Germany from the moment of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, altho the formal declaration came four days later.

The presiding judge at the mass sedition conspiracy trial made the ruling in denying a defense motion to suppress evidence seized under a war time Presidential warrant in a raid on German-American bund headquarters in Los Angeles Dec. 8, 1941.

William A. Gallagher and Claude A. Thompson, attorneys for Defendants Herman Max Schwinn and Hans Diebel, contended the United States was not at war with Germany until congress acted on Dec. 11, and that the Presidential warrant therefore was invalid.

Schwinn and Diebel were arrested during the raid under authority of the warrant signed in Washington by Atty. Gen. Biddle, describing them as potentially dangerous enemy aliens.

Justice Eicher ruled that the courts could not review the power of the executive department to repel invasion. Clearly, he said, this country was in a state of war when Japan struck, not only with that country, but with all the axis powers.

Two FBI agents, Howard H. Davis and Ira J. Kellogg, testified that the two defendants consented to the search and that Schwinn, who was west coast bund leader, coöperated by turning over his keys and conducting the federal men on a tour of Deutsches Haus, the bund headquarters.

Schwinn and Diebel denied they had consented, altho they admitted signing, days later, waivers to any protest. Diebel was proprietor of the Aryan book store in the bund house.

The argument was conducted in the absence of the jury.

HOW YANKS WON GUAM; A DARING PLAN PAYS OFF

BY HAROLD SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GUAM ISLAND, Aug. 10 [Delayed; via Navy Radio].—American troops have crushed Japanese resistance on Guam in 20 days by a daring military plan under which an only slightly outnumbered enemy was outsmarted and outkilled in a ratio of approximately 11 to 1. In brief, the strategy was this:

The 77th army division and the 1st brigade landed on Agat bay, south of Orote peninsula, while the 3d marines were landing at Agana bay, north of Orote. Both of the two groups established small beachheads.

Pincers Snapped Shut.

Then, while the brigade swept up the enemy on the peninsula, the army and marine troops closed pincers across the base of the peninsula, which gave us one large beachhead.

The Japs elected to make their stand on the comparatively flat, jungle clothed northern end of the island. They withdrew most of their untrapped forces to that area. This enabled our commanders to swing the army across the island, anchoring on the east coast, after which our inexorable northward push began.

Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, commander of the 3d amphibious corps of marines and soldiers, emphasized that altho there was no vast difference in the man power employed by each side, our preponderance of air, ground, and sea machinery overbalanced the defenders' numerical approach to parity.

Trap Set Up for Fugitives.

He estimated that several hundred Japs may be hiding in the deep northern jungles and caves, but said the forces which smashed the enemy against the north coast would immediately about face and perform a sweep back to crowd the surviving Japs against the "straggler" line which has been set up across the island.

After announcing that all organized enemy resistance had been crushed, Gen. Geiger said:

"I consider it [the Guam battle] has been a very successful operation. We overcame the Japanese resistance on Guam sooner than I had anticipated when we started. Guam has about three times as much land area as Saipan [which was secured last July 9, 25 days after our landing on June 15]. Of course, there were slightly fewer enemy troops on Guam, but the task here was complicated by the fact that all this area had to be covered."

RAPE CHARGE PLACED AGAINST A. W. O. L. SOLDIER

John Daniel, 24, a soldier absent without leave from Camp Atterbury, Ind., was charged with rape yesterday by Maxwell st. police on the complaint of Miss Georgia Adams, 19, of 4950 Maypole av. Detective George Haennicke said Daniel admitted an attempt to attack Miss Adams in an office at 606 S. Albany av., where he lived and worked.

LOOK_MR. NELSON BABY NEEDS SHOES!

TRUCKS CARRY A "VITAL FIFTH" OF ALL U. S. FREIGHT_BUT ONLY WHEN THEY ROLL!

This is No Time to Hit Production on the Home Front

Nobody wants to let our boys in uniform down. Least of all Mr. Donald Nelson and the War Production Board.

These are the men charged with keeping war plants producing... and our armed forces supplied.

One of their most serious problems today is the alarming number of truck-trailer units now off the highway. Trucks immobilized because they've worn out their shoes.

These are the trucks that meet assembly line schedules . . . and keep raw materials, parts, and sub-assemblies flowing through to aircraft, tank, and ordnance plants.

Seventy-five per cent of all truck freight is war freight. Freight that can't be delayed—or stopped—without throwing the nation's production out of gear.

And—it's the same with the production of America's food. 98% of all food from farms is moved all or part of the way to market by truck... moved by truck . . . or else plowed under.

Yes! Mr. Nelson, Rubber Director Bradley Dewey and O.D.T. Director Col. J. Monroe Johnson have a tough problem on their hands.

They've done a magnificent job month after month . . . keeping trucks rolling . . . keeping war plants producing . . . keeping the armed forces and civilians supplied.

But right now the truck tire shortage threatens the entire structure. A solution must be found—and quickly!

We're confident that these men will find a solution. Because it's the only way that America and her allies can be sure of delivering the final knockout blow on all of our fighting fronts.

SENATE LOOSENS NEWS GAG UNDER ARMY VOTE LAW

Eases Anti-Propaganda Provisions of Act.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—The senate today by voice vote hastily passed amendments to the soldier voting law, which Sen. Taft [R., O.] said were necessitated by the army's "nonsensical, unreasonable, and ridiculous" interpretation of the political propaganda ban in the legislation. The amendments had been recommended unanimously by the elections committee.

Sen. Robert A. Taft.

A series of censorship incidents provoked the senate action. They included the war department's prohibition of the sale of British newspapers in American camps in England; a ban on such books as "Yankee from Olympus," the biography of the late Justice Holmes; an edict against the use of army funds to purchase subscriptions to American newspapers; and the reported ban [later denied] on the motion picture "Wilson."

The amendments given unanimous senate approval and sent to the house would prevent such "misinterpretations" of the law, which, Taft explained, was designed specifically to prevent government propagandizing of soldiers in behalf of any candidate in the November elections. He asserted that the navy had encountered no difficulty in understanding the act.

Aimed at Propaganda.

As passed last April, the act made it unlawful to distribute to the armed forces newspapers, magazines, motion pictures, or literature paid for or "sponsored" by the federal government and containing political propaganda.

The army apparently interpreted "sponsored" to mean sales at post exchanges or purchases by company funds, Taft said, and an amendment specifically exempts such transactions. It was under such an interpretation that British papers were banned from army camps in England and company fund subscriptions to American newspapers were prevented.

Another amendment notes that the act does not prevent the sale and distribution of books, magazines, newspapers, and motion pictures of general circulation in the United States or in an overseas command area. When transportation difficulties limit the distribution of such items, selection shall be made in an impartial manner such as a preference vote by the soldiers themselves.

"Nonsensical" Interpretation.

"The act and its purpose was simple but the war department interpreted it in a nonsensical manner," Taft told the senate. "It was utterly ridiculous to rule, for example, that the law made the London Times a 'United States government sponsored' publication or that company funds could not be used to purchase a subscription to the Los Angeles Times.

"Some time must elapse before the amendments can pass the house," Taft said. "In the meantime, I call upon the secretary of war to see that the war department and its morale division adopts a reasonable interpretation of the existing law."

The prohibition against government political propaganda in the act was strengthened by an amendment banning material "obviously calculated to create bias for or against a particular candidate."

Aug. 15, 1944.

FOUR HUNDRED farm boys under 17, met in the Mazon fairgrounds yesterday to exhibit samples of the type of live stock they'll send to market when they manage farms of their own. They are high school students in 20 northern Illinois towns, all members of the Future Farmers of America. They exhibited dairy cattle, beef animals, and swine in one of the concluding events of their 1943-'44 farm projects program.

There were 666 individual animals in the judging rings during the day, each curried and groomed to the highest degree. The Chester White pigs were so heavily powdered with talcum that they reminded spectators of babies fresh from the bath.

Squash Shine with Wax.

The Shorthorns and Angus cattle had been groomed with linseed oil or mixtures of linseed and paraffin to make their dark coats shine brilliantly. Even the Acorn squash in the vegetable projects exhibit had been waxed to impress the judges.

The surface appearances of the live stock and the vegetables provided the finishing touch to a year's work in the production of quality products. Each of the 400 contestants had carried thru at least one project in the high school classroom and on his own farm since last September.

Some fed pens of three to six swine, keeping an accurate record of each pound of feed and each item of expense. Others bought purebred Holstein or Guernsey dairy cows, keeping similar records of their progress for classroom discussion. Still others participated in soil management courses, a study of farm mechanics, and other types of work which they will use in later years.

Exhibits Poland Chinas.

Louis Thurow Jr., 15 year old resident of the THE TRIBUNE'S Fox river farm, exhibited three Poland china pigs. He bought a registered brood sow last March, and cared for six pigs of the litter. The pigs averaged 72 pounds each when weaned [at 56 days] and when exhibited yesterday at Mazon three of the six averaged slightly over 150 pounds.

The boys in the competition represented high school FFA chapters in Herscher, Reddick. Manteno Morris, Mazon, Peotone, Joliet, Yorkville, Streator, Tonica, Newark, Oswego, Seneca, Marseilles, Grant Park, Chicago Heights, Lostant, St. Anne, and Minooka.

★ The GARDEN ★

CABBAGE APHIS are being reported in some gardens, and gardeners will be wise to check their cabbages at this time of the year so they will be able to combat these plant lice.

Cabbage aphis are tiny, green to powdery blue, and seem to gather on the young, tender leaves in the center of the plant rather than on the large outer leaves. If gardeners can spray against them before they become too numerous they are easily defeated. Nicotine sulphate is the only recommended spray, and when this is used gardeners must be careful to wash the heads thoroly before cooking.

If plants are heavily infested the heads become soft and flabby and do not form properly. When this occurs the safest procedure is to uproot and destroy the heads before the aphis spread to adjacent growths.

DECATUR ARMY OFFICER OUSTER EVOKES INQUIRY

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—Expulsion of army officers from the service for asserted trivial offenses again occupied the attention of house and senate military affairs committees today.

The latest case studied by congressmen is that of Albert W. Borchers, son of Charles M. Borchers, former mayor of Decatur, Ill. He earned his captain's bars in the cavalry but was discharged honorably in February, 1942, as unfit to command troops despite indorsement of his capabilities by Maj. Gen. Jack W. Heard, his commanding officer.

Borchers reëntered the army as an enlisted man last February after petitioning vainly for a court martial to determine whether he had been rightfully deprived of his commission. Altho three infantry captains under whom he since has served as a private recommended commissioning him, the army refused to restore him to officer's rank.

Stimson Asked to Act.

Attorney C. R. McGuire, who presented the facts to the committee, also has petitioned Secretary of War Stimson for a court of inquiry under the articles of war to consider the charges of alleged inefficiency against Borchers.

Committee members recalled the case of three young lieutenants, forced out of the army on similar charges early this year, who carried their petition to the White House without avail. They charged that approximately 4,000 officers, whose training cost the government $25,000 each, were being removed from the army annually in this manner at a time when there was a crying need for trained officers.

Borchers is a graduate of the University of Illinois. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the officers' reserve corps in 1931 and rose to the rank of captain in 1939. He assisted in training the 130th infantry of the Illinois national guard, was an instructor in musketry at Fort Sheridan, and received a certificate as a small arms instructor at the army school at Camp Perry, O.

Acclaimed by General.

After America entered the war, he served in the armored force replacement center, Ft. Knox, Ky., under Maj. Gen. Heard, who later testified Borchers performed a number of special duty assignments in an excellent manner and that he would be glad to have him serve as a captain in his command of the 5th armored division at Camp Cooke, Cal.

McGuire informed the military affairs committees that Borchers "got in bad" because he protested

because a brother officer kept two dogs in an apartment adjoining his. This officer caused to be filed against Borchers a number of complaints, including such as "dust on windows in barracks" and "trace of gravy on dish" in quarters under Borchers' control. This officer was quoted in affidavits filed by another officer as stating that he was "out to fix Capt. Borchers."

Theft of Camping Goods Sets Police to Wondering

South Chicago police yesterday were trying to decide whether the burglary Monday night of the South Chicago Community center had been performed by burglars who had turned campers or campers who had turned burglars. Stolen were four folding cots, 10 blankets and sheets, and assorted tools.

BAIL OF SUSPECT IN 'L' ROBBERY PLACED AT $10,000

Philip L. Carrigan, 20, of 45 South blvd., Oak Park, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 by Judge N. J. Bonelli in Boys' court yesterday when Miss Mary Scanlon of 4653 McLean av. identified him in court as the man who robbed her of $11.50 July 13 at the Kilbourn av. "L" station, where she is cashier. Willard Stubbs, 21, of 4452 Van Buren st., arrested with Carrigan July 14, was in court on a charge of burglary and was turned over to a parole officer for violating his parole last March from Pontiac reformatory, where he had been sent in 1942 for auto larceny.

FREED AS EVADER, BUSCH HEIR TO BE INDUCTED

New York, Aug. 15 [Special].—German born Gert Hans von Gontard, who was acquitted of conspiracy to evade military service in federal court in June, will be inducted into the services Friday, New York City draft headquarters said today.

Induction of Von Gontard, grandson of the late Adolphus Busch, St. Louis brewer, will take place six days before he would automatically become deferred for age. He will be 38 on Aug. 24.

In the conspiracy trial against Von Gontard and three others, the government charged the Busch heir was rejected for military service on the basis of a false gall bladder history supplied by Dr. Arnold Hutschnecker. The latter said he had given Von Gontard sex hormone injections regularly for years to "build him up."

ALLMAN PROMOTES POLICE CAPTAIN TO PERSONNEL POSITION

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday appointed Capt. Harry Fulmer to the position of director of personnel of the Chicago police department, and named Lt. William A. Balswick as commander of the Scotland Yard detail and of the squads assigned to the commissioner's office.

Fulmer will take the place of Col. Philip R. Crippen, who resigned Aug. 1 because of ill health, and will receive a salary increase from $4,500 to $5,040 yearly. Lt. Balswick succeeds the late Capt. Michael P. Naughton.

Commissioner Allman also announced the promotions of Sergeants Matthew Hayes of Sheffield av. station and Thomas D. Donnelly of the state's attorney's office to lieutenancies and of 11 patrolmen to the rank of sergeant.

BOBTAIL BALLOT SUIT DISMISSAL UPHELD IN COURT

Federal Judge William J. Campbell's dismissal July 25 of a suit seeking to compel Gov. Green to certify the so-called bobtail federal ballot for overseas service personnel was upheld yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The appeals court decision was handed down, without a written opinion, by Justices Will M. Sparks, J. Earl Major, and Sherman Minton. The appeal had been carried from the District court by Atty. Urban A. Lavery, who alleged wholesale disenfranchisement of service men and women unless the governor certifies the federal ballot as valid.

Lavery, when he learned of the Circuit court's action, announced an immediate appeal would be taken to the United States Supreme court. This, it was pointed out, would entail an emergency session of the high court since the soldier ballot lists must be certified by Sept. 1.

In the original dismissal of the suit Judge Campbell cited an article of the Constitution conferring the rights of selecting Presidential electors upon the states. He held the federal court lacked jurisdiction to interfere in the matter.

Fire Sweeps Laundry, Causes $15,000 Damage

Fire for which a 3-11 alarm was sounded swept thru the second floor of the Friendship Service laundry at 3709-15 N. Ashland av., last night, and caused damage estimated at $15,000. Much of the damage occurred when the roof, weakened by flame and water, caved in, falling upon expensive drying machinery and other equipment. Five men working at the time escaped injury.

STEALS FROM HIS SON; THREATENS WIFE; GOES FREE

John Barron, 51, of 3136 Jackson blvd., a truck driver and mechanic for the postoffice, was accused of stealing $48 which his son, John Jr., 15, had earned by running errands, when arraigned before Judge George L. Quilici in Fillmore Street court yesterday. The father was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, brought by his wife, Edna, who said he had threatened to beat her at the laundry where she works.

Faced with the accusation of stealing from his son, who is Mrs. Barron's stepson, Barron took $20 from his pocket and handed it to the boy. Judge Quilici then ordered him searched and found he had $46. Barron said he had spent the remainder for liquor.

Judge Quilici entered a suspended fine of $200 and costs and placed Barron on probation for six months.

THE COMMUNISTS TIP THEIR HAND.

The Communist manual for the fourth term campaign was delivered as a speech in Chicago by Eugene Dennis, vice president of the Communist Political association, and has been printed as a special four page election supplement to the Daily Worker.

Mr. Roosevelt, by Dennis' account, has not only been tendered the support of the Communists in his campaign, but has actively accepted it. "We Communists," said Dennis, "must refrain from taking such unilateral action as that of indorsing candidates unless this is done in full agreement with a given candidate and with our collaborators."

The Communists know that their open support of a candidate is a political kiss of death in all but one or two election districts in this country. That explains why they "dissolved" their party and went to work behind the camouflage of such organizations as their own political association, the American Labor party in New York, and the CIO Political Action committee. That is why Dennis asserts futilely that "now, as in the past, it must be made clear that communism is not and cannot be made an issue in these elections." Anybody who mentions the Communist activity is "playing Hitler's and Goebbels' game."

The Communists naturally know the contempt in which they are held by American citizens. That is why they have adopted the false front of the political action committee and nonpartisanship. "Now," says Dennis, "more than ever before, as Earl Browder has stressed, it is necessary to steer a resolute course of nonpartisanship in the elections. . . . In terms of practical election considerations it is clear that only a nonpartisan election policy can succeed in influencing and rallying the bulk of the independent voters who comprise over 25 per cent of the electorate—and a most decisive part. Only such a policy can influence the majority of the Negro people to support the reëlection of the President. . . .

"Furthermore, it must be made clear that the election of Gov. Thye or a Gov. Baldwin must be opposed, in spite of their personal integrity and win the war intentions because a vote for them would bring strength to the Presidential ticket and therefore to the reactionary forces behind Dewey and Bricker."

This should enlighten the public as to the motives behind the rash of so-called independent and nonpartisan committees, tender annuals of the present campaign. They are dancing to the Communist tune and like their Communist instructors, they are nonpartisan against any Republican. Republican voters don't have to descend to this trickery. They can support their candidates without apology or subterfuge.

As a part of their going underground for the campaign period the Communist jackals are prepared to lie down with the capitalist lambs, providing the capitalists are the Wall street variety who wish to join them in exploiting the Roosevelt administration for their own profit.

"It is necessary to remember," says Dennis, "first of all, that influential and powerful monopoly and financial interests such as are represented by Stettinius, Taylor and Baruch, Lehman and Nathan Straus, not only support the government's victory program, but are part of the Roosevelt administration. This is a fact. And existing collaboration with these sections of big business in support of the government's victory policies can and must be continued."

The Communists are traitors to this country. They are, by the finding of Roosevelt's own attorney general, dedicated to the overthrow of its government by force. They are actively supporting Roosevelt for the fourth term and their official spokesman says that they would not have indorsed him without his full agreement. When is Mr. Roosevelt going to repudiate this traitorous support?

AND THEY USED TO CALL IT HITLER WEATHER.

Five years ago, when Hitler's panzer divisions were tearing across the Polish frontier, the Poles prayed for the autumn rains to start and predicted that when their ally, Gen. Mud, joined the army they would be able to stop the Nazi drives. But instead of the rains it was the Russians who came. That hot, dry weather that enabled the German armor and air force to collaborate perfectly in Poland, and again the following summer in France, was designated by the Nazi propagandists as "Hitler weather."

The meteorologists are not certain enough in their science to give absolute assurance that a drouth in the middle west is going to be followed by drouth in western Europe, but they are beginning to discover that major weather conditions, whether influenced by sun spots or some other cosmic force, tend to similarity all the way around the northern hemisphere. And so the Illinois farmers, looking with dismay at their blasted cornfields, can take some comfort in the hope that the same cloudless skies and burning sun will be found over France, where the Nazi high command is hoping frantically for rain to bog down Gen. Bradley's tanks and ground the thousands of American eagles who are tearing the Wehrmacht limb from limb. If Gen. Eisenhower can just have a few weeks of "Hitler weather" in France we'll put up with the heat, and the humidity, too.

THE BUROCRAT LOBBY.

Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.] arose the other day to denounce the presence on the senate floor of Herbert E. Schimmel, a war production board official, who, he said, had been in "constant contact" with the CIO's political action committee during the debate on reconversion bills. Schimmel walked up to the senate rostrum and had a few private words with Sen. Overton [D., La.], who was temporary presiding officer. Sen. Wherry said that the senators were entitled to hear "what is being said when any one addresses the chair," and that any one who represents special interests has no business on the senate floor "advising senators and conferring with the chair."

Schimmel had a meager excuse for his presence in the senate chamber since he is acting clerk of a senate subcommittee, but Sen. Wherry pointed out that employes are not customarily given full privileges of the floor. Not all of the 30-odd lobbyists whose presence Sen. Wherry noticed and denounced had even this tenuous privilege.

The New Dealers will use any dodge that comes to hand to influence and intimidate congress. The senate has autonomous power in its own chamber and the American senators, who are in the majority, ought to see that Schimmel and his CIO confederates, as well as any other lobbyists, are kept off the floor. While they are about it they should find out why this gentleman draws a salary as chief of special assignments for the WPB while spending his time fronting for the Communists.

LOOSE TALK.

The Editorial of the Day is from the Kansas City Star and deals with the vexatious question of race relations. What the editors of the Star say we indorse wholeheartedly.

There are very few people in this city who in the last year or so have not heard on anonymous "authority" some one of the baseless rumors to which the editors of the Star refer. Any one who passes on those rumors is doing as great an injury to his city and nation as he would by gossiping about war information useful to the enemy. The legal rule of evidence is a good one to follow. If you didn't see it with your own eyes, you cannot possibly be sure that the incident you describe actually took place. Therefore, keep still about it.

REPUBLICANS AND BASES.

The Pacific war has proved beyond question that possession of island bases is necessary to our victory and permanent peace in that ocean. An adequate triphibious force—able to control land, sea, and air—is necessary to protect the bases, but the force must have the islands from which to operate. As long as the Japs held the islands, the advantage was on their side. When we began to wrest them away from Japan, we made our start toward victory.

History will show that it was not accidental that all of the original bases which made our drive to victory possible in the Pacific, and which enabled us to protect the South Atlantic and the gulf from invasion, were acquired under Republican party government—Samoa, Alaska, Panama, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. The war with Spain which resulted in our acquisition of Puerto Rico also established American solidarity with the republic of Cuba.

A Republican administration in 1945, devoted to American interests, will insist that we retain the Pacific bases won from the Japs, and will prevent forever any repetition of the disgrace at Pearl Harbor and the start of another Pacific war.

FABRICATED RACE RUMORS.

[Kansas City Star.]

In Kansas City right now the favorite field for silly rumors is race relations. The Star receives numerous telephone calls from persons who claim to know of some serious trouble between Negroes and white people, usually from "absolutely good authority." On investigation these rumors have turned out to be trivial or absolutely baseless. How an incident or a guess becomes a tall tale with the telling and retelling is an old, old human story.

Along with the rumors seems to go an idea that because the reports never appear in print the Star is withholding news of race disturbances. Of course, this is absurd. Anything of normal news value has been printed in the past and will be printed in the future.

The only difficulty involving many persons in recent months was the cafeteria squabble between Negro and white workers at the Pratt & Whitney plant. The whole story of what happened was printed in the Star. The disturbance died down quickly with no serious consequences for anybody; but the rumor makers had a big time with it. New rumors still bob up occasionally.

Of course minor quarrels between individual Negroes and white people are not uncommon and they never have been uncommon. Neither are quarrels or fights between persons of the same race. Such things are just the everyday incidents of life in a community of hundreds of thousands of people. An unpleasantness involving a few people is not news unless there is something unusual about it.

The obvious reason for the quick spreading of any kind of race rumor is the tension that has come along with the war. Some Negroes are overaggressive in their efforts to make the most of what looks like a big opportunity and some white people are secretly hoping for trouble. So far the level heads in Kansas City have helped prevent the trouble that has flared up in some other cities. It is a fairly touchy business that requires common sense continuously on the job. Unintentionally the spreaders of wild rumors make intelligent handling of irritations that much more difficult.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. Approximately what percentage of murders in the U. S. A. are followed by the arrest of the criminal? 25% 50% 85% 95%
2. You should expect to find a tanager in a Tree Chemical plant Library Church
3. Which one of these players on the offensive football team is not permitted to receive a forward pass? Quarter back Full back Right end Center
4. Which one of these insects has the longest life span? Fly Mosquito Locust Japanese Beetle
5. A hybrid should make one think of which creature? Pony Donkey Cow Mule

[a] Touchdown [football] [v] 2 points
[b] Home run with bases loaded [w] 3 points
[c] Ringer [horseshoes] [x] 4 points
[d] Basket [basketball] [y] 6 points
[e] Ace [tennis] [z] 15 points

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

DINNER AT ST. MALO.

Since the German garrison of the citadel at St. Malo seems bent upon rivaling MacArthur's men at Corregidor, a few glances at this ancient Breton seaport may serve to supplement reports of the grim incident. St. Malo is an island city which has spread to the mainland, and under the walls of the fortification, which has stood there for centuries, is the Old Town, birthplace of Jacques Cartier, discoverer and explorer of the St. Lawrence river. Think of the citadel of Quebec and its immediate environment and you will get some notion of the place.

* * *

St. Malo's recent history is that of a summer resort town, especially favored by English vacationers, and it used to have regular steamship service from Southampton, maintained by an English railway company. It was also, in peace, the starting point for tours of Brittany, with express train service from Paris. A circle tour of the Breton peninsula could be organized there, and seekers of sun tan could drift to near-by Dinard for the best beach on that rockbound coast.

* * *

The Hotel of the Universe in St. Malo was an objective for gourmets, for its specialty, langouste à la crême, has been praised by the most finicky eaters of Europe. [It's a kind of sea crayfish as big as a lobster, related to the critter that produces "lobster tails."] While lapping up the creamed langouste you could gaze across the square and observe, thru the twilight, a statue of St. Malo's greatest gift to literature, François René de Chateaubriand, so highly esteemed by the French that they named their best effort in cooking beefsteaks after him.

* * *

After a long and brilliant career as man of letters, religious philosopher, royalist, statesman, diplomat, and friend of Mme. Récamier, Chateaubriand was buried on a rocky islet in the Bay of St. Malo, which may shelter today a few German cannons. Under present conditions there is irony in the fact that his greatest book was "The Genius of Christianity."

THE ROAD BACK.

Above the ruined barracks flies the flag,
Torn from the hands of all too few marines
When all our vaunted prowess seemed to sag
Almost three years the alien flag had flown,
Years filled with toil, and loss, and grief,
But thru the rifts the tropic sun has shone,
And from war's storms will soon come full relief.

This ocean link in our Pacific chain
Thru manly sacrifice and happy chance
This fortress isle rewon at fearful cost,

Let's Climb a Tree.

In the dear old summer, do you remember how you would climb a tree, in which there was always a nice crotch in which you could sit, with a branch on each side and one in the back to recline against?

Do you remember how you rocked back and forth with the soft summer breezes until you fell asleep, and were awakened by the voice of your mother calling, "Roy, where are you?" You did not answer, fearing a childish task of bringing in some wood, perhaps. The voice continued, "Roy, time for dinner." Well, that was different. "Coming, mother," and you shinned down the tree.

You shinned down the tree and ran up the steps leading to the summer kitchen to have your dinner, but while you were eating you remembered swaying back and forth in the crotch of the tree, subconsciously recalling swaying back and forth in the arms of your mother when you were just a babe.

She was dressed as always in a blue calico gown that matched her blue eyes, and her white hair shone in contrast, but her kindly smile and alert manner belied her 55 human years as she bustled about the kitchen.

You looked at one another and you wished she would grow no older, but would remain always the same, and she looked at you and wished you would grow no older, but would remain always the same. Your thoughts rocked back and forth, as if you were swaying to and fro in the tree top.

There is something about rocking and swaying that is primordially old, and it is so soothin'. It is a pity the cradle, rocking chair, lawn swing, hammock, and tree swing have been abandoned.

Think I shall try climbing a tree once more, and rock back and forth. I could do with a bit of soothin'.

S. D. M. writes: "For over 15 years I have served as the head of the physical educational departments of various universities. Now that enrollment has dropped I've thought 'about looking around for a way to be of direct service in the war effort in my field. Is there any opportunity?"

There is a very definite opportunity for men trained in physical education for physical reconditioning activities. Required is a masters' degree or better, coupled with perhaps 10 or more years of educational and/or administrative experience. No coaches are needed. There also are openings for sanitary engineers, medical bacteriologists, biochemists, parisitologists, medical entomologists, and industrial hygienists. We suggest that persons having thoro training and experience in any of these fields send us a brief background resume giving age, education, and practical experience, and the data will be submitted to the interested services.

YOUR OWN BLOOD—A REMEDY.

THE circulation contains numerous chemicals which repel disease. Were this not true, many of us would be ill most of the time. The one thus protected is said to be immune. But even this situation can be improved upon by obliging the individual to absorb some of his own blood, which is introduced beneath the skin or deep within the muscles. In the process, special neutralizing elements appear to be fortified or strengthened.

Now and then the use of the whole product [cells and plasma] may prove lifesaving. A few new-born babes will present a bleeding tendency. The inoculation of a small amount of vital fluid from the mother or father, more often than not, will remedy the condition. The same plan has been utilized with infants who develop jaundice soon after birth. If neither parent is available, almost any healthy person [free from syphilis and malaria] will do. The liquid is withdrawn from a vein in the arm of the donor and, without previous chemical preparation or testing, is injected into the buttocks.

But other disorders are amenable to this healing measure. Older youngsters afflicted with asthma, hives, and similar manifestations respond satisfactorily. Here it is important to repeat the procedure from two to five times at weekly intervals. Instead of employing a grownup, the youngster himself may supply the substance.

With adults, certain skin maladies—particularly those which are allergic in character—may be influenced in striking fashion. In fact, this is one of the favorite methods of combating herpes zoster [shingles]. Equally good results have followed in other types of irritation of the epidermis. As we can well understand, infections cannot be expected to yield to this program.

What are the advantages? There is no danger of serum sickness. Neither is it important to match the blood, as it would be if it were administered directly into the patient's vein. Hives can probably be relieved as speedily as any other symptom. We know the cause is sensitivity and it may be that the very introduction of a soluble proteose is all that is needed.

A case which came under my observation is that of a 38 year old woman who was convalescing from a rather extensive surgical operation. She developed giant hives [urticaria] and, so great was the swelling, that a physician was obliged to stand by all night ready to pass a tube into the trachea. The edema in the vicinity of the larynx threatened to shut off the entrance of air to the lungs.

Some one suggested the use of whole blood and her own veins were tapped. She was given ten tiny doses at five day intervals. All signs of trouble disappeared completely after the third treatment. She has remained perfectly well ever since.

Year by year we add to our knowledge of the value of transfusions. Their use in various forms of allergy will offer relief in many intractable cases.

MAINTAIN CURRENT.

C. M. writes: Are there any precautions that can be taken to prevent phlebitis after surgery? This patient developed the condition after one operation.

REPLY.

In addition to infection, anything that slows the current of blood will need to be shunned. In consequence, activity [including passive movements] will help maintain the circulation. Certain drugs have also been advocated, such as heparin and dicumarol.

GLAND T. B.

W. E. writes: What is scrofula?

REPLY.

The word "scrofula" is now little used. It refers to tuberculosis of the lymph glands, the bones, and the joint surfaces, with accompanying degeneration—discharge of pus. The bovine type of the tubercle organism is usually responsible. The malady is confined chiefly to children. Don't drink unpasteurized milk.

FALLEN WALLS.

T. Y. writes. The walls of my stomach have pulled loose. Will I need an operation?

REPLY.

You require an examination and a careful diagnosis — not an operation. Perhaps your stomach is like Jerico. Walk all you please but don't blow on a horn.

This Changing World.

A gentleman we know who has a broken down Packard which an A-card ties down to a parking lot most of the time is getting desperate. For weeks now he has found a note attached to his car every time he goes near it. Each note said, "I would like to buy this car," and, beneath that, the writer's name and telephone number were given. This week a piteous variation showed up: "I would like to buy your car, and will pay top price. I need a car like yours."

Military Secret.

A soldier, a touch in his cups, came up to the Travelers Aid desk at the Union station not long ago and asked what time his train left. When the worker inquired where he was going, he replied, quickly, "O, I can't tell you that!"

Footnote to Politics.

The next book on American politics will be considerably brightened if its author cares to include the following authentic bit of politicana which just reached us by pony express from a spy in Texas:

During the recent Democratic convention the Washington Star ran a cartoon of former Vice President Garner sitting down in Uvalde, Tex., looking on at the convention from afar. James Byrnes, whose aspirations for the Vice Presidency were blasted by a gentleman bearing the rugged name of Hillman, clipped the cartoon and sent it to Mr. Garner. On it he wrote:

"To John N. Garner, a jealous old man who had thumbs turned down on him by a labor leader, from James B. Byrnes, another jealous man who had thumbs turned down on him by an even bigger labor leader."

Overheard.

The little old lady on the escalator at Field's desperately summoned her courage as the escalator approached the third floor. In polite but quavering tones, she called out: "Three, please."

Invasion Note.

"I just saw a large number of happy faces—captured Jerries," the young private wrote from France. "I wish we could convince all of them that their cheeks would wrinkle, and not their foreheads, if they would give themselves up."

A Driver, What?

A Chicagoan boarded a loop bound bus on the far north side recently and found a seat directly behind the driver. Every block or so he spat on the floor of the bus and snorted: "What a driver!" The bus driver held his temper nobly for a long time, but upon reaching the loop called a policeman and requested the passenger's arrest. The policeman asked the passenger to explain his conduct. "Officer," he said, with a halt while he spat on the ground, "while I was waiting for a bus I saw an Amazonian woman trying to park a Cadillac in the space that would barely accommodate a Ford. So I said to myself, 'Lady, if you can get that car into that narrow space I will eat your hat.'" "Well," said the officer, "did she?" The man spat on the ground again. "She did."

It's a Kind World Note.

If it had happened in a small town, no one would have been surprised, but in the burly, cold rush of Chicago, it came as a shock when a married couple, celebrating their 17th wedding anniversary and receiving many congratulatory cards and letters from friends and relatives, received one, on the outside of which was the penciled remark: "Congratulations. The mailman."

PROPAGANDIZING SOLDIERS.

Fort Ord, Cal., Aug. 10.—It is an established fact that political propaganda or soliciting is strictly taboo within the army. Today several of us heard from Mayor Kelly, and the letter was not of a nature usually welcomed by service men. We are politely informed that President Roosevelt has been nominated once again, and that our vote for him and his henchmen would insure a shorter war and a lasting peace.

We know the one thing that can terminate this war—G. I. Joe. By the same virtue, only G. I. Joe can obtain an everlasting war-free America, but not by being instructed how to vote. The young blood of the nation will be returning one day, and it will be boiling with woe for those who attempt to obstruct the traditions and Constitution founded by our forefathers, with emphasis placed on Monroe and his famed doctrine. Incidentally, we are all very tired of the New Deal. How about a Good Deal?

THEY CALL IT SEDITION.

Naperville, Ill., Aug. 9.—In the highly irregular, if not disgraceful sedition trial in Washington, the prosecutor is said to have read to the jury a letter in which one of the defendants referred to a "crazy address" made by Roosevelt and that he "seems like one possessed of devils." Since when has it become illegal for a private citizen to criticize anything that Roosevelt or any other servant of the people, may say or do?

J. R. DARNALL.

FOR MILITARY TRAINING.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Why hasn't compulsory military training been advanced as the logical solution of many perplexing and impending problems? Such a program would utilize the huge war goods surpluses and facilities now available, and would ease the overcrowded labor market, which will result from termination of the war.

J. C. H.

HOLDING DOWN THE HOME FRONT.

Chicago, Aug. 11—The commander in chief on his magic carpet need not worry about the fourth term home front, as everything is in the hands of his able lieutenant, Soviet Sidney Hillman, who has proven again, again, and again his capability to handle difficult situations, for example Rep. Starnes, Rep. Costello, etc.

BEN SORG.

WANTS SOME AIR FREEDOM.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 12.—Why should the self-styled commander in chief take over all the major networks whenever he wants to make a campaign speech? There are some of us who like to tune in on instructive or entertaining programs. Roosevelt's fireside chats are neither.

MARGARET LYTLE.

ISN'T TUGWELL BURDEN ENOUGH?

New York, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Walter Lippmann, Clarence Streit, and other profound internationalist statesmen are worried about a job for helpful Henry Wallace, come next year. How about Puerto Rico?

Assistant Atty. Gen. Kruger for that unhappy isle tells the United States Court of Appeals that 250,000 Puerto Ricans face starvation. The island has millions of acres of fertile land, and except for brief seasons, a moderate climate. Why not make Henry chief agricultural dictator, and let him show the Puerto Ricans how to grow their own food.

X. P. MCBUNKLIN.

ANTHEM BUT NO FLAG.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Referring to C. Sam Dreyer's letter Aug. 11, entitled "The Flag and the Anthem," his statement that the flag of the United States should be present when the national anthem is sung is incorrect. The United States flag code, passed by the 77th congress Dec 22, 1942, says "That when the national anthem is played and the flag is not displayed, all present should stand and face toward the music. Those in uniform should salute at the first note of the anthem, retaining this position until the last note. All others should stand at attention, men removing the headdress. When the flag is displayed, all present should face the flag and salute."

MRS. ALONZO NEWTON BENN.

PROUD.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—They say I'm always waving the flag because, for one thing, I thrill whenever it passes by. But I'm only one in so many thousands. At the show last evening, at the beginning of the feature, the band in the picture was playing our national anthem. Without hesitation every one in that theater stood up, and it took them a while to play it. I thrilled again. In fact, I had a hard time keeping back the tears. I'm so very proud I'm an American—and others around me are, too.

T. F.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S HALIBUT.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—I am sure it pleased the nation that Mr. Roosevelt had some luck in catching a large halibut on his trip to the Aleutian Islands. I am afraid his radio talk will not catch many suckers voting for him this time. It will have to be better bait than in 1940. He even was very sweet in telling us how the war is progressing. What we really would like to know is how did he get us into this mess, and why?

SPOUSE'S LIABILITY.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—My husband and I had been separated several months when he died. I have been presented with a board and room bill which it is claimed he owed but [1] I do not see why I should be held responsible for his bills. 2. He was not responsible for mine.

DICTATOR POWER IN WAR SURPLUS BILL DENOUNCED

House Republicans Ask Curb on Authority.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—Restrictions on proposed blanket executive powers over disposal of huge war surpluses which may exceed 100 billion dollars were demanded by Republican congressmen today as the house opened debate on the surplus property bill.

Republicans charged during the debate that the bill, as reported by the committee on executive expenditures, would bestow in peace time upon a proposed single surplus property administrator the same "dictatorial" rule that the administration has imposed under the war emergency. It would, they charged, leave the door open for political favoritism and fraud.

Rep. Bender [R., O.], noting that the bill calls for a two year term for the proposed administrator, protested this would permit the naming by President Roosevelt of a favored New Deal reformer, who would continue in office even after the election of a Republican President.

Report Wallace Considered.

The Ohioan said he had heard that those being considered for the post included Vice President Wallace, defeated for renomination; Harry Hopkins, the President's confidant, and Maury Maverick, chairman of the smaller war plants corporation. Bender urged that the bill provide for a "temporary" appointment of an administrator to serve until after the possible change in political administration.

Other congressmen warned in the floor discussion that the bill leaves the door open for a recurrence of the surplus scandals that followed the last war, particularly, they said, if the disposal job should go to an incompetent executive.

The proposed bill calls for a $12,000 a year administrator, to be named by the President with senate approval, who would have "general supervision and direction" over the handling and disposition of surplus property, including the prices to be charged and the methods of sale. He is directed by the bill to consult with a 16 man advisory board of cabinet members and other federal officials, but is not required to follow board recommendations."

Fearful of "Gifts."

Rep. Gifford [R., Mass.], assailing the "dictatorship" powers in the proposed executive, said he was fearful that, without a prohibition from congress, some of the huge surplus might be given away to foreign countries as a peace time substitute for lend-lease.

Rep. Vorys [R., O.] protested that the measure would not prevent the sale to foreign nations of planes, ships, and other war making machinery which might be used against us, nor, remarked Rep. Pace [D., Ga.], is there any restriction against the scrapping of war material we might need for future defense.

Representatives Manasco [D., Ala.] and Colmer [D., Miss.], leading the floor fight for the bill, argued that only a single executive with wide powers could handle the many problems involved in the colossal disposal job. They expressed the hope that W. L. Clayton, well known cotton broker who is now serving as surplus disposal chief under executive order, would be named administrator if the bill is passed. Debate on the measure will continue tomorrow with a vote scheduled by the end of the week.

Call Public Hearing.

Meanwhile, a senate military affairs subcommittee headed by Sen. Murray [D., Mont.] recommended passage of a measure similar to the house bill and authored by Senators Stewart [D., Tenn.], Taft [R., O.], and Murray. Sen. Reynolds [D., N. C.], committee chairman, called a public hearing on the measure for tomorrow, with Maverick and Interior Secretary Ickes scheduled as witnesses.

The house committee on post-war economic policy today proposed early passage of a bill establishing an overall office of war demobilization to supervise contract settlement, property disposal, and retraining and reemployment.

Proposed Added Benefits.

The committee, headed by Colmer, further proposed that the various states increase the dollar amounts and length of time for unemployment benefits to aid peace reconversion.

The house ways and means committee meanwhile began consideration of the senate-approved George bill leaving unemployment compensation payments in state hands but providing for federal loans, if necessary, to supplement state funds in the post-war period. The committee is expected to approve the bill in substantially the senate form. War Mobilization Director Byrnes was summoned to appear before the group tomorrow to discuss problems of reverting to a peace economy.

THE QUESTION.
Why don't people move to the rear of a bus?

WHERE ASKED.
United Artists theater.

THE ANSWERS.

W. P. Orsinger, mechanic, 7531 N. Hoyne av.—The front door should be used as an entrance only. It's natural to leave a vehicle the same way you enter but if passengers were not permitted to leave by the front door they would make an effort to get to the rear. Even with empty seats in the rear people won't move.

Mrs. C. F. Zimmerman, 1025 Home av., Oak Park.—I have three small children and they stay at the front to watch the motorman. I'd rather leave by the front door with them because they are so small that the driver can't see them trying to get out the back door. Once my little daughter got caught in the rear door.

Jean Curran, student, 5030 Barry av.—If you are going to get off a bus in a hurry it's easier to go out the front. It's closer to the corner if you want to cross the street. It's hard to get out the side because the doors don't always open and by the time you can pull the cord again the bus goes past your stop.

Don McCullars, Hialeah, Fla.—Probably it's because they are in such a hurry to get off or are afraid they won't be able to get off. Some just don't know enough to get out of the way and give other passengers room. Others are so busy reading they don't know they aren't the only one on the bus.

Ben Mendelsohn, theater manager, 540 Briar pl.—Many persons get to a bus stop just in time to catch the bus and their only concern is getting on the bus. Once inside their troubles are over. They relax and leave the rest to the driver. They're just like a bunch of sheep. If one would move, they'd all probably move.

PEPPER URGES BROADCASTING FROM CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15 (AP).—Sen. Pepper [D., Fla.] proposed in the senate today that the proceedings of congress be broadcast.

Introducing a resolution to give the radio networks access to the senate and house floors, Pepper said:

"Literally millions upon millions of people demonstrated their interest in the Democratic processes by following the proceedings of the recent national political conventions by radio. It is my opinion that the public interest would be similarly served by the broadcasting of congressional proceedings."

He said the proposed broadcasting privileges would not extend to any government owned radio facilities. His plan provided that no radio station or network should be required to broadcast any of the proceedings and that either house could prohibit broadcast of any of its proceedings.

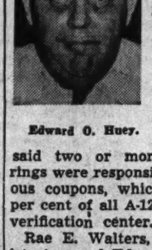
4 JAILED AFTER FLOOD OF FAKE A-12 GAS COUPONS

More Arrests by FBI Expected in Ring.

Arrest of four Chicago filling station operators by federal bureau of investigation agents after a "flood of counterfeit A-12 coupons" had been turned in by the four dealers, was announced last night by office of price administration officials. Other coupons in their possession were confiscated. An OPA official said two or more counterfeiting rings were responsible for the spurious coupons, which total 15 to 20 per cent of all A-12s received at the verification center.



Edward O. Huey.

Rae E. Walters, regional administrator, and Edward O. Huey, special assistant in the ration currency protection division, said the coupons turned in by the four dealers and those confiscated by FBI agents represented 200,000 gallons of gasoline and had been sold at wholesale from 5 to 8 cents a gallon. Retail prices of gasoline sold to drivers without coupons ranged from 25 to 50 cents a gallon.

More Arrests Expected.

Huey charged one of the four operators, whose names were withheld, with wholesale peddling of coupons. More arrests are expected. FBI agents hope to round up the leaders of the two counterfeiting rings within 24 hours. The four dealers will be arraigned this morning before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on charges of possession and transfer of spurious coupons. They face fines of $1,000 to $10,000 and one to 10 years imprisonment.

Huey estimated 80 per cent of all counterfeit coupons now being used in Chicago are of the A-12 type. Formerly more than 90 per cent were Cs, he said. He credited the two counterfeiting rings with circulation of almost all the bogus coupons.

Paper of Two Kinds.

The spurious coupons are printed on two kinds of paper and come from two presses, Huey said.

The A-12s will expire Sept. 21 and will be replaced by the serially numbered theater-ticket type, which will be much harder to counterfeit, Walters said.

HANNEGAN PLANS F. D. R.-TRUMAN MEETING SOON

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15 (AP).—A campaign strategy-mapping conference between President Roosevelt and Sen. Truman, his fourth term mate, is being arranged by Democratic National Chairman Hannegan.

Hannegan, it is understood, is planning to bring the two candidates together for the first time since Truman's nomination at Chicago to replace Vice President Wallace as second man on the ticket.

Friends of Truman said they understood final arrangements for the conference depended upon the President's schedule after his return to the capital from his Pacific tour.

JUDGE FLINGS 'GESTAPO' SLUR AT LABOR POLICE

Quilici Explains Action in Union Squabble.

In a stormy hearing in which he likened the police labor detail to Hitler's Gestapo, Judge George L. Quilici in the Des Plaines st. court yesterday explained why he took extraordinary measures last Friday night to rescue a blustering labor official and his Negro bodyguard from police cells.

The prisoners, Norman Zuckowsky of New York, vice president of the International Ladies' Handbag, Luggage, Belt and Novelty Workers' union, and Artell Lorenzo Shelton, 5337 Wabash av., were freed of disorderly conduct charges after an agreement by attorneys for the wrangling union factions.

Arrested in Office.

The two were arrested after they had invaded the offices of the Chicago Novelty Workers' union, 209 Jackson blvd., threatening to "bust some heads" and Shelton had taken a swing at Sgt. Harold Enger of the labor detail. With Enger was Sgt. Kenneth Gorman, who also witnessed the bellicose entrance of Zuckowsky and Shelton.

The two were fingerprinted at the detective bureau and were held for further investigation when Judge Quilici arrived with Alfred Kamin, attorney for the international, and demanded that a charge be placed against the prisoners so they would be admissible to bail. When this was done, the judge signed their individual bonds and assigned their case to himself.

Judge Explains Action.

"We don't want gestapo methods here; taking people from their homes and hiding them from their loved ones," said the judge as Zuckowsky and Shelton looked at each other. "Atty. Kamin is an old friend of mine and when he explained what had happened, I left my home to see that these men were not pushed around." [Kamin is a former secretary of the Chicago chapter of the National Lawyers' guild, often described as a Communist front organization, and Quilici is a former president.]

Finger Print Issue Raised.

"These men shouldn't have been finger printed unless they were known felons," said the judge.

Kamin had asked that the fingerprints be destroyed and the judge so ordered, but Lt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail, replied that only the commissioner can order that this be done. Quilici then gave instructions that police procedure be followed in having the finger prints destroyed.

The troubles began several weeks ago when Chicago unions seceded from the international because, they charged, they were not getting proper returns from dues payments to it. Samuel Reinlib, president of the international, countered by charging the unions, managed by Samuel Laderman, had refused to submit books for audit. Zuckowsky was sent here to take over and act as trustee pending settlement, by the AFL executive committee on Aug. 21. Judge William H. Holly, in Federal court, will hear another round in the financial dispute of the two factions Friday.

REPORT PONTING MAY BE PUT IN AUDITOR'S POST

State Republican interest yesterday centered on changes taking place in executive positions.

It was reported that Theophilus C. Ponting, assistant director of the state department of conservation, is being considered for appointment by Gov. Green as administrative auditor. This $4,200 a year post was vacated yesterday by Leslie P. [Ike] Volz of Chicago, who became administrative assistant to the governor. Ponting, 46, is a former baseball star at the University of Illinois.

A. C. Margrave, who had been chief clerk, became head of the corporation department under Rowe. He will succeed William G. Worthey, Democrat, who resigned yesterday.

Many Republicans expect Joseph F. Gubbins to succeed Frank M. Kalteux as secretary of the Illinois commerce commission.

Saloons Get Permits, Leaders Charge.

East Peoria, Ill., Aug. 15 [Special].—Accusing the war production board of discriminating in favor of saloons and against churches, leaders of St. Peter's Lutheran church today appealed to Rep. Dirksen [R., Ill.] to help them overcome the WPB's denial of permission for them to erect a new church building.

The congregation of 350, reported the largest in East Peoria, has been without a church for three years. Services have been held on the basketball court and in the auditorium of the Central Junior High school. Men's clubs have met in the homes of members and the church board has met in a hatchery.

The old building, which had served the congregation for 30 years, was sold in August, 1941, because it was too small and lacked needed facilities. It is being used as an apartment building.

War Delays Plans.

Plans for the new building had been made before the old building was sold, and the congregation leaders said they had no reason to doubt that a new building could be constructed, for the time then was four months before Pearl Harbor.

But the advent of war postponed their hopes.

Then last spring, Richards related, the committee heard of relaxations in construction restrictions and applied again for permission to construct a building. This time they asked only for a basement church with a minimum of critical materials and proposed that if necessary the congregation would provide all the labor.

Richards said the WPB returned a formal written rejection stating, in effect, that the church would help the war program if it would abandon its plans for the time being.

Application Rejected.

Convinced that this attitude was wrong, members of the committee decided to appeal the rejection to the WPB headquarters in Washington. On July 27 they mailed their request that the national board review the case. Ten days later the Decatur office of the WPB notified the committee that the review had been rejected because of a shortage of labor in the Peoria area.

In its appeal for a review, the committee asserted the WPB had given distillers the green light to make whisky and had granted remodeling permits to Peoria saloons and night clubs but apparently there was no labor "to build a sanctuary of God."

At his home in nearby Pekin, Rep. Dirksen today said he would lay the matter directly before Donald Nelson, WPB administrator.

AFL HITS DEWEY ON REFUSAL OF LABOR DAY NOTE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15 (AP).—The American Federation of Labor said today its request for a Labor day message from Gov. Dewey had been turned down on the ground the Republican Presidential nominee was too busy.

Philip Pearl, AFL publicist, commented in his weekly column which is distributed to 300 labor newspapers: "Thank you, governor, but we may be permitted to wonder. And we do wonder how much time Mr. Dewey will be able to spare for labor if and when he is elected President since he finds himself too busy even as governor to perform the courtesy of issuing a Labor day message."

Pearl said the AFL sent its request to James C. Hagerty, Dewey's executive assistant, and added: "In making this request we were not asking a favor; we were offering one."

G.O.P. ROLE SAME AS IN CIVIL WAR, GREEN ASSERTS

Outlines Principles to Republican Women.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 15 [Special].—Gov. Green asserted today the Republican party "has come to the fore, as it did in 1860, to champion the cause of freedom, equality, and constitutional government in America," and to beat back the "greatest threat to American constitutional government that our country has faced since the Civil war."

Speaking in Abraham Lincoln hotel at a luncheon of Illinois Republican women leaders, the governor declared "here at home we are struggling with courage and fortitude to free our country from a hybrid offspring of fascism—a mighty burocracy which for more than 11 years has trampled callously on the rights of American citizens."

"The American people have turned to the Republican party to finish this war, establish a permanent and workable peace, and undertake the construction of the American economy and rehabilitation of American men and resources," he said.

Hope in Republicans.

"The American people have turned to the Republican party because it offers full employment at productive jobs instead of unproductive, low paid leaf raking tasks; because the party believes in increasing consumption to meet increased production thru full employment at high wages and expansion of trade rather than curtailing production; because the party believes in encouraging individual enterprise and removing the barriers to individual opportunity for men and women who want to work and save their money and provide a comfortable living for themselves and their families."

The governor declared the people no longer can "tolerate domination by the big city bosses and radicals who have conspired to steal the Democratic party from the Democrats."

Corruption of Boss Rule.

"No one knows better than you women in Illinois the corruption, waste and crookedness that is the result of boss rule," said Green. "And no one is more aware than you of the danger of allowing the Chicago political machine and its slate of hand picked state candidates to come to Springfield and spread over the whole state the graft, extravagance, dishonesty, and bankruptcy that have been cultivated so carefully by the New Deal's Chicago bosses for more than a decade."

AND HE LEARNED ABOUT ROME IN A BOXCAR HOME

Even as the liquor poured from the flask, so did the story pour from the old man's lips. And there, in the discarded caboose the old man had adopted as his home, young Lee Harrington listened to the tale of Romulus Lycurgus Hanks, his great grandfather. "The History of Rome Hanks" ($2.75) by Joseph Pennell, is an historical novel not to be ignored, according to Miss Hodder, manager of the Palmer House Book Shop. The author introduces a breathtaking new narrative style, cascading through the turbulent days of the Civil War and the dark period which followed.

Know your Runyon? Get a copy of "Runyon a la Carte" ($2.00) and know him even better. Here is a collection of typical Runyon yarns about people who dress up their simple lives with a highly-seasoned sense of values. Miss Hodder recommends this for the reader who likes stories based on "little things."

Compiled from on-the-spot reports of more than 150 outstanding correspondents, Curt Riess' "They Were There" ($5.00) is a running story of World War II from the early thirties to the present. A valuable record of events and genuine contribution to history.

Trees may grow in Brooklyn, but aristocracy fails to thrive there. Read "Two Seventy-Two Maple Avenue" ($2.50), by Winthrop Palmer, a different sort of novel, telling the inside story of the decay of Brooklyn's aristocracy.

GIVING A LIFT TO A LOCOMOTIVE'S POWER

WABASH is moving 229.9 per cent more passengers and 117.2 per cent more freight than before the war.

And this Service for Victory is being done with fewer locomotives.

Fewer locomotives now can do more work because mechanical engineers and skilled mechanics have built more power and stamina into them.

Since 1930, Wabash shops have carried out 2,597 projects to improve or rebuild locomotives.

These projects, plus the purchase of modern, new engines, have increased the average hauling capacity of Wabash locomotives by approximately 23 per cent.

OVERSEAS YANK RIPS HAGUE AID FOR ASKING VOTE

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 15 [Special].—An overseas soldier's thumping denunciation of New Deal tactics of bombarding front line veterans with political propaganda was disclosed today along with the letter sent him on the stationery of a Hague Democratic machine politician in an attempt to influence his vote and induce him to solicit his comrades for votes.

The soldier, Corp. Warren D. Jewart, whose home is in Jersey City, indignantly refused to be "a political stooge" and replied that "we have a war to win over here and we don't have any time to do political campaigning." In a letter he sent back to the United States about the incident, Jewart wrote:

"The political trash I have rereceived is enough to make one's blood boil. We really sweat our mail out over here and it is shameful when the mails are cluttered up with this cheap political tripe."

F. D. R. Called "Greatest."

The vote soliciting letter sent him was on the stationery of P. F. McGovern, city clerk of Jersey City, Democratic leader of the 9th ward, and main cog in the Hague machine.

It made the claim that President Roosevelt "has made one of the greatest Presidents that has ever occupied the White House" and asked the soldier to mark his ballot "for President Roosevelt and the other names on the ballot, who are associated with him." It also asked that he vote "no" on the referendum on the Constitution "because it is against the best interests of the people of our community."

"If it is not asking too much also," the letter stated, "I would like you to contact any of your comrades in your outfit who come from any part of New Jersey and solocit them to vote 'no' on the referendum."

Jewart's Reply.

Jewart's reply to McGovern follows:

"Today I received thru the mail the cheapest piece of political data I have ever had the displeasure of reading. A letter with your name in the heading advising me how to vote in the impending national election. I definitely object to the liberty you have taken, and any one with an ounce of intelligence would object.

"Hundreds of American soldiers are giving their lives on the battlefields of the world today, so they can vote in the manner they see fit. You must think we have lost all contact with home civic life and that we don't know what is making the United States tick at the present time.

"Ask Me to Be Stooge."

"You tell me to vote 'no' to the referendum on the constitution. Do you explain the referendum? No, you don't. Even one with an adolescent mind would be skeptical of this.

"In the following paragraph you ask me to be a political stooge and to solicit other [using your term] 'comrades' to vote 'no' to this referendum. I am sorry, but we have a war to win over here, and we don't have any time to do political campaigning.

"President Roosevelt's greatness may or may not have been unsurpassed in the annals of American history, but your nerve or audacity is definitely unsurpassed.

Will Vote for Dewey.

"I will have a feeling of confidence when I cast my vote for Gov. Thomes E. Dewey for President of the United States. May God be with him."

The referendum, which the McGovern letter failed to explain, refers to revision of the state constitution, a proposal which the Hague machine has been battling furiously since it would give the governor certain controls over municipal affairs which he now does not have. It was one of the main issues in the recent gubernatorial election won by Republican Walter E. Edge.

Corp. Jewart lived with his mother and a cousin at 24 Van Wagenen av., Jersey City, before he enlisted in the army some three and a half years ago. He has been overseas for a year and a half. He was graduated from Snyder High school here and then worked for a time at the Jersey City freight yards of the Pennsylvania railroad.

McGovern Disclaims Letter.

McGovern denied everything when he was interviewed on the matter by a newspaper man. He denied he had any correspondence with Corp. Jewart, or that he had "sent letters to anybody," even when reminded that his name was at the head of the letter Jewart received.

Below McGovern's name on the letterhead was the address "775 Montgomery street, Jersey City." McGovern denied that is the address of the headquarters of the 9th Ward Democratic club even tho it is so listed in the Hudson county telephone book and a big sign over the entrance at that address reads: "Ninth Ward Democratic club."

[A letter signed by 14 noncommissioned officers at Fort Ord, Cal., complaining of Mayor Kelly's solicitation of soldier votes for President Roosevelt, will be found in the Voice of the People on page 12.]

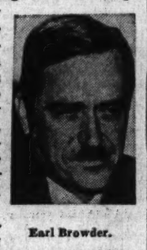
Browder Will Talk at Meeting Sept. 24.

Illinois Communists will hold a rally in the Chicago Stadium Sept. 24 as part of their efforts to give President Roosevelt a fourth term. The mass meeting is to be addressed by Earl Browder, the former convict who is the No. 1 Red leader in the United States.



Earl Browder.

The Communists are working strenuously against the Republican ticket headed by Gov. Dewey of New York for President, Gov. Green for reelection, and Richard J. Lyons for senator. Alfred Wagenknecht, Illinois Communist chairman, said yesterday it "hasn't been decided yet" how many state and local Democrats his group will support, but recent Communist printed matter gives high praise to the state Democrats who are running on the Roosevelt ticket.

Have No Tickets of Own.

To concentrate on Roosevelt, the Communists aren't entering national and state tickets in the 1944 campaign.

Morris Childs, Illinois secretary and former Red candidate for senator, and Benjamin J. Davis Jr., described as a Negro alderman in New York, are scheduled to appear with Browder on the Stadium program, which is under the auspices of the Communist Political association, the name under which the Communists are now masquerading. Printed matter advertising the meeting promises "excellent entertainment."

The Civic Opera house, with some 4,000 plush seats, has been used by Communists for their mass meetings in recent years, but in 1938 they held a meeting in the Stadium, which 12,000 attended.

Election activities "within and around the Democratic party" are urged by Childs in a booklet, "Unity Behind Roosevelt," being distributed by the Illinois Communist Political association.

"Working Toward Same Goal."

"Wherever there are existing organizations, labor, including the Communists, should coöperate with members of that organization, working toward the same goal," Childs wrote. Of the labor situation, he added:

"We are confident that the political action committee [CIO adjunct], as well as the AFL and other independent groups, will work out some plan of concentration to roll up a big vote to back up the Chicago majority and make it stick in behalf of democracy, in behalf of President Roosevelt."

The "statesmanlike attitude of Mayor Kelly," who is Democratic county chairman and national committeeman, was praised by Childs, who expressed hope that the New Deal supporters in Illinois might win in November. Childs gave special commendation to Sen. Lucas, up for reëlection; State's Atty. Courtney, nominee for governor; George D. Kells, Democratic state chairman, and Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, running for congressman at large.

April Primary Discussed.

"The fact of the matter is," the Communist continued in a discourse on the April primary, "that the candidates of the Democratic party stuck to the issues and gave the Republicans no quarter. Sen. Lucas thruout the campaign, as he is continuing to do now, put the soldiers' vote issue in the forefront. Mr. Courtney and Mrs. Douglas, like Sen. Lucas, were pledged to unity and victory under the leadership of Roosevelt. This type of campaigning, continued until November, is bound to attract the voters."

"Pro-Roosevelt forces cannot rest on their oars confident that victory is in the bag," Childs warned his followers. "The task is enormous."

The Communist literature was outspoken in denouncing Illinois Republican leaders. In addition to Gov. Green and Lyons, it expressed disapproval of Sen. Brooks and Representatives Day, Busbey, Dewey, and Mason.

DEWEY EXPECTED TO WIN INDIANA BY 200,000 VOTES

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—National Republican Chairman Brownell, just back from meetings with Bay State G. O. P. leaders, told a press conference today he believed "the Republican ticket from top to bottom is on its way to victory in Massachusetts."

Homer Capehart, Republican senatorial candidate in Indiana, sitting in on the conference, predicted that the Dewey-Bricker ticket would carry his state by 200,000 votes, compared with Wendell L. Willkie's 27,000 margin in 1940.

5 AND 10 HEIRESS BREAKS UP WITH ACTOR-HUSBAND

'Friendly Separation' Decided Upon.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 15 (AP).—Cary Grant packed his luggage and departed today from the Brentwood mansion where he has lived with Barbara Hutton, Woolworth heiress, since their marriage two years ago.

Barbara said they had decided to try a "friendly separation." Altho she added that there was no thought of a divorce immediately, a reconciliation seemed unlikely.

"Yes, I regret to say that all this is true," Grant admitted. "You can quite understand why I have no inclination to make an extended statement."

Barbara Wed Three Times.

Barbara, 31, the "poor little rich girl" who inherited a secluded existence and 25 million dollars with the death of her mother, Mrs. Franklyn Laws Hutton, in 1917, has been married three times.

Before she was of age she wed Prince Alexis Mdivani at Paris in 1933. Two years later she divorced him in Reno under a financial arrangement providing him with $350,000 a year. A day after the decree in Reno she married Count Haugwitz-Reventlow, former Danish nobleman, renounced her American citizenship, and went to Europe to live. She has an 8 year old son, Lance, by this marriage, which ended in divorce three years ago.

Hougwitz-Reventlow recently took the boy to Canada and a spirited legal battle is shaping up over his custody.

Grant Successful Actor.

Grant, 40, wealthy in his own right and one of the most successful actors in Hollywood, separated from Barbara a few weeks ago but recently returned home. The couple's marital differences apparently have been progressing for several months and they antedate her legal skirmishes with Haugwitz-Reventlow.

Both Grant and Barbara have been unhappy for some time, their friends say, and their zealously active war work was insufficient to prevent differences in outlooks and reactions.

MARTIN OPPOSES PLAN FOR G. O. P. HOUSE RULE NOW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—A proposal by Rep. Rowe [R., O.] that Republican congressmen try to take control of the house, including appointment of G. O. P. members to committee chairmanships, was opposed today by Minority Leader Martin [R., Mass.] and other Republican leaders.

Rowe, a first termer in the chamber, said he thought the Republicans, with 212 members against 216 Democrats, could muster enough votes to establish control, perhaps with the help of votes from the four minor party members and some anti-administration Democrats.

After conferring with Rowe, Martin told reporters this is not the "appropriate" time for such a move, especially, he said, when the Democrats still have an actual majority. Rowe said after the conference he did not want to go against the wishes of party leaders and would not press his proposal.

DEWEY TO VISIT MICHIGAN ON HIS CAMPAIGN TRIP

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 15 [Special].—Gov. Dewey, Republican Presidential candidate, will visit Michigan, his native state, during a campaign trip, it was announced here today by Gov. Harry Kelly.

Dewey, the Owosso boy who became governor of New York after winning his spurs as a nationally known "racket buster," will decide details of his visit soon, Gov. Kelly said.

It is believed, the governor added, that if Dewey delivers a speech in Michigan, it will be one of the major addresses of his campaign, but there is a possibility that he may decide just to have a series of important conferences with Michigan Republican leaders.

DEWEY LABELS F. D. R.'S CRUISE AS A VACATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Gov. Dewey this afternoon labeled President Roosevelt's recent Pacific cruise a vacation. The Republican presidential candidate made his statement at a press conference, his first in 10 days.

"There won't be any news today," Dewey said to open the conference. "With the thrilling news of the invasion in south France, there can't be any other news."

"You haven't commented on Roosevelt's invasion of Hawaii," a reporter suggested.

"I won't have any comment on President Roosevelt's holidays," the governor replied.

"I DISCARDED HARSH LAXATIVES"

Ex-Constipation Sufferer Praises Kellogg's All-Bran

Taking nasty doses—for constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet? Then read this letter.

"I wish to submit this voluntary testimonial about KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN as a remedy for constipation. For years I found it necessary to take so-called patent laxatives. They gave me only partial aid. Since starting to use KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN I have discarded artificial aids. My reason for sending this note is to help those who are in the same boat I was." Wm. F. Fraser, 90-10 Barr Place, Hudson Heights, N. J.

More and more people write in about the joyous relief they get from KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. It really gets at one common cause of constipation — lack of certain cellulosic elements in the diet. For ALL-BRAN is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements, which help to fluff up and prepare colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. Remember, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative or medicine, it is a grain cereal — a gentle-acting "regulating" food.

If your constipation is due to a bulk-deficiency in the diet, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly, as cereal or in several muffins. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't enjoy lasting relief. Get genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

GOODLAND AND WILEY LEADING IN PRIMARY RACE

State, Congress, County Nominees Are Picked.

BY MAXWELL MURPHY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 15.—Acting Gov. Walter S. Goodland had won the Republican gubernatorial nomination from four opponents tonight when 1,384 of the state's 3,078 precincts gave him a vote of 56,655 to 26,704 for Delbert J. Kenny, West Bend. Kenny called him at 10:30 p. m., conceding his nomination.

State Sen. Milton T. Murray was third with 15,182. Roland E. Kannenberg, Wasau, had 6,420, and Col. C. J. Otjen, 9,547. Col. Otjen issued a statement congratulating Gov. Goodland.

In 1,386 precincts United States Sen. Alexander Wiley had won the nomination over three opponents. Wiley, a nationalist, attacked for his pro-American stand on foreign and domestic issues, had 59,138 to 26,706 for Capt. Joseph R. McCarthy, Appleton Circuit judge on leave with the United States marine air corps; 15,330 for Leathem D. Smith, Sturgeon Bay shipbuilder, and 5,783 for Perry J. Stearns, Milwaukee lawyer.

Rennebohm Leads Brown.

In the Republican race for lieutenant governor, Oscar Rennebohm, Madison druggist, was being led by State Sen. Taylor Brown, Oshkosh, 11,143 to 9,934, in 755 precincts. Eight candidates were running.

State Treasurer John Smith, Republican, apparently had won his contest. In 1,257 precincts Smith had 33,083 to 7,947 for Martin M. Higgins, and 5,394 for Gerald A. Renquist. In the same number of precincts, Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman, Republican, unopposed, had 38,042, and Atty. Gen. John Martin [R.] unopposed, had 31,617.

Howard J. McMurray, Democratic candidate for United States senator, unopposed, had 22,268 in 1,109 precincts. Harry Sauthoff, unopposed for the Progressive nomination, had 2,652. Progressives expressed fear that their party would not get on the Nov. 3 election ballot because of the small number of Progressive votes cast. They require 23,603 votes.

Gawronski Is Trailing.

In the Democratic race for the nomination for governor, Daniel W. Hoan, Milwaukee's Socialist mayor for 23 years, was leading John N. Zimmermann, 16,577 to 10,592 in 1,216 precincts. In the Progressive race in 1,131 precincts, Alexander O. Benz had 2,823 to 1,602 for Ralph F. Amoth, 1,441 for John H. Kaiser, and 1,783 for Leo Vaudreuil.

In the 4th Milwaukee congressional district, where the political action committee of the CIO indorsed State Sen. Anthony P. Gawronski, for the Democratic nomination for congress against Rep. Thad F. B. Wasielewski, Gawronski was trailing the congressman 674 to 1,668 in 29 of 278 precincts.

The prediction of the Republican State Chairman Thomas E. Coleman, Madison, that the G. O. P. would get two-thirds of all the votes cast in the primary, was apparently more than justified. Returns from 734 precincts showed the Democrats and Progressives barely running.

Vote Is Very Light.

The vote was light. It was expected that the total for the state would not exceed 350,000. Election officials predicted a vote of 120,000 for Milwaukee county, where normally one-third of the state's votes are cast. In the 1940 primary the total was 150,818 in Milwaukee county. Of 13,000 ballots sent to service men and women in the county, only 3,295 were returned.

Eighteen clerk's of major Wisconsin cities reported today that they had sent 28,184 ballots to service men and women but only 7,512 were returned. The state has an estimated 250,000 persons in the fighting services.

Altho his four opponents in the Republican gubernatorial campaign discussed general state issues with emphasis on what they would do in the way of rehabilitation and re-education of returning veterans, the real issue in the campaign was Goodland's age. He will be 82 on Dec. 22.

"All Out" for Roosevelt.

Hoan had made an issue of "liberalism" in his campaign.

He announced he would make the run at a sparsely attended convention of "liberals" at the Auditorium in July, at which time he announced that he was not a Democrat, or for that matter, a member of any party, but was "all out for Roosevelt." McMurray, who defeated Lewis D. Thill, Republican incumbent, in the 5th congressional district in 1942, relinquished his seat to make the race for the senate. He too, was indorsed by the "liberal" convention at the Auditorium.

Capt. McCarthy, home on a 15 day leave from the Southwest Pacific, was precluded by military regulations from making speeches or discussing issues. His campaign was conducted by friends thru the mails and was said to be the biggest thing of its kind ever attempted in Wisconsin. All but 75,000 citizens of the state received his mail.

Capt. McCarthy, who received the returns at the home of his father, Tim, at Grand Chute, issued a statement at 12 p. m. conceding the election to Wiley. He called the senator, long distance and wished him "luck." The officer returns tomorrow to active duty.

Stringham Leads G. O. P. Congress Race in Utah

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 15 (AP). —B. H. Stringham, mayor of Vernal, assumed a commanding lead for the Republican nomination as Utah's 1st district representative in today's runoff primary. Unofficial reports from 354 of the 492 voting districts gave Stringham 4,876 votes to 3,016 for William Peterson of Logan.

REPORT 3 POLIO CASES IN CITY; TWO IN COUNTY

Three new cases of infantile paralysis were reported in Chicago yesterday by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health. This brings to a total of 18 the number of cases reported in August. Forty-four cases have been reported since Jan. 1, with two deaths. These figures are considerably lower than the 90 cases and ten deaths reported in the same period last year.

Two 13 year old boys, one a resident of Wilmette, the other of Northbrook, became the 14th and 15th victims in Cook county outside Chicago to be stricken with infantile paralysis, it was reported by the office of Dr. Edward A. Piszczek, county health director. No deaths have resulted so far this year.

NELSON PREDICTS BOOST IN GOODS ON NAZI DEFEAT

Expects 30% Gain in Civilian Output.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Aug. 15. — WPB Chairman Nelson predicted today that military production will be reduced roughly 40 per cent when the war with Germany ends and that manufacture of civilian goods will be increased 30 per cent to approximately the level of 1939.

He said in a press conference that the WPB will not continue unnecessary production controls when the war with Germany ends, altho there will be priorities to keep military output at the volume needed to defeat Japan.

When Japan is defeated, he continued, there probably will be no necessity for any controls other than a few covering critical materials such as tin, crude rubber, and lumber during a transition period.

Warns Increase to Be Slow.

Discussing the WPB order of yesterday which authorized renewed civilian manufacture of more than 75 classes of articles, Nelson warned this order will not result in a substantial increase soon in market supplies of these goods.

The order included the production of such items as vacuum cleaners, sewing machines, lawn mowers, cutlery, kitchen utensils, electric fans, and typewriters where labor, materials, and facilities are available.

He said the largest increases probably would be in the manufacture of simple articles, rather than in such goods as vacuum cleaners, fans, and sewing machines where motors, wiring, and ball bearings are needed. There still is a shortage of these components because of the scarcity of labor, he said.

Termed "Get Ready" Order.

The new civilian order is conditioned by increased military needs, Nelson said. The authorization for renewed civilian manufacture is primarily a "get ready" order, providing the mechanism for reconversion as soon as reductions occur in military production, he asserted.

Nelson said there is little hope for quantity production of electric and gas regrigerators and electric washing machines for some time, adding it is impossible to predict when such manufacture might be resumed. He said he is confident that once the automobile industry ceases war production, the speed with which plants will be reconverted and automobiles manufactured for civilians "will surprise the whole nation."

Nelson and WMC Director McNutt announced jointly that their two agencies are agreed that war production has first claim on the nation's labor and that man power will not be diverted from military and essential civilian output to less essential civilian manufacturing. Their statement said there should be maximum resumption of civilian manufacture consistent with military needs, and planning for reconversion should be pressed "with the utmost diligence and intelligence" so war workers may be employed readily in peace time industry.

Mrs. Ann Lee Miller, who died last Dec. 20 at the age of 70, left an estate of $960,061, an inheritance tax appraisal filed in County court disclosed yesterday. She was the widow of George P. Miller, pioneer Chicago automobile dealer and former president of the Nash Sales company, who died in 1930.

Federal taxes were estimated at $250,000 and Illinois inheritance taxes were set at $22,847. Mrs. Miller left the bulk of her estate to her son, G. Paul Miller of Madison, Wis., and her two daughters, Mrs. Gladys M. Brady of 5490 South Shore dr. and Mrs. Nancy M. Sainty of Clayton Priory, near Hassocks, England.

Bequests of $5,000 each were provided for Mrs. Miller's son by a former marriage, Frederick C. Broome of Mercer, Wis.; her brother, John T. Lee of 4802 Dorchester av.; a granddaughter, Mrs. Ann Lee Ross of 5490 South Shore dr., and a grandson, John Christopher Sainty, also of Clayton Priory.

Many Women Devote Time to St. Luke's

BY JUDITH CASS.

PLANS for the annual St. Luke's Fashion show, to be held Oct. 18 in the Stevens hotel, are hanging fire until a quorum of women's board members is in town to start work in earnest. Meanwhile the many fashion show workers who patriotically are spending the summer at home devote several days a week in various departments at the hospital where their help is desperately needed.

Serving as receptionists this summer have been Mrs. John A. Stevenson, Mrs. Huntington B. Henry, and Mrs. Stanley Keith, who give information and other services to patients. That they will do anything possible to assist hospital guests is indicated in the story going the St. Luke's rounds about the day quiet, gentle little Mrs. Stevenson rushed out into Michigan-av. and whistled down a taxicab for a patient leaving the institution.

Mrs. A. Watson Armour comes in from Lake Forest regularly to lend a hand in the diet kitchen and will return to her duties Monday after a short holiday. Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson is supervising the attractive little shop in the lobby in the absence of Mrs. Selim W. McArthur, who is at her summer home in Mackinac Island. Working in the shop are Mrs. Eric Oldberg, Mrs. John C. Pitcher, and Mrs. J. Beach Clow.

Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson is taking over Miss Cornelia Conger's floor duty activities, such as receiving patients, quieting relatives, and assisting in other useful ways, while the latter is away. Mrs. Robert M. Adams goes regularly to the hospital to serve as a nurses' aid. Still another board member, Mrs. Edward R. Fifield, is a patient there, observing at first hand and "from the other side of the fence" the work of her associates. Mrs. Stevenson will leave Friday for Charlevoix, Mich., and Mrs. Keith is having a month off, which she is spending at the same Michigan resort.

On the Calendar.

When the board of the North Avenue Day nursery gives its benefit cocktail party Aug. 29 in the Wedgwood room of Marshall Field & Co., the husbands of three board members—Jere Patterson, Robert McKenna, and John Quincy Adams Jr., whose wife heads the organization—will find themselves in the roles of fashion judges. Each will select his favorite hat from the audience, and the feminine guests wearing the winning bonnets will receive surprise awards. Hats will be the theme of the party, for there will be a brief showing of new millinery entitled, "The Way You'll Look This Fall." The room will be air conditioned if the day is sultry, and the price of $2.50 a ticket will cover all expenses, including cocktails and hors d'oeuvres. A number of the guests will form dinner parties after the benefit, including a group which will go on to the McKenna home for buffet supper.

Here and There.

With an overseas plane priority in his pocket, Lewis Bernays is on his way to the eastern airport from which he will take off for several months in England. Tonight he is having a reunion in Boston, Mass., with his son and daughter-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. W. Richard Bernays, when he will see his first grandchild, William Richard Bernays Jr., for the first time. Tomorrow night he will go to Baltimore, Md., for a brief visit with another son, Ensign Peter Bernays, who is enrolled in a naval training course near-by.

Friends of Miss Janet Ann Pratt, who will become the bride of John Stuart Vollmer Aug. 26, have been invited to a trousseau tea today in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Carl Pratt of Evanston, where the 4:30 p. m. ceremony on the 26th will take place. Mrs. Roy Skibbee will give a luncheon and shower for Miss Pratt Aug. 24, and that night Mr. Vollmer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Vollmer of Evanston, will entertain at a bridal dinner in the Orrington hotel.

Sgt. and Mrs. Frederick W. Patterson Jr. [Naomi Anderson] are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, Candyce Marie, Aug. 8 in Passavant hospital. The baby's father is serving with the army in France.

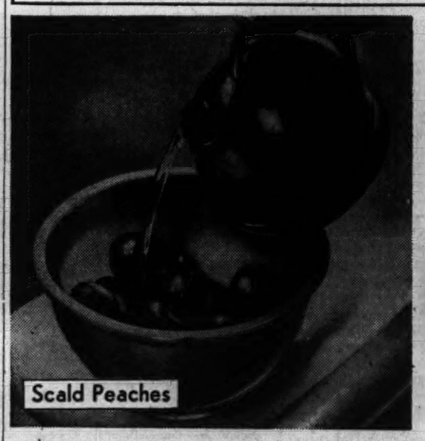
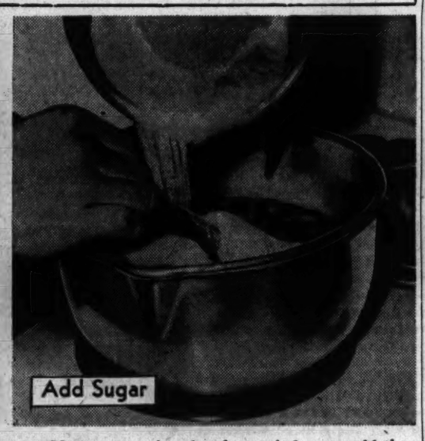
Mary Meade Shows Steps for Making Peach Jam



1. Scald peaches; let them stand in the hot water ½ minute; dip in cold water and peel. Slice or chop; add just enough water to keep them from scorching; cook gently until soft.



2 Measure peach pulp; for each 3 cups, add the juice of a lemon. Measure into a bowl ⅔ cup sugar for each cup of pulp. Bring pulp to a boil; stir in sugar.

3. Cook jam until it is thick and clear; stir frequently to prevent scorching. Pour into sterilized glasses; seal with paraffin while hot. Cover glasses with metal caps or wax paper.

4. Label glasses of jam before putting them away. Jellies and jams should be kept in a cool, dark, dry place. Heat or dampness may cause fermentation; light may fade color.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

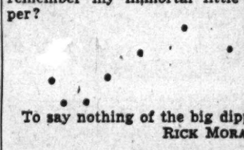
Collector's Item.

The tale concerns one of our favorite careerists, Claire MacMurray, whose new book, "Out on a Limbo," already has gone into its second printing. Claire has been autographing copies like mad around Cleveland, her home town, which amused her youngest son.

"Say, dad," he said to his father the other night, "I know where you can pick up a genuine unautographed MacMurray!"

The Male of the Species.

Do men make typewriter drawings? Why, of course! Don't you remember my immortal little dipper?



To say nothing of the big dipper?
RICK MORAN.

She Must Live Right.

A WCG receptionist had her one and only son come home on a furlough after 28 months of foreign service—and a few days later found a pair of new nylon hose [intact with price tag] in a dark corner of a dresser drawer. Surely the two biggest thrills of war time!
MARIAN B. FEELEY.

Wiving and Hiving.

"Ever since the rosy apple episode in the Garden of Eden, woman has been wiving and hiving, making and baking, saving and laving, spending and lending, sewing and hoeing, wining and dining, cleaning and preening, coquetting and soubretting, dressing and pressing, cooking and looking. . . .

"Sweethearts, wives, and mothers. . . .

"Filing clerks, factory workers, saleswomen, and maids. . . .

"And even a judge or two. . . .

"Old Adam's helpmeet has grown 43,000,000 strong—the feminine population of the United States over 19 years of age!"

—From Wiar, "Woman Is the Payoff."

On the Memo Pad.

The first girl volunteer at the W. Washington st. service men's center, Millicent Wirz [whose membership dates back to the autumn of '41], was married last month to a navy man, Audre Fisher. It was Millicent who started the S. M. C. girls' organization. . . . Bruen Blarney says the hardest person to put to work is the one "always willing and never ready." . . . Marriages in England have dropped below the last pre-war year, due, according to the Daily Mail, to the eligible men being in service and young women doing "win the war jobs." . . . The United States army medical library lists 1,200,000 books and pamphlets. . . . Lil Oswald coins a word. She is, she says, a transcribbler.

Few Garments Go Long Way for Collegians

BY REA SEEGER.

Play the unit system of working a wardrobe, as the college crowd is doing. This clever stunt produces versatile costumes in varied color schemes. Downright fashion magic is worked with what are called "separables"—coat-jackets, skirts, jumpers, shirts, blouses, waistcoats, sweaters, and the small accessories such as belts, blazers, scarfs, sashes, stockings, and gloves. The more you round up to make a wardrobe the more fun you can have assembling a costume that is for you and you only.

Much of this magic is achieved with high, bright, or sizzling colors—brilliant colored stockings in red, yellow, green, and brown; clothes in vivid shades of almost every known color; leather and string gloves; with soft, round necked wool blouses and shirts in most any color of the spectrum, and with long-sleeved, form fitted sweaters, and contrasting colored jackets. Even the longer line greatcoats and the swagger knee length toppers are exuberantly colored, ready for this mixing unit craze.

Plaids that almost shout with free and uninhibited combinations of colors, are used for suits, extra jackets, capes, and coats. With such an eye-catching maze of colors you can proceed, with or without caution, to the roundup of a typically fall and winter 1944 wardrobe. Green, red, or gold colored extra skirts; beige, gray, light blue, red, and off-white blouses; dotted and striped wool scarfs, vest sweaters, and thick, swanky looking string finger gloves are all the extras needed, one of each or as many as your allowance permits, for the fun of making six original outfits work like 18 or 20 before the season is over. All this loot will be found in the well stocked college shops.

Holland Rusk Torte.
[Serves six to eight.]

1 7-ounce package Holland rusk or zwieback
¾ cup sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ cup melted margarine
3 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup sugar
2 cups milk
Dash of salt
3 eggs, separated
2 teaspoons vanilla
6 tablespoons sugar
1/16 teaspoon cream of tartar

Crush rusk and add sugar, cinnamon, and margarine. Reserve 1 cup of mixture for topping and pat remainder into bottom of greased, shallow pan [about 9 inches square]. Combine cornstarch and sugar and add milk and salt. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until thickened. Stir in beaten egg yolks and cook 2 or 3 minutes longer. Add vanilla and cool. Pour into crumb lined pan, spreading evenly. Beat egg whites until foamy. Add cream of tartar and beat until nearly stiff. Fold in sugar gradually, beating until mixture stands in peaks. Spread on custard and sprinkle with remaining crumbs. Bake in moderate oven until meringue is lightly browned about 20 minutes.

Music Festival Throng to Hail Queen Adeline

FESTIVAL TICKETS.
Reserved seat tickets to the 15th Chicago Music Festival, to be held in Soldiers' field Saturday night, may be obtained at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st., and in Tribune Tower. Prices are $1.25 and 80 cents, federal tax included.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Of the thousands of women war workers who next Saturday night will put on their newest dresses and go out for the best evening that their resources or the man power supply will permit, one will have an engagement different from any other of her life. She herself could never have dreamed of it. Even the Cinderella fancies of childhood pale before this reality.

She will be driven into Soldiers' field in an open car to the cheers and applause of thousands of patrons of the 15th Chicago Music Festival. She will hear this giant audience serenade her with one of the best liked of songs, "Sweet Adeline." She will be crowned Queen Adeline of the 1944 music festival by Harry Armstrong, composer of the song. Monday—possibly Sunday—she will go back to her war plant to continue the drilling or milling or typing which is her contribution to victory.

Harry Armstrong.

This girl will be the winner of the Sweet Adeline contest which was announced by THE TRIBUNE last month and which was open to all war workers of the Chicago area named Adeline. Elimination contests have reduced the field to 10. One will be chosen from among these at the Music Festival luncheon in the Morrison hotel Friday. All 10 will be honored at Soldiers' field Saturday, for the nine runners-up will constitute a court of honor for Queen Adeline. All will receive war bonds as gifts of THE TRIBUNE.

Tonight all the Adelines who took part in the contests will be guests of the Cleveland and Buffalo Steamship company for a moonlight cruise on the City of Grand Rapids. The Four Misfits, judged by experts to be one of America's outstanding barber shop quartets, will be on deck to serenade the girls at the drop of a straw hat or the twirl of a cane. The Misfits will take part in the greeting to Queen Adeline Saturday evening, too. The quartet is made up of Ellis Perkins, Joseph Murrin, Art Bellan, and Pete Buckley.

The curious history of "Sweet Adeline" goes back to the 1890s. A young composer named Henry W. Armstrong wrote a song which he vainly tried to market under the title of "My Old New England Home." Later he and the lyricist, Richard H. Gerard, named it "You're the Flower of My Heart, Sweet Rosalie."

It might have been Rosalie who was sung to in thousands of barber shops and barrooms down the years, and the war workers who are coming to Soldiers' field might have needed the name Rosalie to qualify, were it not for the fact that Gerard was inspired by a farewell concert of Adelina Patti in New York in 1903 to change the name of the lady to Adeline.

The song was published in 1903 and became a hit in 1904. It was a simple love song, not a barroom ballad, and when it is sung without exaggeration, and without a deliberate attempt to make its high notes excruciating, its real character comes out. It will be sung properly in Soldiers' field Saturday.

Henry W. Armstrong became Harry Armstrong because of the mistake of a printer who worked on an early batch of 100,000 copies of "Sweet Adeline." Armstrong, now 65, is also the composer of 300 other songs, among them "Love My Wife but Oh You Kid" and "Nellie Dean."

Contest Picks Cook County's Best Twirlers

Two young men who have won Chicago Music Festival honors in years past tied last night for first place in the senior boys' division of the preliminary baton twirling contest for Cook county. Because of threatening weather the competition was held in the sheltered concourse of Soldiers' field instead of in the open arena.

The first place winners were Ernest Sandstedt, 22, of 4452 Dover st., and William Skrivan, 18, of 9914 Aberdeen st. Sandstedt, a clerk for the Erie railroad, won the festival preliminary contest in 1942. Skrivan holds 38 medals for baton twirling, having won first place at the festivals of 1938, 1942, 1943, first place twice in the national high school twirlers' contest, and first place in the Illinois American Legion contest.

Jean Morrice, 18, of 319 N. Latrobe av., a student at Purdue university, won first place in the senior girls' division. She was last year's festival winner and in 1941 was national high school champion. Second place went to Margaret Ann Scott, 18, of 7336 Greenleaf av., and third to Jean Evans, 18, of 2531 N. Avers av.

Randall McNally, 14, of 8430 S. Wood st. was winner in the junior boys' division. He formerly was drum major of the Mount Carmel High school band. Second place went to Bernard Fraser, 14, of 7701 Emerald av.

Jeanne Chilson, 13, of 3830 Octavia av., a sophomore at Steinmetz High school, took top honors in the junior girls' division. Patty Laurell, 15, of 5554 Belmont av. was second, and Dorothy Wendt, 15, of 3655 Spaulding av., third.

James R. Davis, 8, of 3542 N. Cicero av., who is in the fourth grade at Gray Elementary school, led the juvenile boys. Jim Todd, 10, of 753 W. 48th st. was second, and Gordon A. Stiritz, 7, of 2639 N. Newcastle av., third.

Joy Waller, 11, of 5325 S. Hermitage av., in the seventh grade at Fulton Elementary school, led the juvenile girls. Pat Lavole, 11, of 8328 S. Aberdeen st. was second, and Marianne Serpico, 10, of 5514 S. Menard av., third.

Finals in the baton twirling contests—all divisions—will be held Saturday beginning at 9 a. m. in Soldiers' field. The winners and other contestants will appear that night in the festival. Last night's contests were directed by Fred W. Miller, supervisor of festival field activities, and were judged by Naval Aviation Cadet Charles Anderson, 10139 Calumet av., and Miss Shirley Kaczmarek, 2155 N. Lockwood av. Mrs. Grace Hansen was chairwoman.

Thru the Looking Glass

It's not easy to keep hair shiningly clean—and fragrantly so—in the kind of wickedly hot weather we've been having, but it's certainly an obligation. Nothing looks so hot, so slovenly as dingy hair, and nothing is so offensive as the odor it acquires.

You'll shampoo your hair twice as often in the summer if you're smart. It really does get dirtier, you know; there's more dust flying around, you perspire more, and chances are you wear a hat less often than you ordinarily do. And while you can "get by" with soiled hair in the winter, you simply can't do it in hot weather. We don't know why this is exactly, but it's true. It makes you look fearfully messy and wilted.

If you perspire a great deal and your hair is oilier than in the winter, give your scalp between-shampoo cleansings, using some slightly astringent lotion. And brush furiously, to remove the coating of oil and grease. If your hair is quite, quite clean, put a little cologne on it now and then to scent it faintly. But never use scent unless the hair is free of grime and oil; the combination of perfume and scalp perspiration is horrible beyond belief.

The dry shampoos are hot weather wonders when you want to restore sheen quickly. They'll lap up the excess oil that has gathered so much grime unto itself that the hair is dull and dirty looking, and your hair will be much easier to arrange after a crisp kind of cleansing.

You're always on something of a treadmill in humid weather, battling away to keep fresh, but there's nothing to do about it but keep up the fight. And your fight on hair grime and grease is one of the most important.
ELEANOR NANGLE.

March of 2,000 Musicians Will Climax Festival

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Forty instrumental groups, totaling more than 2,000 players, will participate in the big grand finale parade in Soldiers' field Saturday night at the 15th annual Chicago Music Festival, Capt. Howard Stube, general chairman of all instrumental participation in the festival, announced yesterday. These musicians are from the army and navy, public, Catholic, and Lutheran schools, recreation centers, municipal organizations, and from private music schools. The navy band is from the Great Lakes Naval Training center and the army bands are from Fort Sheridan, Camp Des Plaines, and Camp Skokie.

A contest for adult and juvenile bands will be started at 9 a. m. Saturday in the W-G-N main studio. Competitions for accordion bands will be started at the same hour in the Knickerbocker hotel. Solo contests for accordionists will be held in the Knickerbocker hotel starting at 1:30 p. m. and for saxophonists, clarinetists, trombonists, and pianists at the Medinah club starting at 9 a. m.

CLASS A [adult bands of more than 30 players]—Chicago Boys' Club, John Sevinec; South Milwaukee, Wis., Municipal, Arthur Draws; Chicago School of Music, Peter Zukovsky.

CLASS B [adult bands of 30 players or less]—Wauwatosa, Wis., Recreation, William W. Watson.

CLASS C [juvenile bands of more than 30 players]—Catholic Youth organization, Thomas F. Fabish; Davenport, Ia., High school summer, F. E. Mortiboy; Main Township High school summer, Emmett R. Sarig; East Moline, Ill., High school, Alvar T. Berghult.

CLASS D [juvenile bands of 30 players or less]—Viola, Ill., Community High school, Elmer Ziegler; Edward J. Tobin School, Oak Lawn, Laddie A. Kubec; St. Mary's Training school, Des Plaines, Mrs. Thomas F. Fabish; All Lutheran school, William J. Thurn.

Accordion bands entered in competition are:

Non-competing instrumental groups in the contest but which will participate in the finale will be:

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Boys' Y. M. C. A. Drum and Bugle Corps, R. Ariel Cross; Evanston Drum and Bugle Corps, H. E. Greshold, commander; Milwaukee, Wis., Kilties, Frank Hoffman; Decorah, Ia.; Junior Drum and Bugle Corps, James Hepburn, commander; Flute Band, Joseph Valley, and Glenbard High School, O. G. Baer.

The following Chicago high schools also will send bands: Schurz, Calumet, Lake View, Waller, Bowen, Austin, Foreman, and Senn.

Yesterday noon the 10 winners of the festival's Cook county vocal contest appeared before the Chicago Rotary club in Hotel Sherman. After singing a portion of their contest aria the entire group gave the first performance of "Make Way for the New Day," a patriotic song written by Cathryn Bennett, pianist for the Rotary club.

With one rehearsal the five young men and five young women sang it with Frank Bennett conducting. The composition, dedicated to Mrs. Bennett's son, who is now in the South Pacific, was received most enthusiastically. Those singing were Mrs. Marion Olson Brown, June Browne, Delia Marshall, Alice Helminiak, Carol Smith, James Bailey, Carl Chevedden, Claude Smith, Peter Kuhns, and William E. Johnson. They were accompanied by Robert McDonald.

Goare of Slocomb, Ala. Miss Starrett attended DePauw and Northwestern universities. Her fiance, whose home is in Pensacola, Fla., was graduated from Auburn university. He is serving overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley B. Kirk of New Rochelle, N. Y., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Marion Beverly, to Lt. William J. Marshall of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Marshall of Evanston. Miss Kirk was graduated from Northwestern university in 1942 and from the Tobe-Coburn school a year later. Lt. Marshall attended the Asheville school and Northwestern and entered the naval air corps in 1941. He recently returned from active duty in England.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 15.—Geraldine Fitzgerald has turned down a part in "Hangover Square" in favor of doing one for her boss, Jack Warner. She'll probably do "Nobody Lives Forever" with John Garfield, and if she does, it will be one of the best parts she's had. Linda Darnell does the role Geraldine was considering in "Hangover Square," which will be the best part she's had on her home lot. She gets this on the strength of "Summer Storm," which she did on loan-out to Seymour Nebenzal. . . . Too bad Darryl Zanuck couldn't see his way to release Laird Cregar to do "Henry VIII." on Broadway, where Laird would have had the benefit of Margaret Webster's direction. He'd have returned a star. But his option has just been lifted for another year, the script troubles straightened out on "Hangover" so that Laird is now happy about the whole thing. Also, George Sanders stays in the picture for another important role. . . . Ginger Rogers is set for "Weekend at the Waldorf." . . . A. J. Cronin, who got $200,000 for his "Green Years," highest price Metro's ever paid for a story, is pretty angry with David Selznick. David made more money off "Keys of the Kingdom" than the author when he sold it to Twentieth Century. . . . Reason for the A. J. is that Cronin doesn't like his first two names—Archibald Joseph. He gives his mother credit for all he's done. Says it was she who gave him courage and imagination.

Come, Now; That's Not Believable!

French eyewash—Clark Gable not returning to the screen. Now I ask you, what would he do? He's acting all the time—or has been ever since he was out of uniform. I suggest he get back on the screen soon, before all this bilge about him can do him harm—'cause any way you slice him, there's a nice guy. . . . Since Charles Mendl has made a name for himself in radio, friends are urging him to try the screen as well. So don't be surprised if he signs at a major studio soon. Already he's had offers from Cary Grant and Arthur Hornblow. . . . A few weeks ago Ann Steeley arrived from Oklahoma with a letter to Paul Hesse. Paul took pictures of her. Now she's already under contract to Sam Goldwyn, who's got her learning to walk, sit, and speak. He's trying to find a yarn for her. She's a beauty.

Odd, Perhaps, but He Wasn't Kidding.

Danton Walker is the only well known writer who meant it when he said, "I came to Hollywood to visit friends—not studios." And he stuck to it. . . . Kenneth Lindsay, a member of parliament, is here for talks on education. Met him in England in 1936. He's made many friends in San Francisco, and will be with us a week. . . . Betty Hutton and Mervyn Leroy are having more fun. . . . It's all very hush-hush in San Francisco, but Tuckie French, the ex-Mrs. John Jacob Astor, will wed Ensign Benham Hayes. . . . Mr. and Mrs. C. B. De Mille celebrate their 42d wedding anniversary tomorrow, with their children and grandchildren gathering at their home for a family dinner.

Something to Remember Sonja By.

Sonja Henie's farewell party for her husband, Dan Topping, was really beautiful—only he left three days ago. Sonja was molded into a form-fitting hand-beaded dress. Food was super. Grounds wired for light. Reflection of yellow umbrella in the pool made even the blase pause. Sonja's trophy room is a spellbinder. More than 300 trophies on display, and those were only the finest. In addition, I counted 43 gold medals framed under glass. When you look at Sonja, young with full life ahead, you feel like giving the little girl a hand for all she's accomplished.

She's a Busy Gal All at Once.

Beulah Bondi is set for the part of the grandmother in "Hold Autumn in Your Hand." Rouben Mamoulian had asked her to come back to New York and play Mrs. Davidson in the musical version of "Rain," but before these negotiations were completed, "granny" got ahead of Rouben. Too bad good things have to come in bunches—or that Beulah isn't twins. . . . Lois Collier has been signed for the lead opposite Eddie Norris in "Swingaroo Sweetheart," in which she sings and dances for the first time on the screen. . . . Warners studio, which has 732 men in the service, donated that many pints of blood to the Red Cross mobile unit which visited the studio a couple of days recently. . . . Jack Edwards Jr., Joan Edwards, and Cliff Edwards are sponsoring an "Edwards Day" at blood banks over the country.

At Last—And Well Worth Waiting For.

Irene Dunne shows her legs for the first time on the screen in "A Woman's Privilege" in a scene where she wears a short slip. Consensus is that she can hold her own with Dietrich or Grable any day. . . . Errol Flynn, on location with "Objective Burma," is getting fittings for "San Antonio" which he goes into soon as he finishes "Burma." That one also will take him on location up in northern California. The studio gave up the idea of doing it in San Antonio, Tex., because of transportation difficulties. . . . Angela Greene, beautiful New York show girl, is being beaued about by Tex Harris, former U. C. L. A. football star, now assistant director at Paramount. . . . Jack Carson claims he knows a girl from Lockheed who likes to go out nights and have a good time and a half.

Education for Youths Now in War Work Viewed as Challenge

There will be another "lost generation" in this country after the war unless educational plans are made for the 3 million boys and girls now employed in war industries, Mrs. William A. Hastings of Madison, Wis., president of the National Council of Parents and Teachers, said last night. She spoke at a session of the annual convention of the American Federation of Teachers in the La Salle hotel.

"Most of the post-war plans for veterans and other groups do not consider the problems which will arise from the war time employment of boys and girls in the 14 to 18 year age group," she said. "Getting this group back to school to complete their educations presents a real challenge in the post-war period."

She added that the war has not solved anything but has just "helped us out of a bad situation."

World Travels of War Fund's Dollars Told

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Two hundred fifty Chicago community and war fund leaders yesterday heard first hand accounts of how the city's war fund dollar travels over the world on missions of mercy, refugee rehabilitation, entertainment for service forces, morale building, and interracial and interfaith tolerance and good will.

At a luncheon at the Palmer House, described by Clarence B. Randall, general chairman of the city's 1944 drive for $12,980,000, as an "indoctrination" session for drive leaders, Louis J. Broido of New York, member of the executive committee of the joint distribution committee of the Jewish welfare fund, and Chester Barnard of Newark, N. J., national president of the United Service organizations, told of the world-wide work of their agencies.

Despite what he called a discouraging beginning three years ago, Mr. Barnard said "the U. S. O. is and has been a complete success." The luncheon group was told of the delicate adjustments between various religious groups which, he said, often seemed impossible. The success of the experiment, he added, is bringing about a by-product of interfaith understanding and good will.

He explained a four sided general program of community activities, overseas operations, camp shows, and regular U. S. O. service in the United States. Every day, Mr. Barnard said, 2,500 programs are conducted for an aggregate of 10 million service persons a month. The 1,500 U. S. O. units make use of a quarter of a million phonograph records, 30,000 beds, and an aggregate library of 700,000 books.

Mr. Barnard spoke of the vast program of shows. He said 16 such shows are being given today for service men and women in Normandy, with the first show units arriving on the beachhead a few days after D-day, adding that the camp shows follow the services in all invasions on all fronts.

Mr. Broido's description of his agency's business "of saving human life," was impressive. Since the outbreak of the war, he said, the joint distribution committee has aided nearly a million men, women, and children. This year's budget, he said, will approximate $20,000,000.

More than 8,000 Jewish men, women, and children, Mr. Broido said, were brought to areas of safety, mostly Palestine, during the last six months. Of these, 1,000 were Polish children, who were moved to Palestine by way of Teheran. In France 4,000 children whose parents were driven into Nazi slavery are fed.

Blouse Ideas

Round necked, high necked, or V-collared blouses with either short or long sleeves are "musts" in numbers for the autumn suit wardrobe. This one pattern makes all versions. Style No. 3429 is designed for sizes 10 to 40. Size 16 requires 2 yards of 35 or 39 inch material for blouses with short sleeves; 2⅛ yards of 39 inch material for long sleeved version.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The summer fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents, 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

Try to Nurture Older Child's Love of Poetry

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We were talking recently about encouraging the natural love of poetry that young children have, by getting them books which are suited to their age, and by understanding and reading them for or with the children.

But when our children get older the situation often changes. Unfortunately, the studying of poetry in school frequently tinges it with a "must," or academic, color. To assign a group of poems that must be read and then go over them in school and analyze them so that all the life has gone out of them is, I think, a great mistake. When the joy goes out of literature and gloom goes into it the whole tendency is to discourage a child's further reading along that line. We have, therefore, to nurture carefully this early love of poetry. Otherwise, unless the boy or girl has a passion for it, the liking will die because it has not had the proper food.

Either at home or in school we must use judgment in choosing what poetry we are going to put in a child's way. A 14 year old boy may not be caught by "The Ode on a Grecian Urn," but be intensely interested in "Gunga Din" or some other of Rudyard Kipling's strong rhythmic poems, his "Barrack Room Ballads," or perhaps Masefield's sea poems.

A little girl of 9, who loves flowers and has a deep poetic feeling may be unmoved by rhymes about the everyday world, but enthralled by the two books written by the child, Hilda Conkling, or rather taken down by her mother as she talked in their garden.

There is a wealth of beauty, pleasure, joy, and humor in poetry, if we select it with the idea of appealing to a particular child.

You may say, "O, my daughter doesn't care for poetry." Or, "O, my son wouldn't read a book of poems on a bet. He'd think he was being a sissy." That may be true and quite all right if it is so, but it is a good idea to be sure first that they don't and won't. You may find, if you read one of Sandburg's, Arthur Guitermann's, Kipling's, or Lindsay's poems aloud some evening and then innocently leave the book around that it will be picked up and perhaps more of it consumed. It's this "exposing" of the child to the germ of beauty that sometimes makes it grow.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Mothers and wives of men who are members of Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill's famous Marauders, infantry soldiers who fought in Burmese jungles behind the Japanese lines, soon may have the opportunity to share letters from the men and to build a program to aid the Marauders on their return to this country.

Mrs. Michael Beck, 4054 W. Monroe st., mother of Corp. Lloyd Steele, one of the original Marauders, veterans of South Pacific campaigns who volunteered for the China-Burma-India theater of operations, had the idea for such an organization of wives and mothers last week, when she advertised in the personals column of THE TRIBUNE'S classified section for word from other women.

"It would be wonderful to exchange news with other mothers thruout the nation whose sons have had the same experiences as my boy," Mrs. Beck said. Marauders' families were worried and heartsick for several months, she said, from February to June, when Merrill's men fought in isolation and could send no mail.

One of the Marauders, Maj. Peter Petito of Chicago, home on rotational leave, called the proposed club "a great idea." He has been overseas two and a half years.

Mrs. Beck, who expects to reach mothers and wives in other cities, has had several replies to her recent message, and some of them from fathers. One of the responses was from Mrs. W. J. Hill of Waukegan, whose husband is a member of Merrill's outfit. She wrote: "Just to get together to pass on news of our boys who have returned, and those who will return, will relieve the anxiety of their loved ones."

Corp. Steele, in a recent letter, described the depressed state of mind among the men, many of whom, thru an error in interpretation of orders, were sent into active duty while still convalescent from three months of arduous fighting, malaria, exhaustion, and malnutrition.

Marion Louise Hines, 23, of Springfield, Ill., yesterday became the ninth member of her family to don a uniform. She was sworn into the WAVES in the navy's recruiting office for women, room 300, Board of Trade building, and will leave Sept. 8 for officer training at Smith college, Northampton, Mass.

Miss Hines, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Hines, worked before her enlistment for Rotary International in Chicago, where her father also is employed. She was graduated from Rockford college and from the University of Illinois.

The new WAVE has five brothers in the army. Two are overseas and have served thru the entire Italian campaign. Two others are with the air forces, one in San Antonio, Tex., and the other at Winter field, Cal. The fifth army brother is completing his college studies and will enter active service in September.

A sixth brother is a chief petty officer with the Seabees in the Southwest Pacific and the seventh, a sergeant, is on duty with the marine corps in Washington, D. C.

Miss Hines' sister is enrolled in the United States cadet nurse corps at the University of Iowa.

Quartet Scores Over Handicap of Humid Night

Concert by the Budapest String Quartet [Josef Roismann, first violin; Edgar Orténberg, second violin; Boris Kroyt, viola; Mischa Schneider, violoncello], assisted by Robert Lindemann, clarinet; Hugo Fox, bassoon; Helen Kotas, horn; Vaclav Jiskra, bass. Presented at Ravinia Tuesday evening, Aug. 15, 1944. The program:

Quartet, G major, Opus 76, No. 1.....Haydn
Quartet, C major, Köchel 465....Mozart

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Ravinia just missed chalking up another new record last night. Twenty-four hundred tickets were out for the farewell of the Budapest String quartet, augmented by enough Chicago Symphony players to end the season with Beethoven's Septet, and had all the people arrived, a new goal of 7,950 would have waved proudly in the breeze if any. But there was no breeze, and there was downright liquid humidity, so just about 1,600 of those 2,400 came to the concert. Even so, that was a remarkable example of loyalty to chamber music, for last night was a fine time to stay home.

I take it for granted you know I am blaming the weather, not the music. Discipline in art is a never failing source of amazement and admiration, and the Budapest four last night lifted not so much as a plaintive eyebrow at sticky strings and stickier fingers. If some of the nap of their velvet tone occasionally rubbed the wrong way, as in the Mozart Adagio, you could no more justly have blamed them than to snub a woman because her hair doesn't curl in the rain. Most of their playing was crisp, definitive, and brilliant, a triumph of mind over distinctly soggy matter.

If my calculations are correct, all of last night's program was new in the Budapest's Ravinia repertory. The beautiful Haydn G major, Opus 76, went exceptionally well, with its eloquent adagio, its merry scrap of a menuetto—so brief the audience laughed in surprise when it ended—and the reiterated dance tune with which it says farewell. The Mozart C major occasionally was marred by lack of depth in tone, which left shallows where depths actually lurk, but most of its melody spilled out with surprising spontaneity, considering the night.

By the time Beethoven took the field, a storm was brewing, and more than a little thunder was added to the curious combination of violin, viola, cello, bass, clarinet, horn, and bassoon the master dedicated to the Empress Maria Theresa. The story goes that Beethoven soon got bored with the work, insisting he was "writing something better"—which happened to be the Hammerklavier Sonata—but nowadays we hear it so rarely it comes under the head of novelty. The adagio cantabile in particular is exceptionally lovely, with its almost naive call in the horn, echoed by the clarinet, and its clarinet melody sung in turn by the violin. The performance was devoted, even when the thunder drowned it out.

Alpha Xi Delta Alumnae Meet Today to Plan Party

North Shore alumnae of Alpha Xi Delta sorority will gather at the home of the president, Mrs. Rollin S. Thompson, 569 Winnetka av., Winnetka, for a dessert luncheon today. The James Macdonalds of Glencoe have offered their home to the group for a large tea to be given next Wednesday, and final plans for that party will be made today. Included on the invitation list for the tea are alumnae members from Chicago, Highland Park, Waukegan, and from both the afternoon and evening North Shore groups.

South	West	North	East
1 heart	1 spade	2 hearts	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	4 hearts

West opened the diamond nine. Declarer, to save entries in the dummy, won with the ace, and after carefully studying his problem, returned the spade jack. East won with the queen, and sensing that South wanted to ruff spades, made the best return of a low trump.

Declarer won with the king, cashed the trump queen, then led to the diamond jack and ruffed a spade. Now he laid down the king and ten of diamonds from his own hand, discarding a club from dummy, after which he carefully led the club king. West, forced in with the ace, could do no better than return a low spade. Declarer ruffed East's king with his last trump, then ruffed a club with the eight of trumps. The trump ace was the tenth and fulfilling trick.

The hand may seem easy on the surface, but it will be observed that declarer must pick up two tricks outside of his four trumps and four diamonds, and, assuming good defense, the most meticulous timing is required.

Mrs. Earle T., Chicago — Here's another use I've found for clear finger nail polish: When a clasp on an identification badge becomes detached from garment, I drop a bit of finger nail polish on it and this forms a film which holds clasp more firmly. A drop of cellulose cement would also do the work.

Query Raises Fine Point in Date Etiquet

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Here is an interesting letter from the junior miss department about a honeychile who is losing gal friends because some particular Joe thought she was slightly wonderful and asked for a date.

"What do you think of this? A fellow and a girl have been dating quite often. They are not going steady, however. Then, all of a sudden, the fellow asks another girl for a date. The girl friends of the first girl immediately cross the second girl off their 'good friend' list, which leaves her out in the cold as far as they are concerned. I think this is unfair, because the second girl was just an innocent bystander and isn't to blame if the boy happened to find her more attractive than the first girl! But this group of girls doesn't seem to reason that way. What should one think of 'girl No. 2' in this case?"

As long as a boy is not going steady and is definitely not in the exclusive hand-holding department, he's still anybody's beau boy. And if "girl No. 2" in the letter above didn't set snares, squeeze lotus leaves in his lemon coke, or flirt with him while he was dating gal No. 1, she is still within her legal dating rights in accepting his invitations. It is always a bad policy to try to attract any boy away from a girl friend, but if he wants a change of honeychile, there should be no sulking about it. The girls mentioned in the letter have mixed friendship with a kind of jealousy and then carried friendship too far! If this particular jackson finds out there's grumbling going on behind his back he'll never switch back to his original sweet stuff.

Stage Note

Altho "A Goose for the Gander" closed at the Blackstone last Saturday night after a turbulent engagement of five weeks, repercussions are still rampant. Yesterday Gloria Swanson, its star, withdrew the temporary restraining order against the producer, Rudolph Allen, who again took possession of the production. Miss Swanson had obtained the order, acting as attorney in fact for her son, Joseph Swanson, said to have invested $5,000 in the show. Mr. Allen said he had asked both Miss Swanson and Harold J. Kennedy, author of the comedy and one of its actors, to take salary cuts and they refused. He added that "A Goose for the Gander" represented an investment of $31,600, that Miss Swanson originally had agreed to invest $15,000 in the production, and that she did put up $7,500.

Miss Swanson, told these statements, said her sole desire was to save as much money as possible for investors in the show. She contended she and Mr. Kennedy declined to take cuts because it would have done no good. She said Mr. Allen put up the closing notice to frighten the cast into taking cuts, then sent a representative out the night the play closed, offering to keep it going, again providing cuts were taken, but without anything so tangible as a booking to make the bait tempting.

According to Miss Swanson, the trouble was not so much that the show was losing money—a reported $4,000 in five weeks, which is a small sum for a new play battling a heat wave and paying extra rehearsal bills as it is rewritten—but that the producer was inexperienced. She said she had not agreed to invest a cent in the show with Allen as producer and that she is willing to give up her 15 per cent to attempt to reimburse investors.

'Miss Lieutenant' . . . . . By Nina Wilcox Putnam

(Copyright: 1944: By Ines Eliot.)

SYNOPSIS: Lt. Carol Melton of Kansas, an army nurse in North Africa, overhears a military conference in which the need for maps and photographs of the crooked little towns along the Riviera is discussed. She tells Col. Barlow her identical twin, Lita, is married to a Frenchman, who has a collection of maps, drawings, and photographs of all the secret passageways along the coast, that she was educated at Nice, and knows every inch of the coastline. She persuades him to recommend her for the mission, and is transferred to intelligence. Two experienced Commandos will accompany her. Col. Barlow confides that information known only to trusted officials about the troops in Africa has been leaking out. The informer knows the Riviera well. Taken by ferry to a submarine, Carol finds one of the Commandos is Bright Stoner, a childhood sweetheart, who has always stood between her and other men. On the way to Le Bastion, the castle of Lita and Jacques Cassard, they come to the restaurant of Papa Brochard, husband of Carol's old nurse, Mme. Victorine, and learn Lita and Jacques are friendly with the German officials. Wearing clothing Lita had given to Victorine, and with Bright disguised as her porter, they are nearing the castle when a Gestapo car passes them. Jacques Cassard is in it. Bright hides in the tool shed while Carol enters the castle where she is greeted as Lita. From Victorine she learns Lita has been gone for three days, taking money and valuables with her, that Jacques had violent words with Marshal Karl Herman Janner that morning, and that the castle's secret passages are unknown to the Germans. Carol smuggles Bright up to the secret room under the roof. She will send the maps up to him and meet him at Brochards. At dinner, Maj. Fritz Uhlan is taken from the table in a drunken stupor. Carol is questioned about the maps.

INSTALMENT XV.

QUARRELING.

Carol dropped the hand which had been outstretched toward the bell pull. Victorine must not be hurt, whatever happened. It was at once a ridiculous and a ghastly setup with the unconscious, drunken Fritz an indecorous witness at her trial. But, however long they questioned her, no matter what they did to her, she was not going to talk.

"There is no use in threatening me with injuries to Victorine," Carol said as calmly as she could. "Or in making any other threats, because I know nothing about these papers you want. On my word of honor I am not even sure that they any longer exist."

"Then we will talk about it until they do exist," Janner told her grimly.

They were good at questioning, these men, and for the next two hours they kept at it unmercifully. They set verbal traps for her, spun innocent sounding queries, threatened, shouted, cajoled. But in the end it was they who gave up exhausted, not she.

"You will think of this overnight," Janner growled at last. "A little solitary reflection may show you the wisdom of remembering a few things. We shall see."

He went to the door and shouted orders. Presently Hans, the orderly, appeared, accompanied by one of the guards. Janner assisted Carol to her feet. The other two men bowed ironically. Fritz still slumbered in his chair.

"If you will allow me, Mme. Cassard!" said Janner. "I will escort you myself."

They went up the main stairway, the two soldiers following close behind. Where was he leading her? The answer was better than she had dared to hope. Janner flung open the door to Lita's room.

"And here you will stay, my lady," he said, "until your memory begins to function."

There was a faint cry from the landing just behind her. She turned quickly to see Mme. Victorine, who was attempting to speak to her being rudely pushed aside by Hans and his companion. The women exchanged one agonized look and then Janner was gone, the door slammed after him, and Carol could hear the key turning in the lock. Then some one locked the door to the room which had been Jacques'.

Long after the sound of footsteps had died away on the stairs she could hear a man pacing back and forth in the corridor.

Mme. Victorine had seen what was happening. She would probably try to tell Bright. But then again, the old woman might not be able to reach him.

The room in which she sat was directly over the drawing room, but the windows opened on a paved court facing towards the sea. However, when, a little later, she opened these windows she could hear a faint murmer of talk from the room beneath her. She could not distinguish what was said, but the men's voices did not sound amiable. They seemed to be quarreling. The town was in darkness and not a light shone from any part of Le Bastion. She could not see the hummock of roof under which Bright was sheltered in the ancient hideaway, but her heart sent him a message. Then she drew the heavy curtains at the windows, turned on one shaded light, and began to give the room a thoro going over.

First in importance was the panel which concealed the secret staircase leading to the room below. It seemed as tho her captors had not the faintest notion of its existence or they would never have locked her up in this room, of all places. But then on the other hand, they might have deliberately done so hoping she would use the secret stair and lead them to the hiding place in which Jacques kept his precious papers. However, this last did not seem too likely. She went to the big, heavily carved wardrobe and opened the door of one section. At the back of it, against the wall hung an American shoe bag, filled with Lita's footgear. Carol lifted it from its hooks and pushed at a knothole in the paneling. The door slid back noiselessly and easily, revealing the steep and narrow stair. A rush of stale air flooded up it and the voices in the room below became much clearer. Janner was evidently in a foul temper and haranguing one of the others. Carol slid the panel back cautiously.

Then she began a systematic examination of her sister's belongings. It had been almost two years since she had seen them, but very little appeared to have been added during that time. Exactly what Lita had worn and what things she had carried with her was difficult to guess. A pair of gilt slippers which Carol remembered were missing from the shoe rack, but these were hardly likely to have formed a part of her necessarily small bundle—if indeed she had taken one. Probably the slippers had been worn out and discarded.

At the foot of the bed stood an ornamental iron bound chest, the sort in which the ancient lords of manor had been accustomed to keep their treasure. Lita had used it for storing the costumes they had worn during the carnival at Nice in the old days. The contents had accumulated over a period of years, everything being hoarded for possible remaking when another mardi gras came around. Carol sat on the floor and turned the familiar contents over idly.

Here was the domino Jacques had sported protestingly, here the Columbine skirt Lita had worn, faded confetti still clinging to its folds. And here a black satin costume of her own with tarnished sequins on the hem. She had worn a white wig with this audacious bit of brevity—quite a good wig of snowy white curls—a sort of balpoudre effect. She looked for it carefully, but the wig was not there and she wondered idly what could have become of it. But in the end she closed the lid upon the costume chest with a feeling of finality. The absence of gold slippers and a 17th century type wig while stirring an undefinable emotion connected with Lita, told her exactly nothing at all. It was baffling and disappointing. Victorine might have some further clue, but when was she going to speak with Victorine again?

There was nothing she could do now except wait until the household quieted down. The guards would be sleepless, of course, but perhaps Janner and the others would think her safely locked in, and so get some sleep themselves.

There was a rough, dark skirt among Lita's things, a pair of rope-soled sandals, and a nondescript blouse. Carol also found a peasant head-kerchief large enough to cover the brilliance of her hair. She changed into these things. If she escaped, it would be better if she were not wearing the clothing in which she had arrived. Then she put out the light again. The guard outside her door must be made to think she had gone to bed and he might see the light thru the crack under the door.

Beyond getting hold of the precious papers and somehow getting to Bright, she had no definite plan. It was senseless, she told herself, to make any plan when one could not predict what might happen from moment to moment.

At last the old building settled into silence. Even the sentry in the hall outside stopped his tramping to and fro and had apparently settled down to what comfort he could find.

ALL-STARS HOLD FIRST SCRIMMAGE TODAY

SIR BIM MADE 6-5 CHOICE IN PRAIRIE TODAY

Coupled with Best Effort as Entry.

Prairie Field

TEN 2 year olds were entered over night to compete in the $10,000 added Prairie State stakes over six furlongs at Washington Park today. The field in order of post position follows:

Horse.	Wgt	Rider.	Prob. odds.
Colonel Lee	111	A. Skoronski	20-1
*Best Effort	111	No boy	6-5
†K. Doo Doo	108	B. Brooks	5-1
*Sir Bim	111	C. McCreary	6-5
Satin Ace	111	W. Garner	12-1
†Lexingtonian	111	F. A. Smith	5-1
Joe's Choice	111	J. Higley	20-1
Icangetit	111	C. Corbett	8-1
Inverette	108	No boy	20-1
Errard	111	O. Grohs	9-5

*C. C. Tanner and Don Ameche entry.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Don Ameche's Sir Bim, winner of his last two races and never out of the money in six starts, is expected to go to the post a 6 to 5 favorite in the $13,350 Prairie State stakes today at Washington Park.

Sir Bim, fast finishing son of the great Bimelech, will be ridden by Conn McCreary, who was made available to the screen and radio star when the Calumet farm failed to enter any one of its three eligibles, Twosy, Good Blood, and Thine, the trio that finished one-two-three in the Princess Pat.

Coupled with Best Effort.

Coupled with Sir Bim as an entry will be C. C. Tanner's Best Effort, and the pair will draw competition from eight others named to start in the six furlong sprint for 2 year olds. First place will be worth $9,600 if all 10 run.

Sir Bim's chief rival will be John Marsch's Errard, triumphant in three of his six outs and a three length winner over Best Effort in his last start on July 24. Otto Grohs will be up on the Challenger II. gelding.

Also figured to have a chance is Henry Tikulski's Icangetit, which will be ridden by Charley Corbett. Icangetit has a record of three victories in five races.

Yesterday's daily double amounted to $216.20 on L. James' Dark Zac in the first race and B. Isbell's Dr. Bones in the second. Both winners were ridden by Willie Bailey.

Bolus Wins Alsab Handicap.

The fifth race was run in a driving downpour and the winner was Thomas Piatt's Port Chester, which opened at 25 to 1 and was backed down to 7 to 2 on the strength of his form in sloppy going. It was the first time in 50 days of the Arlington-Washington meeting that rain fell during the racing. The storm forced postponement until today of the scheduled farewell appearance under colors of Mrs. Albert Sabath's Alsab, which is being retired to the Alsab farm in Kentucky.

Bailey also brought in Henry Tikulski's Bolus in the sixth race, the $3,000 Alsab handicap, to give him four winners for the afternoon. Bolus, the favorite, finished the six furlongs event two and one-half lengths in front of Jake Lowenstein's Be Brief. Bright Willie was third in the five horse field which included Challenge Me and Occupy.

Beverly Masonic Golf Tourney Scheduled Today

The Beverly Masonic association will hold its 36th annual golf tournament today at the Beverly Country club. Strictly a stag affair, the day's program includes a dinner and a show in addition to golf.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

WHILE the All-Stars of 1944 are going thru daily workouts for their meeting with the Chicago Bears at Dyche stadium, let's take time out to see what has become of some of the players whose exploits in other years helped make the All-Star game the big event of the football season. . . . Lt. Robert Moser, 1942 half back from Texas A. & M., was killed in a plane crash at Tampa, Fla., on Nov. 19, 1943. . . . Lt. James W. McDonald of Illinois, member of the 1939 team, was killed in action in the South Pacific last May. . . . Ensign Nile Kinnick, Iowa, star in the 1940 game, died in a sea crash of his fighter plane in the Pacific on June 2, 1943. . . . Lt. Tom Melton of Purdue of the 1942 All-Stars lost his life while serving as a flight instructor in 1943. . . . Ensign George Schulte of Rockhurst, 1942, was killed in a bomber crash in San Francisco bay in 1943. . . . George Lenc of Augustana, 1939, gave his life in a plane crash at Walla Walla, Wash., in 1942. . . . Lt. Frank Gallagher of Yale, 1938 All-Stars, was reported missing in action on Sept. 13, 1942. . . . Lt. Don Carney of Rockhurst, 1940, was reported missing six weeks ago when his plane was shot down by Japanese anti-aircraft fire. . . . Capt. Hal Van Every of Minnesota, 1940, was captured by the Germans after his plane was knocked from the skies. . . . Sgt. Mario Tonelli of Notre Dame 1939, has been a prisoner of the Japs since the fall of the Philippines. . . . Lt. Erwin Elrod, Mississippi State college, 1941, was taken by the Germans when his plane was shot down in a shuttle run over Austria.

Bob Saggau.

Dave Rankin.

Capt. Dave Rankin of Purdue, 1941 All-Stars, has won double air medal awards for action over the Solomons and Bougainville. . . . He intercepted and destroyed two Jap dive bombers. . . . Lt. Bob Saggau of Notre Dame, 1941, was cited for bravery against the Japs when he blew up an ammunition dump. . . . Capt. Grenville Lansdell of Southern California, 1940, was decorated for his role in the African-Sicilian campaign. . . . Maj. Delbert Bjork of Oregon, 1937, won the Purple Heart and oak leaf clusters for gallantry in the Aleutians. . . . Lt. Byron [Whizzer] White of Colorado, 1938, was awarded the bronze star medal for courageous service with the Little Beavers destroyer squadron in the South Pacific. . . . Lt. Tom Harmon of Michigan, 1941, was presented with the silver star for bravery in fighting six enemy planes alone, saving his formation, shooting down two Jap planes and bailing out behind enemy lines. . . . Marine Capt. Robert MacLeod of Dartmouth, 1939, led the marine air attack on the first group of Jap bombers that came over Guadalcanal airport. . . . Capt. Charles Gelatka, Mississippi State, who was a member of the 1937 All-Stars, has been decorated several times for flying feats in Gen. MacArthur's forces. . . . He was a hero of Bismarck sea. . . . Lt. Michael Kopcha of Chattanooga, 1940, was awarded the air medal with two oak leaf clusters for action in Italy with the air corps. . . . Capt. George Franck of Minnesota, 1941, was rescued in the Pacific after his plane had been shot down. . . . Capt. Leroy Monsky of Alabama, 1938, was awarded the Purple Heart for injuries incurred on the Italian front.

Lt. Joe Kilgrow of Alabama, 1938 All-Stars, was commissioned in the field for his outstanding leadership of his battery while under fire in New Guinea in the spring of 1943. . . . Ensign Ernest Pannell of Texas A. & M., 1941, was awarded the navy cross for his services on a sub chaser in the South Pacific. . . . Capt. Jack Padley of the University of Dayton, 1940, was cited for bravery as a fighting marine on the Marshall Islands. . . . He also was with the invading forces at Saipan. . . . Lt. James N. Thomason of Texas A. & M., 1941, an army pilot, recently was wounded in the South Pacific. . . . Lt. Harlan Gustafson of Pennsylvania, 1940, was a member of a squadron flying from the flagship carrier that accounted for 20 Japanese planes. . . . Capt. Roland [Waddy] Young of Oklahoma, 1939 All-Stars, was decorated after completing the required number of missions over Europe, but has asked for assignment with the B-29 bombers.

This list is by no means complete, but it serves its purpose. . . . All these men got their first shock of combat on the gridiron. . . . If they could speak this morning we're certain they'd tell you their football background served them well for the more important work in which they have since engaged. . . . The young men who will entertain you in the 11th annual All-Star game the night of Aug. 30 are no different from their predecessors. . . . They are heroes all.

Ten Years Ago Today—The Chicago Cubs beat the Boston Braves, 3 to 2, on Billy Herman's double in the 10th inning. . . . The Chicago Bears began practice for their game with the College All-Stars. . . . Ed [Moose] Krause of Notre Dame and George Sauer of Nebraska were named co-captains of the All-Star squad. . . . Amos Alonzo Stagg celebrated his 72d birthday.

Card-Pitt Squad Drills Despite Heat

Waukesha, Wis., Aug. 15 (AP).—Despite torrid heat, the 42 player squad of the Chicago Cardinals-Pittsburgh Steelers football combination launched two-a-day drills on the Carroll college campus today.

Johnny Grigas, star Cardinal half back, was expected to join the squad tomorrow, giving Co-Coaches Phil Handler and Walt Kiesling a string of 18 backs. The roster also includes seven ends, six tackles, nine guards, and three centers.

STARBODY AND SKAGGS REACH CENTRAL FINALS

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 15 (AP).—Bill Starbody of Decatur and Gene Skaggs of Springfield today advanced to the finals of the Seventh Annual Central Illinois golf tournament, and will meet in the title match tomorrow.

Starbody, who won medalist honors yesterday by defeating Bob Brewer, also of Decatur, in a special play-off, beat Ed Schaefer of Carlinville, 4 and 2, in today's semi-final round. Skaggs reached the finals with a 2 and 1 victory over Bob Ekiss of Decatur.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charley Grimm's Cubs aroused themselves sufficiently yesterday to help their own cause a bit and at the same time deny the Phillies the rare pleasure of sweeping a four game series. To accomplish the feat Hy Vandenberg was given another promotion from the bull pen, and his right handing as well as his batting tricks stirred up his pals to the extent of a 4 to 1 victory that was cut to six innings by rainfall.

Vandenberg operated with such marked efficiency that he might have added to his pleasures with a shutout if complications hadn't developed in his defense. Just after Ron Northey, who had opened the second with a triple, was nipped trying for home on a tap to Stan Hack, the latter heaved wild to second trying to knock off Coaker Triplett, who thus moved to third. He scored after two were out on a single by Johnny Peacock.

Grimm Shifts Batting Order.

Just to see whether it might improve his luck, Boss Grimm juggled his batting order by boosting Don Johnson to second and dropping Len Merullo, subbing for the ailing Roy Hughes, to seventh. The alterations had no effect on Al Gerheauser, the lefty, during the first three innings but in the fourth the Cubs made short work of the Phillies' one run lead. Three of Grimm's athletes flitted across the plate, the potent items being a triple by Andy Pafko and Vandenberg's second single. Then Gerheauser experienced a one run clubbing in the fifth and his manager excused him for the day.

The opening incident of the three run fourth was a looping two bagger dropped into right by Bill Nicholson who hugged second while Lou Novikoff was being thrown out. This was where Pafko inserted his three bagger into the proceedings, the ball sailing over Buster Adams' head in deep center to score Nicholson. Merullo was purposely passed and while Billy Holm was at bat Gerheauser contributed a wild pitch, Pafko going home and Merullo taking second. Vandenberg's single drove Merullo across the plate after Holm had been retired.

Karl Relieves Gerheauser.

Gerheauser had no trouble with Johnson or Phil Cavarretta in the fifth, but things changed quickly. Nicholson singled to center and Novikoff singled in the same direction for his second blow. Pafko blasted a single past Charles Letchas to score Nicholson and put Novikoff on third. The overworked Andy Karl was promptly called to Gerheauser's rescue and the Cubs cooled-off immediately.

PAULINE BETZ WINS LONGWOOD TENNIS MATCH

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 15 (AP).—Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, national women's singles tennis champion, today made an auspicious start in the Longwood invitation tournament, her final tune-up for her title defense two weeks hence. She eliminated Gilda Ciccone of Newton, 6-0, 6-0, after drawing a first round bye.

BALL CARRYING, ARIZONA STYLE

Lt. Bob Ruman, former University of Arizona half back, sets out for a long run as the College All-Stars drilled yesterday for their duel Aug. 30 with the Chicago Bears in Dyche stadium. New York, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Bill Zuber, Yankee right hander of in-and-out attainments, this afternoon held the White Sox to three hits, two of which meant nothing, and the result, of this able work, and other routine elements gave the Yankees the contest, 3 to 1, and the series, by the same ratio. It was Zuber's third success of the season and his first since he defeated the Washington Senators on June 22.

Joe Haynes went all the way for the Sox to suffer his second loss of the season. He yielded only seven hits, including a double by George Stirnweiss in the first inning, which grew into a run with the help of an error by LeRoy Schalk; Frankie Crosetti's first homer of the year, in the second inning and singles by Zuber and Johnny Lindell which netted the New Yorkers an unneeded marker with two out in the eighth.

Moses Does It All.

Wally Moses opened the game with a double and scored Chicago's lone run on outs by Schalk and Guy Curtright. Ralph Hodgin made a single in the first to no avail. With two out in the sixth, Hodgin made Chicago's third and last single, a carom off Zuber's glove.

The Sox now are thru for 1944 in two eastern cities. They rounded

NELSON CARDS 138 TO BECOME P. G. A. MEDALIST

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 15 (AP).—Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., and Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Philadelphia, ran one-two in the 36 hole qualifying trials of the 1944 national P. G. A. golf tournament today.

Nelson carded a 69 to win medal honors with a two-round total of 138, six under par, and it gave him a two stroke bulge over McSpaden, who had finished earlier with two 70s for a 140.

There was a playoff for last place among the 32 qualifiers for the match play rounds starting tomorrow and the two who had to fight it out were friendly rivals from Salt Lake City—John Geertsen and George Schneiter. They had tied at 149. Schneiter won on the second extra hole.

Meanwhile Harry Cooper of Minneapolis, three putted himself completely out of the tournament—on the 18th hole of his round today. But Cooper wasn't the only big timber left out. Olin Dutra of Los Angeles, former U. S. Open and P. G. A. champion, failed to qualify.

Trailing Nelson and McSpaden was Sammy Byrd, the ex-New York Yankee baseball player, who brought in a neat 69 to couple to his opening round 72 for a 141. He shared a third spot tie with Joseph Zarhardt of Norristown, Pa.

Match play, pairing the 32 qualifiers, will start tomorrow over 36 holes.

Bears Shoot the Works in Practice Duel

Meet the Stars

THE Junior Association of Commerce of Chicago will hold its annual All-Star football luncheon in the Morrison hotel Thursday, Aug. 24. This will be the only public appearance of the college squad prior to the game with the Chicago Bears in Dyche stadium Aug. 30. Luncheon tickets, at $1.90 each, now are on sale in The Tribune Public Service offices and at the Junior Association of Commerce headquarters, 1 N. La Salle st.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Collegeville, Ind., Aug. 15.—The Chicago Bears fought themselves for two hours this afternoon at their training camp here and the first scrimmage of 1944 resulted in a 19 to 0 victory for the squad wearing black jerseys.

The National Football league champions, who on the night of Aug. 30 will seek their fourth consecutive victory in the brilliant College All-Star series, showed power, skill, and finesse in spots. But they also showed enough on the debit side to prove that they have a long way to go with time running short for their appearance in Northwestern's Dyche stadium.

New Bears Stand Out.

Henry Robert Margarita, former Brown university star, and John Anton Long, an airplane company executive, were the back field standouts among the new Bears. Old timers, like Gary Famiglietti and Ray Nolting, showed they still have their driving power and George Wilson, the veteran end, also gave the half a hundred villagers who watched the scrimmage a few thrills when he barged thru to drop runners.

Margarita scored the first two touchdowns for the blacks. The third one was made by Duke Jacobs, a freshman back, who caught a touchdown pass from Long.

Long engineered a fine drive from the Blacks' 30 to the Whites' 4 at the start. This included a 45 yard pass by Johnny to Margarita and some fat gains by Jim Fordham. The Whites had the ball only a short time when Margarita intercepted Bill Glenn's pass and ran 22 yards for the score.

Wilson Upsets Glenn.

The Whites, with Famiglietti getting yardage in huge hunks, paraded from their 30 to the Blacks' 13, where Fred Mundee intercepted one of Glenn's passes and toted it back to the Whites' 46 as the quarter ended.

In the second quarter, Margarita ran 44 yards but a holding penalty was called. The Whites started from their 20 and were rolling along until penalties and a fast sneak by Wilson into the back field wherein he upset Glenn for a 10 yard loss, put the works on it. As the half ended the Blacks were on the Whites' 10 after Nolting had taken a pass from Long for 30 yards.

In the third quarter the Blacks started a drive on the Whites' 35. Fordham hit for 5. Long, trapped before he could pass, ran to the 15 yard line. Then he lateraled on the next play to Margarita, who picked his way past three or four Whites for a touchdown. Score:

Blacks [19].	Whites [0].

COACHES NAME 3 TEAMS FOR SECRET SESSION

Drill Twice Daily Despite Heat.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[ALL-STAR ROSTER ON NEXT PAGE.]

The College All-Stars will hold their first scrimmage this afternoon in preparation for the game with the Chicago Bears in Dyche stadium Aug. 30. With four days' practice on the fundamental pattern of attack to be used against the professional champions, the squad now is ready for its first contact test.

Fifty-four players, civilians, and army men, now are in camp. The remaining eligible players, 10 service men and three civilians, will complete the squad this week and they will have time to learn the passing and running plays before the second squad game is ordered by Coach Lynn Waldorf and his All-Star staff of assistants.

Heat Is No Barrier.

The players worked twice yesterday despite the heat and will have a classroom session this morning, as well as another two hours on the gridiron before the afternoon scrimmage. Kick-offs will be eliminated. The practice will be held in the enclosed field north of the stadium and spectators are barred.

Three complete teams have been selected and the other members of the squad will be substituted individually in today's game. Vic Lindskog, Stanford center, and Ken Keuper, Georgia blocking back, will not be able to play. Lindskog still hopes to be ready for the Bears—he has a fractured foot—and Keuper is resting a pulled leg muscle.

Starting line-ups this afternoon probably will be as follows:

BLUES.		REDS.
Burger, C. State	L. E.	Grefe, Franklin
Johnson, Ky.	L. T.	Bents, Tulane
Barwegen, Purdue	L. G.	Hecht, Georgia
Tavener, Indiana	C.	LaPrade, Stanford
Graziano, Holy C.	R. G.	Banducci, Stanford
Zimny, Indiana	R. T.	Barnes, L. S. U.
Croft, S. M. U.	R. E.	Davis, Georgia
Greenwood, Illinois	Q. B.	Cannady, Indiana
Dobbs, Tulsa	L. H.	Trippi, Georgia
Van Buren, L. S. U.	R. H.	Dewar, Indiana
Layden, Texas	F. B.	McKay, Texas

They'll All Get a Chance.

These line-ups are tentative and all members of the squad will have an opportunity to play. Among the other linemen who have demonstrated ability in the preliminary drills are Bill Mayther, Oregon, and John Knezovich, Bradley, centers; Ellis Jones, Tulsa, J. C. Coffee, Indiana, and Bob Graiziger, Minnesota, guards; Goble Bryant and Monte Moncrief, both of Texas A. & M., John Adams, Notre Dame, Jack Oakland, Utah, and Bill Aldworth, Minnesota, tackles; Dub Wooten, Oklahoma, Bob Ravensberg, Indiana, Jack Morton, Missouri, and Paul Sizemore, Furman, ends.

With this line material, the All-Star coaches, if they wish, can field a group from tackle to tackle which will match any five men the Bears play against them. Even such a giant as George Musso, the Bears' veteran guard, will find a match in the 260 pound Johnson, while Jim Kekeris, the Missouri youngster, weighs 285 pounds.

Vic Will Lend a Hand.

Lindskog's injury handicaps the center of the line for Vic was the starting center against the Washington Redskins last year when the All-Stars won. 27 to 7. He should be ready for the Bears, however, and certainly will see action on defense backing up the line even if he is not letter perfect in offensive assignments.

Paul Sarringhaus of Ohio State and Lt. Bob Ruman of Arizona will have a fling at ball carrying and passing in today's game. Tony Storti will continue at full back, a position to be further bolstered tomorrow and Friday with the arrival of Gene Fekete of Ohio State and Corwin Clatt of Notre Dame.

Bill Hillenbrand, Chuck Jacoby, and Lou Saban, a trio of Indiana stars in 1942, will provide additional support this week. Saban, a blocking back, is badly needed since Cannady, a member of Indiana's 1943 eleven, and Greenwood are the only men now available for the quarter back spot.

Call for Musicians

MUSICIANS who wish to join the College All-Star band, which will appear in Dyche stadium the night of the All-Star game, Aug. 30, are asked to communicate with Ray Dvorak, director of bands at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

BROWNS DIVIDE RED SOX SERIES; WIN FINAL, 6 TO 5

Stephens Hits Home Run with Bases Loaded.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 15 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns gained an even split in a four game series with Boston today as they beat the Red Sox, 6 to 5, at Fenway Park.

The victory enabled the American league pace setters to maintain their 6½ game margin over the second place Bostonians.

The big gun of the Brownies' attack was Vernon Stephens, who slammed out his 14th home run of the season with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

BERGER MOVES INTO FINALS OF PIN TOURNAMENT

Carl Berger moved into the championship round of the third Masters' Round Robin bowling tournament at the Dearborn-Jackson Recreation last night, leading the No. 1 squad with a total of 125.12 points. Berger won six of the eight games in the final round for a total of 19 victories and nine losses.

Squad No. 2 will swing into action tonight in the first of a series of four nightly sessions that will decide the lower bracket champion and the competition for Berger in Sunday's finals. Tonight's pairings send Bill Flesch against Vern Anderson, Joe Sinke vs. Floyd Reichard, Johnny Small vs. Eddie Zajac and Rudy Habetler vs. Wally Genter. Finals standings of Squad No. 1:

Pirates Beat Braves, 7-5; 9th Straight

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates made it nine in a row by defeating the Boston Braves, 7 to 5, tonight, sweeping a series of five games.

A three run rally in the eighth inning provided Pittsburgh, hotly engaged with the Cincinnati Reds in a battle for second place, with the margin of victory.

FORFEIT LEGION REGIONAL TITLE TO CINCINNATI

Belleville, Ill., Aug. 15 (AP).—Stephen A. Butler, regional director for American Legion baseball, said tonight he had awarded the Belleville regional tournament title to Bentley post of Cincinnati, O., when Shawnee post of Louisville, Ky., failed to appear for the final game at 8:30 tonight.

Ed Martin, manager of the Louisville team, said his club had been in uniform from early this morning until late this afternoon. He said two of his players were overcome by heat today and could not play tonight. Cincinnati, as winner of the tournament, qualified for participation in a sectional tournament at Grand Forks, N. D.

Louisville scored four runs in the ninth inning this afternoon to defeat Waukegan, Ill., 11 to 7, and advance to the finals.

STEER FEEDING IN CORN BELT DROPS 41 PCT.

Aug. 1 Total Lowest in 7 Years.

462 Million Subsidy

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15 (AP).—The defense supplies corporation reported today that 462 million dollars had been paid on claims of slaughterers in the first year of the slaughter subsidy payments program.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15 (AP).—The bureau of agricultural economics reported today that the number of cattle on feed for slaughter in the 11 principal midwestern corn belt states on Aug. 1 was 41 per cent—about 700,000 head—smaller than a year earlier.

This reduction was described as one of the sharpest in the history of corn belt cattle feeding operations. Corn belt fattened cattle are the principal source of good and choice beef.

No figures of the actual number on feed were given, but the bureau said the total was smallest for Aug. 1 since 1937, when cattle numbers had been reduced greatly by the severe drouths of 1934 and 1936.

Grain Supply Is Short.

The bureau offered no explanation, but cattle feeders who had forecast such a decline said short feed grain supplies and unsatisfactory prices for finished cattle discouraged feeding, particularly cattle of higher grade meat qualities.

Feeders were planning to market probably 50 per cent fewer fed cattle between now and Nov. 1, said the bureau. Marketings of lower grade and unfattened cattle from the ranges may be at a record level during this period, and supplies of lower grade beef may pose serious consumption and storage problems for the government, it was said.

MEAT STOCKS SHRINK

Cold storage stocks of beef, pork, lamb, and mutton declined sharply between July 1 and Aug. 1, the war food administration announced yesterday. The slump in beef was the largest in any month since July, 1920, and in pork since October, 1928.

Beef supplies, at 170,188,000 pounds, shrank 37,212,000 pounds in a seasonal out-of-storage movement, even tho July production was the largest since last January.

CORN FED CATTLE RISE

All corn fed cattle were in broad demand at strong to 25 cents a hundred pound higher prices in the Chicago stockyards yesterday, but grass fed stock sold slowly, mostly at lower average prices than were paid Monday.

The $18 top was paid for steers averaging as light as 1,018 pounds, the highest price paid for stock of such low weight since 1937.

The hog supply situation became even tighter when only 16,000 arrived at the yards, the smallest Tuesday volume in 10 months.

Almost all hogs offered were sold quickly and at ceiling prices, $14 for those over 240 pounds, and $14.75 for those weighing 240 pounds and less.

EASTERN PLANS AIR ROUTES TO LATIN AMERICA

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker, president of Eastern Air Lines, announced today the company plans post-war expansion to Central and South America, but would not ask the civil aeronautics board for a route across the North Atlantic to Europe and Asia.

In a letter to L. Welch Pogue, chairman of the civil aeronautics board, Rickenbacker said:

"We have concluded not to file an application now for the North Atlantic route. At present we have on file with the CAB several applications seeking to round out Eastern's domestic system and to extend logically to the south into the Caribbean area, South America, and Mexico, and to the north into Canada."

Rheem Company Acquires Business of Stokermatic

Rheem Manufacturing company has acquired the business of the Stokermatic company of Salt Lake City, Utah, manufacturer of automatic coal stokers, stoker fired water heaters, and basement furnaces, R. H. Rheem, president, announced yesterday. Rheem said the Stokermatic patents will permit his company to add a coal burning automatic water heater to its present line of gas, electric, and oil heaters, to meet post-war demands for automatic water heaters using any type of fuel.

Despite the disappearance of many kinds of goods, department store sales have been rising in the last 3 years, sales being larger each month than in the same month the year before. The only exception was in February, in that month last year it was widely reported that clothes rationing was imminent. Forehanded buying swamped the stores and sent the sales index to a point not equaled before or since.

New Railroad Chief Began as Copy Clerk

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

A former Baltimore copy clerk yesterday related "some of his feelings" on being made president of the 11,000 mile New York Central system. He is Gustav Metzman, who on Sept. 1 will officially assume the position made vacant by the retirement of F. E. Williamson because of ill health.

"I hardly know what a man can say who has suddenly been made a railroad president," Metzman told reporters on his arrival here from New York. "It's especially hard for one like myself who has been lifted from one place to another for years so that he has had practically no home, but go ahead and ask some questions and I'll do my best to answer them."

Started from Scratch.

The new head of the New York Central is 6 feet 2 inches tall and tho 58 has little gray hair. Like many other Americans in top positions he started from scratch.

"I got my education at the 'University of Hard Knocks,'" he said. "When I went to work for the Baltimore and Ohio in Baltimore I was almost 17 and I certainly thought my job as copy clerk in the car record office was important. I have had to work hard since."

Metzman was emphatic on one point. "I definitely like Chicago," he commented. "I am sorry to leave. I will miss Chicago because here there is a peculiar feeling of friendship that you get nowhere else in the country. In Chicago they don't worry about who your family is, it's you that counts."

Expects Traffic Fight.

Metzman expects the railroads will put up a fight to hold some of the business they gained during the war. They will continue to offer new things after the war as they are developed. New materials, including the plastics, are coming into use, but it's too soon to say how they can be taken up by the railroads, he said. The question of speeding up trains will be considered again after the war.

Metzman said he opposed regulation of passenger travel.

"If the public, knowing the adverse conditions and knowing that it may have to stand 1,000 miles, wants to travel anyway, who are we to stop it," he said. "I would not like to see travel restricted because that would mean more regimentation which we don't like. The railroads will do their best to take care of the public."

Metzman said he is interested in diesel-electric operation. He explained that the New York Central has been experimenting with two in freight service and expects to get several passenger locomotives soon after Jan. 1. He said that freight diesels have shown satisfactory results, but it is too soon to give the final answer.

GRAIN MARKET ADVANCES WHEN DROUTH HOLDS

Continued dry and hot weather over much of the corn belt yesterday more than offset any bearish factors and prices on the Chicago Board of Trade advanced from the opening with much short covering apparent. September oats led, closing 2 cents a bushel higher, and talk revived of a concentrated holding of that delivery as a hedge against sales of cash grain for deferred shipment. Other oats futures were ⅛ to 1¼ cents higher.

Rye gained 1⅛ to 1⅞ cents and at the top was 3 to 4¼ cents above Monday's low. Trading in wheat was more active on stimulation from other grains and the close was unchanged to ⅛ cent higher. Barley was ⅞ to 1⅛ cents higher.

Reports of scattered showers in many grain growing areas and a forecast of general showers in part of the drouth area had little effect as a price making influence. War news was ignored.

Dresser Holders to Vote on Increase in Shares

Bradford, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP).—Dresser Manufacturing company stockholders will meet Oct. 16, preparatory to acquiring the assets of International-Stacey corporation of Columbus, O., H. N. Mallon, president, said today. Stockholders' authorization will be sought to increase the shares of common stock from 350,000 to 600,000, to fix a $1 par value on all shares, and to change the company's name to Dresser Industries, Inc.

ROCK ISLAND SHOWS DEVICE THAT RADIOS MESSAGES TO TRAINS

The Rock Island railroad yesterday demonstrated publicly for the first time its facsimile transmitter, a device by which written messages are sent to moving trains by means of radio.

From the railroad's Blue Island station a sample message was sent to a Kansas City bound, 125 car freight. The message, written on 8½x11 inch piece of paper, was started on its way by being wound around a cylinder which is part of the transmitter. A photo-electric cell "scanned" the written material and transformed the message into electrical impulses. These were picked up by a receiver in the caboose of the freight and reproduced in their original form.

The railroad, which is using front-to-rear, two-way radio communication on moving trains, said fascimile transmission improves train communication because it gives the emtion on moving trains, said facsimile identical copies of the message and reduces the chance of error.

10,000 OUT IN SUB STRIKE AS NAVY ENTERS DISPUTE

Groton, Conn., Aug. 15 (AP).—A navy labor relations officer tonight urged striking employes of the Electric Boat company to resume submarine production pending arbitration of their grievances, but the dispute remained unsettled. The company admitted close to 10,000 of approxfmately 11,000 workers were idle.

Charles Suisman, union counsel, said the union was willing to arbitrate, but added: "We gave them but one condition, and that was that any wage adjustment should be made retroactive to July 23, 1943." A company spokesman said the management would not agree to this condition.

Truck Lines Plan Protest.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Aug. 15 (AP).—Altho accepting government seizure of 103 trucking lines, the Midwest Operators association will protest a portion of the operations order which directs companies to assume sole financial responsibility for operations during the seizure, R. G. May, general counsel, said today.

Union Issues Work Plea.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 15 (AP).—Arthur Van Stratten, president of Local 1055, CIO United Steelworkers, tonight urged 1,200 union members engaged in a 12 day strike to return to work tomorrow at the St. Louis Car company on navy amphibious tanks.

DOWD WILL QUIT AS CERTAIN-TEED PRODUCTS CHIEF

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—Hector J. Dowd announced today he would resign on Aug. 31 as president and director of Certain-teed Products corporation to expand his activities in Bendix Home Appliances, Inc., and Bendix Helicopter, Inc., in each of which he is a director.

On May 24 after a long and involved proxy fight an insurgent group of stockholders led by Rawson G. Lizars won control of Certain-teed by electing an entirely new board of directors. On May 26 Lizars was elected chairman and Dowd, president under the old regime, was elected a director and re-elected president. Yesterday Dowd's Chicago office said he was out of town "vacationing" and other Certain-teed officials refused comment.

Air Line Flies More Miles, Earnings Fall

A. N. Kemp, president of American Airlines, yesterday reported net income in the quarter ended June 30 was $1,567,239, equal to $2.63 a share, compared with adjusted profit of $1,675,142, or $2.82 a share, in the 1943 June quarter. Profit in the first half of 1944 was $2,165,035, equal to $3.58 a share, against the adjusted 1943 figure of $2,814,914, or $4.71 a share.

He said half year operations were "notable" for the first increase in flight schedules, except for transcontinental all-cargo service, since American turned over a large part of its fleet to the army in the spring of 1942. The company flew 137,008,413 revenue passenger miles in the June quarter, compared with 113,004,840 a year earlier.

Fleet Nears 1942 Size.

The increased service resulted from the army's return of a small number of DC-3 transports. He said American's fleet of DC-3 planes was expected to total 73 by the end of October, compared with 79 early in 1942.

American made 1,290 South Atlantic crossings for the army air command in the 15 months ended June 30, Kemp disclosed, and North Atlantic crossings increased from 71 in January to 402 in June.

The Icicle, a weather reconnaissance plane, developed a technique for winter flying westbound across the North Atlantic, and served as a laboratory for testing flight engineering equipment, he said. It also supplied weather data for United States air forces in England.

Chrysler Gains Slightly.

K. T. Keller, president of Chrysler corporation, reported profit in the first half of 1944 was $12,673,146, equal to $2.91 a share, against $12,537,349, or $2.88 a share, a year earlier. Sales rose to $477,552,788 from $435,405,317.

Eastman Kodak company consolidated profit in the 24 weeks ended June 10 was $9,224,506, equal to $3.66 a share, compared with $8,532,590, or $3.38 a share, in the corresponding 1943 period, reported T. J. Hargrave, president. Business volume rose 12.5 per cent and sales to the government remained at "very high levels," Hargrave said.

Consolidated net income of B. F. Goodrich company in the six months ended June 30 was $5,244,308, equal to $3.23 a common share, compared with $5,573,879, or $3.49 a share, a year earlier. Net sales were $206,273,349, an increase of 15 per cent, and did not include the value of the output of government owned plants operated by the company.

HUDSON SALES HEAD TELLS OF POST-WAR PLANS

In one of the first open automobile industry meetings here to discuss the post-war outlook, George H. Pratt, general sales manager for the Hudson Motor Car company, yesterday told a group of dealers, distributors, bankers, and others in the Edgewater Beach hotel that Hudson is developing a broad expansion program to become effective when peace returns.

"We are assured of ample plant capacity to take care of the demand," Pratt said. "Our plants for five consecutive years produced an average of 271,312 Hudson cars annually."

The Hudson plants in the Detroit area are engaged 100 per cent in war production, but Hudson will be ready to swing into peace time activity with a minimum of delay when the word is given, he said.

Civil Radio Output Held Possible by November

Civilian radio production conceivably could start by November, in view of the war's progress, but the first quarter of 1945 seems a real probability, E. A. Tracey, president of Majestic Radio and Television corporation, told stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday. He said it appeared likely that the industry could reconvert in 60 days. The company showed a profit for June and July that exceeded profit for the entire year ended May 31, Tracey said. All directors were re-elected.

COUNCIL VOTES TRANSIT BID OF 84½ MILLIONS

Offer Goes to U. S. Court Today.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Without a dissenting vote, the city council yesterday adopted a resolution authorizing city representatives to make a formal offer of approximately 84½ million dollars for the properties of the surface and elevated lines. These properties, under a program supported by Mayor Kelly, are to be operated as well as owned by the city.

The offer, tentative but in great detail, will be presented today to Judge Michael L. Igoe of federal District court, with a request that he submit it to the security holders of the two companies.

Bankruptcy Issue Up Today.

Judge Igoe also is to hear today arguments on a proposal that the equity receivership of the surface lines, in existence since 1926, be ended and the company thrown into Chandler act bankruptcy. The city and some investor groups oppose any such change on the ground that it would delay fruition of the municipal ownership scheme.

This argument was scornfully rejected in a pro-bankruptcy petition filed with the court by Attorneys Joseph A. Struett and Charles B. Haffenberg, who described the city plan as only in "the embryonic stage" and as "perfect nonsense."

The petition related: "They want the court now, at least tacitly, to approve their plan, the sale price, and the allocation of the proceeds of the sale—before they even know whether the voters will approve the required ordinance; whether or not the Supreme court of Illinois will approve the legality of their entire project, and whether or not the bankers will furnish the money."

Must Beat Uncertainties.

Admittedly, the city must overcome these uncertainties, but its representatives maintain that the first step must be an agreement on price between them and the creditor owners of the two systems. It is also admitted that the offer must be contingent on referendum, legality, and finances.

Presenting the resolution to the council, Ald. Quinn [50th] said there was no hope of a private reorganization of traction facilities that promised any substantial program of modernization. He added that "new blood" was needed to run the properties; that they could not continue as they are. He said that the city and the security owners were in virtual agreement on the price to be paid.

Ald. Waller [43d] sought to amend the council resolution to make a publicly owned but not publicly operated unified company. His motion died for lack of a second.

Ald. Merryman [45th] asked why the Chicago Motor Coach company was not included in the plan and was informed that negotiations would be started as soon as the properties in court [the "L" is in bankruptcy] have been acquired.

Light Truck Applications Accepted Again by ODT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15 (AP).—The office of defense transportation today resumed acceptance of applications for purchase of new light motor trucks for essential civilian use. They were stopped last month because the civilian pool was exhausted. On Aug. 7, however, certain government agencies relinquished their claims, making some available for civilians.

Goods Demand Grows

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—Latin American countries have accumulated 1¼ billion dollars of foreign purchasing power and a pent-up demand for merchandise unavailable because of the war, the National Industrial Conference board reported today. The 20 Latin American lands in 1943 alone exported 1 billion 90 million dollars more goods than they received, the private research organization said.

A survey showed this reversal in the trend of United States-Latin American trade: In 1938, the 20 countries imported $27,600,000 more than they exported; in 1943 they sold $583,900,000 more than they bought.

Imports Will Ease Inflation.

War time exports of Latin America have brought both cash and credits, including blocked balances in Britain, and altho United States funds are not officially blocked, goods shortages have been similar in effect to Britain's action.

"The blocked foreign balances which are largely responsible for the inflation are due primarily to the inability to import goods," the board said. "Such goods will of course become available again once the war is ended, and the blocked balances will thus presumbaly be liquidated almost automatically, and with them much of the inflation itself."

Rich Field Will Open

BY JOHN ASTLEY-COCK.

Early ouster of what he termed Argentina's pro-Nazi government and the consequent opening of a rich post-war market were predicted yesterday by Franklin Johnston, president of the Johnston Export Publishing company. He spoke at the 22d annual institute of commercial and trade executives on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university.

"People seem to think that because Argentina is out of step with the rest of the hemisphere it is not worth cultivating after the war," he said. "This is contrary to the opinion of Americans long resident there who have not confused economic phenomena with those political."

Larger Imports Urged.

Johnston said the United States should stimulate imports as a means of increasing exports. The greatest handicap to the United States export trade is that it normally exports more than it imports, he said. As a result other countries are unable to obtain American credits with which to make purchases.

Johnston discredited the belief American industry cannot compete with cheap foreign labor. The domestic market makes possible mass production which results in economies offsetting much of the difference in wages, he said.

Stock Prices Close Uneven on War News

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—The allied invasion of southern France found the stock market prepared today altho it inspired some switching of accounts and peace issues responded better than those benefiting from the war.

Low priced motors, recently quiet, revived on the upside and accounted for increased activity. Prices turned uneven after a steady opening and the close was irregular.

Wall street, altho encouraged by the thought that the Nazi end was approaching, inclined to remain conservative pending developments on transitional plans of industry at home.

LOW PRICED RAILS DIP.

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—The new invasion in Europe caused liquidation among holders of speculative railroad bonds today, resulting in losses of fractions to about a point.

Other corporation loans, especially investment rated issues, ignored the selling in low priced rails and ended higher. Sales of $5,224,900, compared with $5,271,000 on Monday.

CHICAGO LIST HIGHER.

Price gains outweighed declines in increased turnover of 35,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Active issues included Chicago corporation, Nash-Kelvinator, Middle West corporation, and Standard Dredging, all unchanged. Chicago Flexible Shaft, among new 1944 highs, closed up ⅛ at 37¼.

People and Events

Officers of the Milwaukee road will attend a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman tomorrow for William Dolphin, superintendent of dining and sleeping cars since 1936, who retires today after 33 years with the railroad. Dolphin came to the United States from England with his family when he was four years old. After work in the dining car department of the Canadian Pacific railroad, he joined the Milwaukee in 1911 as a steward. B. J. Schilling, passenger department general agent in Chicago for 17 years, succeeds Dolphin, said J. T. Gillick, chief operating officer of the road.

E. F. Hamm Jr., publisher of the Traffic World, Chicago, has been appointed consultant, on a dollar a year basis, for the war production board. He will serve in the magazines and periodicals section of the printing and publishing division.

Henry J. Stentiford has been made general merchandise manager of the home furnishings department of the Chicago Mail Order company.

CHARGES RUBBER LOBBY SEEKS TO JUNK SYNTHETIC

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15 (AP).—Belief that representatives of governments of rubber-growing countries were in Washington "lobbying to induce us to junk our 750 million dollar synthetic rubber program" after the war was expressed today by Rep. Stefan [R., Neb.].

The Nebraskan said he was asking house members to disregard any arguments for abandonment of the synthetic program and urging its continued operation after the war.

EXPECT LITTLE CIVILIAN GOODS GAIN IN CHICAGO

Men and Material Needed for War.

Chicago manufacturers generally said yesterday that the war production board order Monday easing restrictions on the output of certain civilian items would aid little in increasing this type of production in the Chicago area. They agreed that the chief factors were scarcities of men and materials.

E. N. Hurley.

Many of the companies querried said they were largely in war production, some 100 per cent, and that they expected to remain so until a drastic change in war needs appeared.

Less Effect in Midwest.

John Nuveen Jr., director of WPB region VI., last night said the order would have less significance in this midwest region than elsewhere. Speaking before the Illinois Manufacturers' association in the Morrison hotel, he discouraged optimism about resumption of civilian production when he termed the area's labor situation "more critical than was anticipated last January."

"Region VI. is one of the tightest labor areas in the country," he asserted. "There is less need for civilian production here to maintain full employment than in any other area. The principal effect of the order on this region will be to help set up machinery for the reconversion period at the end of European hostilities."

Commenting on the "reputed battle" between the military and the WPB over resumed civilian production, Nuveen said there was no essential disagreement between them.

Ironer Application Filed.

E. N. Hurley, chairman of the board of Electric Household Utilities corporation, said his company yesterday made application to Washington to resume the production of ironing machines, for which it has a backlog of 300,000 ordered.

The company was 100 per cent in war work, he said, but would be able to produce some ironers by shifting men from the service department or shop maintenance.

Edison General Electric company, large peace time producer of electric ranges, one of the preferred items on the WPB list, said there was no prospect of its producing stoves in the immediate future, because it could not spare the man power from full time war work.

Another producer of electric appliances, McGraw Electric company, said the new order did not change its situation—100 per cent in war work.

To the Businessman Who Has a Commodity Problem

If you are a grower, merchant, processor or manufacturer, you undoubtedly have problems involving the commodities which are the raw material of your business. It is our business to help you solve these problems — here's how:

We realize that your situation is not quite the same as that of anyone else, even of others in the same field. Accordingly, if you will outline to us the nature of your requirements, with as much appropriate background as you wish, we will be able to advise you by adapting our general knowledge of the situation to your particular requirements.

That "general knowledge" is derived from several sources. First, some 60 of our 85 offices are located in areas where commodities are either grown or processed. An extensive wire system makes possible swift interchange of information gathered by all these offices. Extensive trade contacts all over the country are a further source of really valuable knowledge. Finally, the fact that we maintain a specialist in each commodity who has built his business lifetime around that particular staple insures intelligent, experienced interpretation of the information thus gathered.

As you see, this gives us a broad overall view of the whole commodity picture—denied to many businessmen who are too close to it "to see the forest for the trees".

Will you let us put this kind of top-flight commodity service to work for your business?

Sincerely yours,

duction but was not optimistic over the outlook. Largely in war work, the company doubted that many employees could be spared for civilian production.

John M. McClintock, president of the Stoker Manufacturers' association, said the order would not result in any Chicago production of stokers for home use because of lack of man power and the necessary type steel and motors. He said the AA-5 priority to be given by WPB would be no help in obtaining steel because of the large demand for steel for more critical items.

Hopes for More Hairpins.

A representative of Hump Hairpin company held some hope for increased production. He said the company was about 60 per cent engaged in war work, but would make more hairpins if it could get the materials.

A representative of International Harvester company said he believed the new order would have little effect on production of farm machinery [the WPB list included farm machinery, except tractors]. He said implement manufacturers had been producing under a quota system and that quotas for the 1944-'45 year were set before July 1. He said his company had not been notified of any increases.

Jenkins Explains Procedure.

Procedure for applications to produce civilian items was explained by Paul A. Jenkins, Chicago district manager of WPB.

Action of WPB field offices in granting applications will be subject to review by the area production urgency committee. Appeals will be screened by the WPB priorities division, and those that pass thru go to the urgency committee. This committee is composed of representatives of the military services, war man power commission, Smaller War Plants corporation, and WPB, and is controled by the military—which has opposed expanded civilian production.

This appeal procedure applies to plants hiring 100 or more persons. Plants hiring less than 100 will deal with the SWPC. Each case will be decided on its individual merits, Jenkins said.

U. S. STEEL DEBT CUT.

I am interested in the amount of United States Steel corporation's funded debt and its relationship to the investment position of the preferred stock.—S. C.

Answer: Consolidated capital obligations ranking ahead of United States Steel's $360,281,100 of $7 cumulative nonredeemable preferred stock have been steadily reduced since 1938. The reductions have been accomplished thru appropriations of income. Long term debt at the end of 1943 totaled $128,993,645, excluding amounts due within one year, compared with more than 233 millions five years before.

Meanwhile, consolidated earned surplus increased more than 129 millions to $376,683,185, and the corporation has made large additions to net working capital and reserves.

The retirement of prior obligations on such a scale improves the investment position of the capital stocks, other things being equal; but, aside from fixed charges on debts, there are other claims ranking ahead of the stocks to consider—wage and tax rates and the cost of materials. Wage and income tax rates are higher than five years ago, and average prices for steel lower.

The post-war investment standing of United States Steel preferred may be influenced by adjustments in these various items. Plant improvements such as the continuous rolling mills have increased operating efficiency.

In addition to the great value of the physical properties, the $519,342,099 net working capital as of Dec. 31 last was equal, after deducting long term debt and the relatively small minority interest in subsidiaries, to $107 a preferred share. Average earnings of the last 10 years were double regular preferred dividend needs.

NEGRO TROOPS ATTACK ITALIAN WAR PRISONERS

24 Hurt, 1 Found Hanged Near Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 15 (AP).—A Negro soldiers' raid on sleeping members of an Italian military service unit at Fort Lawton was reported officially tonight, and a port of embarkation statement said that "a short time following the fight the body of one of the Italian soldiers was found hanging from a near-by tree."

The military statement refrained carefully from placing responsibility for the hanging, and said an immediate investigation was launched after the incident last midnight.

24 Italians Injured.

Twenty-four of the Italians, who originally were brought to the United States as prisoners of war, were reported injured and hospitalized. A lesser number of the attackers, who were said to have been armed with rocks, were injured. The dead Italian was identified as Guglielmo Olivanta.

Military authorities said the attackers were arrested. The army statement said the possibility of suicide will be investigated.

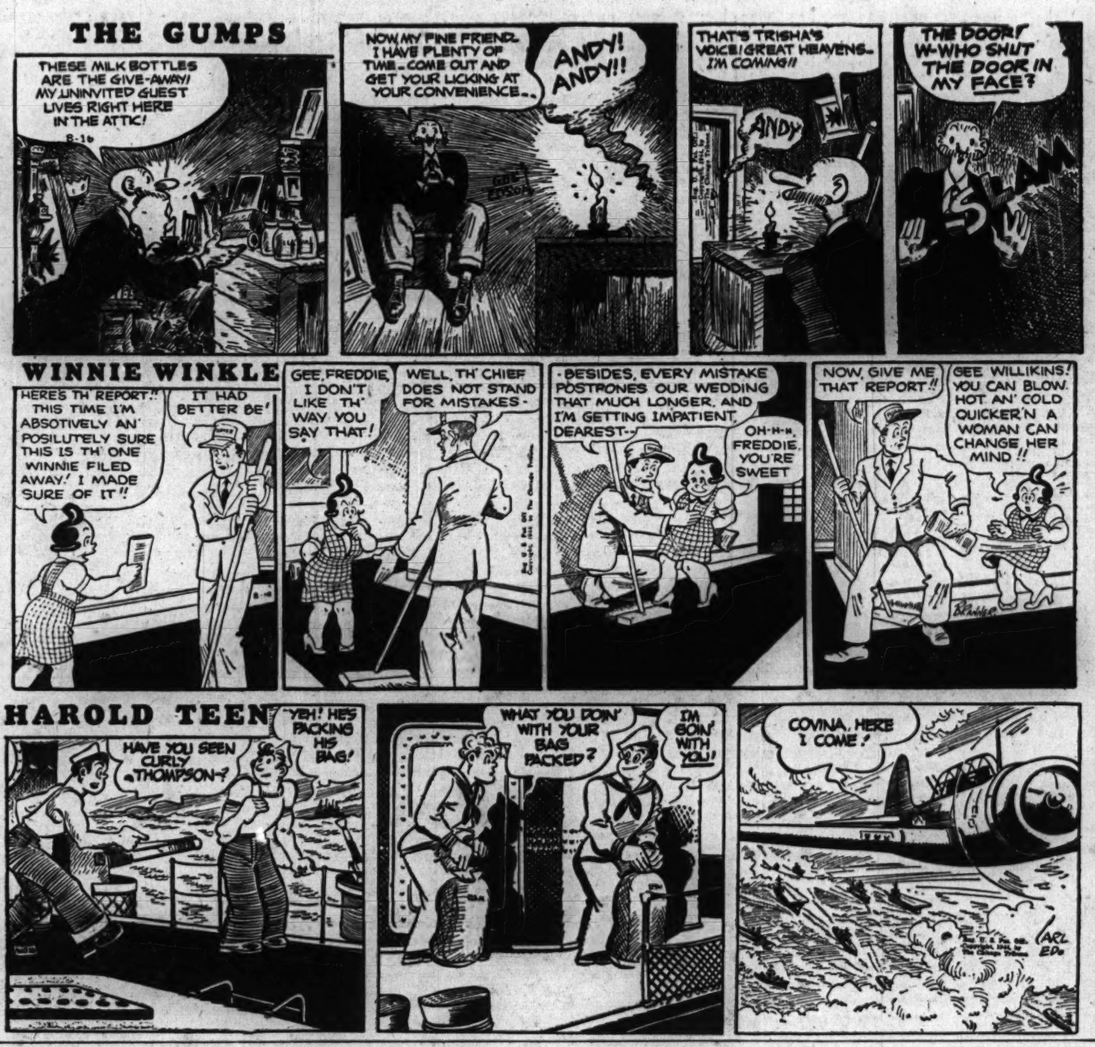
Recreation Criticized.

The Italian service units are composed of prisoners of war who have pledged allegiance to the allied cause. There has been some public criticism recently of the recreational privileges extended to the Italians, but military authorities explained that they are aiding the war effort by labor in behalf of the armed forces.



VIOLENCE MARS TRACTION SCENE IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP).—Two outbreaks of violence on Philadelphia Transportation company lines were reported today as the federal grand jury resumed its investigation of a strike that tied up the city's transit lines from Aug. 1 to 6 and resulted in race clashes.

A dozen Negro boys, leaving a bus after an argument over payment of fares, attacked Luke M. Hilburn, a war plant worker, police reported. Cruising police heard a woman's screams and rescued Hilburn and arrested one of the boys.

Jurors Hear Company Side.

The grand jury heard the company's version of the tie-up from Charles F. Eberts, executive vice president, who is general manager under the army. He spent the morning session in the jury room.

The army itself began an investigation of the story of Mrs. Dorothy Hibbs, 21, who said she was given no work after running a trolley the first two days after the strike ended. She said returned strikers subjected her to jeers while she waited in the car barn for work orders that did not come. She blamed organized pressure against those who obeyed the army's work ultimatum.

Motorman Faces Induction.

Thomas A. Quigley, 30, a motorman who ignored the ultimatum, was confronted with the prospect of induction into the army Thursday if physically acceptable, or of earning a living for his wife and two children in farm, domestic, state or federal government work—the only fields not covered by the wage stabilization program. Quigley was the only striker thus affected, his name being the only one referred by the army to the war man power commission.

An army spokesman said meantime that Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, war department representative in the operation of the lines, met this morning with the company's directors to "bring them up to date on the operations of the company since the army took over."

MANIAC SLASHES ONE MOTORIST, ABDUCTS SECOND

An apparent maniac, armed with a knife, attacked one motorist on the north side late yesterday, then a few minutes later kidnaped another man a few blocks away. He pushed the second man from his car a mile and a half away. The first victim was slightly cut.

John W. Gould.

The knife wielder first appeared at North av. and Dearborn st., at an entrance to Lincoln park, as Elmer Nordholm, 47, of 5748 N. Campbell av., a salesman, stopped for a red light. The man leaped on the running board of Nordholm's car, flourishing a knife.

Driver Cut on Hands.

"Keep driving or I'll cut you up," he shouted. He opened the door and lunged at Nordholm. The two struggled and Nordholm received knife cuts on both hands.

The maniac fled, going east in North av., then south in State st. In front of 1432 N. State, he entered the car of John W. Gould, 73, of 3530 McLean av., a semi-invalid. Gould's wife was in a near-by apartment fitting some slipcovers.

"Move over and drive," the maniac ordered, showing his knife. Gould protested he could not drive. The man then took over the wheel himself, and drove off. He forced Gould to hand over some change, then asked him, "If I return you, do you think your wife will give me $1,500?" Gould replied: "She won't give 15 cents."

Crashes Car Into Pole.

In front of 908 Willow st., the knifeman pushed Gould from his car. Gould was cut on the nose and elbow. At Cortland st. and Southport av., the assailant crashed Gould's car into a light pole. He was seen running away on foot.

Both Nordholm and Gould described him as "wild looking," about 30, 5 feet 6 inches tall, and weighing 150 pounds. His complexion was described as dark.

CITY WILL HELP RAISE $534,000 TO AID AIRPORT

After a conference with representatives of the eight major air lines using Chicago airport yesterday, Mayor Kelly and Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt agreed that an additional $534,000 will be necessary to complete the proposed new terminal building to be built at the northeast corner of the airport.

The mayor told the air line representatives that the city will try to raise part of the additional money. The air lines previously had agreed to advance $1,250,000 to the city for construction of the building, the money to be repaid by remission of landing fees.

SEVEN INJURED AS STREET CAR, TRUCK COLLIDE

The other six injured, all of whom were taken to Southtown hospital, were passengers on the street car. They are Peter Cawraco, 59, of 1030 S. Peoria st., possible neck fracture; Mrs. Helen Becker, 44, of 3842 Potomac av., possible fractured spine and pelvis; Victor Farrier, 50, of 4217 Arthington st., possible internal injuries; Mrs. Patricia Dobro, 50, of 2835 W. 24th st., possible fracture of right leg; Mrs. Rosalie Connors, 28, of 929 E. 46th st., bruised back, and Mrs. Violet Davis, 25, of 4659 Drexel blvd., sprained right shoulder.

O'Connell told New City police he fainted and lost control of his truck. This was corroborated by the street car motorman, Thomas Higgins, 6341 S. Campbell av.

Rosemary Shannon, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Shannon, of Richmond, McHenry county, died in the Woodstock hospital of injuries suffered Sunday when an automobile in which she was riding collided with a truck in Richmond.

SALUTE MARKS FORT DEARBORN MASSACRE RITES

A salute was fired by military police from Camp Skokie yesterday at the observance of the 132d anniversary of the Fort Dearborn massacre as a replica of the flag of 15 stars which inspired Francis Scott Key to write "The Star Spangled Banner," was raised at the Michigan av. bridge. Col. Carleton B. Cunningham, state president and vice president general of the Society of the War of 1812, a World War I. veteran, was general chairman.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Robert Collier Fergus, a trustee of the Chicago Historical society, representing Mayor Kelly; S. J. Michuda, city engineer of bridges; Col. Harry A. Musham, chairman of the Fort Dearborn memorial commission, which presented the flag, and Mrs. Alonzo N. Benn of the United Daughters of 1812, also spoke.

Vote to Close Tunnel Opening on La Salle St.

Approval was given yesterday by the city council finance committee to a proposal to close the mouth of the La Salle st. tunnel. The project, to be paid for from state motor fuel tax funds, will remove the traffic bottle neck at Randolph and La Salle sts. The plans call for closing the top of the tunnel, rather than filling it in.

New Copenhagen Strikes; Protest Killings by Nazis

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 15 (AP).—New strikes broke out today in many Copenhagen, Denmark, plants, including Burmeister Wain, shipbuilding center, in protest against the recent execution of 11 Danes by the Germans, thorities.

Pleads Guilty to Attack on Girl; Gets 2 to 5 Years

Thomas Caruso, 28, of 414 S. Lincoln av., Waukegan, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of attempted rape and was sentenced by Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady of Lake county to serve from two to five years in Joliet penitentiary. Caruso was seized on May 3 after he had attempted to attack a 19 year old girl in a Waukegan park.

Gunmen Rob Driver of $80 and $160 Worth of Liquor

Russell Olson, 4509 S. Elmwood av., Berwyn, a driver for the Republic Warehouse corporation, 2101 Wabash av., a liquor house, was robbed of $80 in cash and $160 worth of whisky yesterday by two gunmen. They boarded his truck in front of 3556 Division st.
